F.D.R. HAS SHED 'MASK,' FIGHT IS ON, SAYS DEWEY

Promises He Won't Pull Any Punches.

ON RADIO TONIGHT.

Gov. Dewey's speech in Oklahoma City, Okla., tonight will be broadcast over station WMAQ at 9 o'clock Chicago time.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Belen, N. M., Sept. 24.—Gov. Dewey, Republican Presidential nominee, stopped his eastbound train in this Rio Grande valley town today to reply to President Roosevelt's radio speech of last night.

The reply was a statement to reporters that the President now has "dropped the mask" of not campaigning "in the usual partisan sense" and that the battle of votes has reached the slugging stage. In a radio address tomorrow from Oklahoma City, Dewey said he will "feel free to examine his [Roosevelt's] record with unvarnished candor."

F. D. R. "Sunk to Charging Fraud."

"In six speeches since the opening of this campaign," Dewey told reporters, "I have started to show the course I believe our country should take in the critical years ahead of us. My opponent, in his speech last night, indicated that he has no program and has sunk to mere quoting from 'Mein Kampf' and to charges of 'fraud and falsehood.'

"It is now more clear than ever that four terms as President is too many for any man and that 16 years would be far too long.

"Since the man who wants to be President for sixteen years has now dropped the mask of a 'nonpolitical' campaign is campaigning on the remote past, I shall feel free to examine his record with unvarnished candor in the future.

'Nothing Will Deter Me.'

"Nothing will deter me, however, from continuing to preserve our national unity for war and for the building of the peace, or from presenting the forward looking program necessary if we are to have a successful America here at home."

Tomorrow night will be Dewey's seventh and final broadcast of a 6,700 mile, three week campaign tour distinguished by its many conferences and its comparatively few public appearances.

In addition to the Oklahoma City program, Dewey will go to Sapulpa, Okla., tomorrow night with Mrs. Dewey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orla Hutt. Tuesday morning there will be an official welcoming ceremony at Sapulpa; later a reception and conferences in Tulsa. That night the train will head east with nothing further on the candidate's schedule before its arrival Thursday in Albany, N. Y.

BRICKER IS BACK IN OHIO; TERMS TRIP A SUCCESS

Cleveland, O., Sept. 24 (AP).—Gov. Bricker returned to Ohio today pleasantly surprised by what he found on a 3,200 mile trip to the eastern seaboard in quest of the Vice Presidency.

The Republican candidate said in a statement as he stopped off here before proceeding to Columbus that his visit to Maine was made primarily for "inspiration" and to find out how the G. O. P. rolled up a 71 per cent majority in a recent state election.

"From the conversations I had," he commented, "it is my judgment that the people feel the problems of reconstruction and employment can best be met by a new administration.

"I am confident New England will be in the Republican column. I am sure of Pennsylvania."

Bricker plans to depart Oct. 1 on a four week 9,000 mile trip to the west coast.

Gaming Czar's Guard Slain in Michigan City

Harry Solomon Akchevoun, 48, of Joliet, reputed bodyguard of George Nahas, 44, Michigan City gambling czar, was shot and killed early yesterday by three masked gunmen who lay in ambush in Nahas' Michigan City home.

Nahas, operator of the Embassy club in Michigan City and reputed overlord of gambling in Lake county, Ind., and southern Cook county in Illinois, his wife, Jean, and Akchevoun had left the house at 11 p. m. Saturday, leaving the Nahas' 11 year old son, George Jr., asleep in bed.

Woman Sees Three Figures.

They returned at 2 a. m. yesterday and entered the house thru the kitchen door. The two men remained at the door while Mrs. Nahas crossed the kitchen to switch on the light on the opposite wall.

As she reached for the switch, Mrs. Nahas caught a glimpse of three shadowy forms, outlined in the moonlight that streamed thru the dining room windows.

She screamed and threw herself to the floor. At the same instant the three intruders opened fire with revolvers. Three bullets ripped into Akchevoun and one struck Nahas in the left hand.

The gunmen then fled thru the kitchen and to their automobile, parked a block and a half distant. Nahas, despite his wounded hand, pursued them and saw the car speed away.

Boy Bound and Gagged.

When he returned to the home, his wife informed him that their son was missing from his bed and that the room bore signs of a struggle. Continuing their search, they found the child. He had been bound and gagged and put in a clothes closet.

Police took Akchevoun to the Clinic hospital, where he was pronounced dead. From the child, who had been awakened by the breaking of a basement window but had lain frozen with terror in his bed, they learned that one of the intruders had entered thru the basement window and had admitted the other two thru the kitchen door.

Too terrified to scream the boy heard the prowlers move thru the house, he said, until they reached his own room.

Belt Stuffed in Mouth.

"I screamed then," he told police, "but one of them grabbed me and held my arms and another stuffed a belt from my mother's dress into my mouth."

The gag was secured with one of his father's shirts, with which his arms also were pinioned. Before locking him in the closet, one of the men placed a pillow and a sheet on the floor.

Police attributed the slaying to a flareup in a gambling war. Nahas, they said, is a "big operator" and has numerous lesser rivals.

Nothing Taken by Gunmen.

They said they believed that rival gamblers imported the gunmen from another city. Burglary was discounted as a motive, as the men were in the house for more than an hour but nothing was stolen, police said.

Police said Nahas had been arrested on gambling charges several times but had never been convicted. A brother, Joe Nahas, resides in Joliet, where both he and George Nahas were said by police to have gambling interests. Akchevoun recently moved from Joliet to Michigan City, where he had been living with Nahas.

CIVILIAN BUTTER IN STORAGE DIPS TO 29 YEAR LOW

All the butter civilians get in the next few months will be dependent on day-to-day production, the American Dairy association said yesterday, because the butter in storage, available for civilian use, has shrunk to the lowest figure in 29 years.

Of the total of 138,000,000 pounds in storage, the government has earmarked 126,000,000 pounds for its own use, leaving only 12,000,000 pounds for civilians, compared with a normal 178,000,000 pound stockpile for civilians at this time of year.

Even tho the government has announced it will quit buying butter next month until production climbs in the spring, the association said the immediate outlook is for a continued shortage for civilians despite the fact that milk production continues at normal levels.

The government is diverting huge quantities of butter fat from butter producers for powdered milk and other uses.

ITALY TO REOPEN MATTEOTTI MURDER CASE UNDER NEW LAW

ROME, Sept. 24 (AP).—Mario Berlinguer, high commissioner for the punishment of Fascist crimes, announced today he would seek a court order in a few days to reopen the Matteotti murder case—one of the blackest chapters in Benito Mussolini's rise to power. Berlinguer, who last week sent Pietro Caruso, Fascist police chief of Rome, to the firing squad, said a new Italian law provided for reopening of any case where it was shown that justice was not done under the old regime.

Six Fascists who participated in the slaying of Giacomo Matteotti, Socialist deputy who was an archfoe of Mussolini, were convicted of the killing in 1926. They were given sentences of from five months to two years, then granted amnesty.

One of the defendants, Aldo Putato, is now held for trial with Cesare Rossi, member of the high Fascist group accused of planning the slaying. Other principals are in northern Italy, abroad, dead, or have disappeared.

LODGE MEMBER, 72, WILL PADDLE KAYAK 6½ MILES

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 24—[Special].—Louis Pierron, 72, residing on Pierron's Island in the Milwaukee river, will paddle a kayak, an Eskimo type canoe, 6½ miles from his home to the meeting Tuesday night of the Mystic Knights of the Blue Ox, it was announced today by Louis A. Maier, international president.

The society was formed to perpetuate stories of Paul Bunyan, mythical hero of the lumberjack.

Allies Cave In Eastern Half of Gothic Defenses in Italy

ROME, Sept. 24 (AP).—Mighty blows of the United States 5th and British 8th armies caved in the entire eastern half of the 115 mile Gothic line and today the Germans were in disorganized retreat from their fortifications before American forces surging to within 15 miles of Bologna.

Doughboy assault forces were sweeping down some of Italy's highest peaks to within sight of the broad valley of the Po after a 10 day battle which, an official account said, "left the Gothic defense zone a shattered mass of rubble and battered fortifications still littered with the bodies of the slain defenders."

Futa Pass Falls Swiftly.

Futa pass, 28 miles south of Bologna, key to the center of the Gothic line and one of the toughest of German defenses, fell with bewildering swiftness. Doughboys scaling heights on the east and west of the pass had made untenable the positions of Germans trying to hold the gap.

Concerted assaults by the two allied armies, an allied bulletin said, "have forced the enemy to abandon the whole of the prepared positions of his Gothic line except for the sector west of Futa pass."

The American spearhead, eight miles closer to the important communications center of Bologna than reported yesterday, is now past the Apennine watershed, "the last major barrier for many miles," the official report added.

Drive Nets 2,600 Prisoners.

"The determined advance netted 2,600 prisoners and resulted in the slaying of thousands caught in merciless artillery concentrations."

The 5th and 8th army drives were picking up speed as the ground dried after recent storms. Allied war planes thundered over the Po valley, destroying the bridges along seven enemy escape routes.

A frontline dispatch said the doughboys had battered thru what were considered the strongest of the Gothic fortifications, built by the Todt organization in nine months of feverish toil.

Resistance was crushed north of the mountain town of Firenzuola, six miles east of Futa pass.

Canadians Push Up Adriatic.

British troops covering the American east flank seized Monte Cascialo, Monte Carneoalone, and Giogi di Villone, all about 25 miles northeast of Florence.

While one Canadian column drove straight up the Adriatic coast in a four mile march from Rimini, the 8th army turned strong forces westward to clear the Germans from dominating heights on the edge of the Po plain and opened the ancient Via Emilia highway northwest to Bologna.

British units captured San Giustina and cut the Rimini-Bologna railway four miles west of Rimini.

Indian troops crossed the Marecchia river and attacked the enemy strongpoint of Sant' Arcangelo, seven miles west of Rimini, and the mountain village of Poggio Berni, three miles farther southwest.

First Week for Brazilians.

Prisoners taken by the 8th and 5th armies in the current offensive passed the 10,000 mark. The 8th knocked out 54 German tanks.

The Brazilian expeditionary force, first from South America ever to fight on European soil, ended its first week in the line today with a net gain of 10 miles north of Pisa along the west sea coast.

The Brazilians, who met no opposition in the first days, caught up with the enemy rearguards and were engaged in stiff fighting on Monte Prano, 17 miles north of Pisa.

Italian patriots were reporting rising in the industrial north along the lines of enemy retreat toward the Brenner pass into Germany.

[The Paris radio said patriots had occupied Domodossola, a town on a railway northwest of Milan near the Simplon pass leading into Switzerland.]

U.S. CHUTISTS BATTLE INSIDE REICH BORDER

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—The encircled British air borne force west of Arnhem, has received "limited assistance" from allied troops battering their way to the rescue and their position is "definitely brighter," allied headquarters reported tonight, confirming frontline dispatches from Holland.

The aid to the beleaguered force came when a thin corridor was established from Nijmegen to the south bank of the Neder Rhine [the Lek] and some Polish troops crossed the river last night in rubber assault boats to contact the British. Headquarters said the morale of the British was high.

"Americans were engaged in stiff fighting on German soil at one point" somewhere east of Nijmegen, a delayed censored dispatch from Nijmegen said. A radio correspondent said "American paratroops have been fighting in Germany for a week southeast of Nijmegen," and "we hold at least a square mile of Nazi territory."

Within 8 Miles of Kleve.

This push into Germany apparently was within some eight miles west of Kleve, northern anchor of the Siegfried line.

American troops under the 2d army command yesterday captured the village of Beek, less than a mile inside Germany southeast of Nijmegen. This advance would put the Americans on the main road into the Rhineland, headed for Kleve. There were reports the Americans actually had captured Beek a week ago but had not discovered until yesterday that they were inside Germany.

British tanks and infantry have smashed a German road-block on the Eindhoven-Nijmegen road to reopen supply lines. This improved the allied position considerably. American forces holding the Nijmegen area have been reënforced by the new glider troops which arrived yesterday.

Corridor 4 to 5 Miles Wide.

The first contact with the encircled air borne force was made in darkness. Details of the river crossing were few, but it was known that the Poles brought at least a message of hope to the trapped men who have been fighting night and day for a week without respite. The situation around the vital Arnhem bridge was obscure.

The corridor thrusting north from Eindhoven was four to five miles wide at its narrowest points and the German threat to sever it was ended, a dispatch from the 2d army said.

The Germans struck violently in the Arnhem area, seeking to wipe out the British air borne division.

It was anticipated that the 1st allied air borne army, with the reënforcements flown in yesterday, and the British 2d army soon would be able to launch a new offensive in the Arnhem vicinity. The Germans

50 DUTCHMEN LAND ON MOROTAI ISLE TO RULE 10,000 NATIVES

WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT MOROTAI, Sept. 23 [Delayed]—(AP).—Fifty Dutch civil government representatives landed here with American invasion forces on Sept. 15 to reëstablish the Netherlands East Indies civil administration.

Led by Maj. J. G. Wegner of the Hague, they represent the N. I. C. A. [Netherlands Indies civil administration].

Their function is to establish governmental administration for 10,000 Morotai natives under the supervision of a task force commander.

NIMITZ LISTS 183 VESSELS SUNK IN THREE WEEKS

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 24 (AP).—Total losses to the Japanese navy in the two day strike at Manila bay by American carrier based planes last Wednesday and Thursday were given by Adm. Nimitz today as follows:

Ships sunk	40
Small craft sunk	6
Ships probably sunk	11
Ships damaged	35
Small craft damaged	11
Floating drydocks damaged	2
Aircraft destroyed in combat	169
Aircraft destroyed on ground	188
Planes damaged on the ground	45
Planes damaged by ships' gunfire	3

American losses were announced as 15 planes on Wednesday and 11 on Thursday, total 26. Several pilots were rescued Wednesday, and all but 15 flyers were saved Thursday.

The revised box score of total damage inflicted on the Japanese from Aug. 30 thru Sept. 21 in sweeps over the Bonin and Volcano Islands, the Palau group and the Philippines, was given by Nimitz as follows:

Ships sunk	122
Small craft sunk	61
Ships damaged	137
Small craft damaged	109
Total	429
Planes destroyed in air	380
Planes destroyed aground	598
Total	978

These figures exclude 87 damaged planes, which makes the total aircraft lost to the Japanese in that period 1,065.

American combat losses in all these actions:

Planes destroyed	51
Pilots lost	37
Air crewmen lost	20

North Chicago Soldier Plays Tag with TNT

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE U. S. 5TH ARMY IN THE GOTHIC LINE, Italy, Sept. 24.—Buddies of Pvt. 1st Class Rudolph Lindich of 1545 Commonwealth av., North Chicago, Ill., are beginning to wonder how long he can maintain his record for indestructibility.

Lindich has had more narrow escapes than any man in his division since it ripped into the Gothic line 14 days ago. The first came when he volunteered to leave his foxhole to go to a stream near-by for water. While he filled canteens, German artillefy dropped 20 large caliber shell bursts into the area where he was sprawled flat on his face. Trees were cut down all around him but he was untouched.

Foxhole Hit, but He's Gone.

A few days later he left a foxhole to crawl over to another, where a friend was crouching. When he returned he found a German 88 millimeter gun had scored a direct hit on his foxhole. Then only a day ago he was resting in still another foxhole on a ridge overlooking famous Futa pass, one of the heaviest fortified positions in the Gothic line, which is now in American hands, when another 88 mm. shell struck only 10 feet away. An eight inch piece of shrapnel drove thru loose earth and fell into a hole beside him.

Another Lucky Chicagoan.

Another Chicagoan, Pvt. 1st Class Frank Zawila, 3144 W. 41st st., gained fame thruout the division yesterday. Zawila and another soldier were ordered to search a farmhouse passed by the division during its advance. Attempting to push the door open, Zawila found it blocked by some heavy object. Jumping to the conclusion that a German was hiding behind it, he raised his tommy gun to fire thru the door but then changed his mind. Both soldiers heaved mightily and finally forced the door open enough so they could peer around it and see what was blocking it.

It was a 155 mm. American shell which had smashed in thru the wall, then failed to explode.

2 DAY RAID ON MANILA BAGS 405 AIRCRAFT

Enemy Fleet Quits Philippines.

PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Sept. 24 (AP).—Carrier planes of the Halsey-Mitscher naval team have forced the Japanese fleet to withdraw from the Philippines and have "broken" their air force in the islands, Adm. Nimitz said today in announcing the second consecutive devastating raid on the Manila area last Thursday.

Attacking again in force, the American flyers sank 29 more ships in the Manila bay area, damaged 20, sank or damaged 16 small craft, and destroyed or damaged 200 airplanes, with a loss of only 11 planes and 15 men. This brought the total of ships sunk or damaged in the two day strike to 103.

86 Ships Knocked Out.

In the first day's assaults the American planes sank 11 Jap ships, probably sank 26, besides damaging a floating drydock, and destroyed 205 enemy planes, 110 of them in combat. Fifteen American planes were lost on Wednesday, but several of their crewmen were rescued, Nimitz reported last week.

The total Japanese losses for the Sept. 20-21 strikes were: 86 ships put out of action, 17 smaller craft, two drydocks, and 405 planes.

Both assaults were directed at the Manila bay area, Cavite naval base, nine miles across the bay from Manila; Nichols air field, near the city, and Clark air field, 60 miles north.

[While Nimitz has confirmed only the first two raids on the Philippines so far, the Japanese radio indicates that the attack has continued for five days without a letup. Luzon and the central Philippines were hit Saturday, and the cities of Cebu and Legaspi were bombed Sunday, according to the Japs.]

Flyers "Hit Jackpot."

The second strike, Sept. 21, apparently was a big surprise to the Japanese. They put fewer planes in the air to intercept the hundreds of American carrier planes.

The figures indicated the defenders on the second attack probably were only half as many as the first, with a score of 110 planes downed Wednesday against 59 the following day.

American flyers, finding so many ships in Manila harbor on the second day, said they felt as if they were hitting the jackpot.

Speculate on Source.

Where the new shipping came from is causing speculation which ranges from the possible arrival of new convoys at night to a big transfer of vessels from other Philippine islands in the possible belief that Adm. Halsey could not keep his 3d fleet in enemy waters so long.

In addition to the heavy damage inflicted on shipping and aircraft, Nimitz reported that Vice Adm. Mitscher's carrier planes did "extensive and widespread damage to buildings, warehouses, railroad equipment, oil storage tanks, harbor installations, tankers, shop and stored supplies and equipment," presumably on Clark and Nichols fields.

Disrupts Communications.

Concluding his bulletin, Nimitz asserted:

"Operations of the 3d fleet have forced the enemy to withdraw his naval forces from their former anchorages in the Philippines and to seek new refuge in the same general area; have disrupted inter-island communications, and have broken his air force in the Philippines just as operations of the 5th fleet broke the enemy carrier based air force in the battle of the Philippines sea."

Adm. Raymond A. Spruance commands the 5th fleet. Mitscher was his carrier force commander in the battle of the Philippines sea June 19-20.

Destroy 13 Jap Barges.

Chichi and Haha Islands in the Bonin Islands were bombed on Sept. 22 by 7th army air force Liberators. Iwo in the Volcano Islands was attacked twice. Pagan, Nauru, Mili, Jaluit, and Wotje Islands also were attacked.

American warships frustrated a Japanese attempt to reënforce their beleaguered forces on Peleliu Island Saturday, destroying a convoy of 13 barges and one motor sampan carrying men and equipment, a later navy press release announced. A few of the enemy probably swam ashore on the north end of Peleliu.

A United States cruiser also bombarded two camouflaged Japanese ships the same day in Malakal harbor in the heart of the Palau Islands. At least one direct hit was scored on these ships, which previously had been damaged by airplanes.

Malakal, lying south of the administrative island of Koror, is the main harbor in the Palau group, called Japan's "Singapore."

The 1st marines made small gains on both flanks of Peleliu. Soldiers of the 81st army division continued their mopping up operations on Angaur Island, six miles south.

TWO CITIES BOMBED—JAPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Carrier based American planes struck again Sunday at the Philippines, Domei news agency announced in a Tokyo broadcast, and Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma, former Japanese commander in chief in the islands, called upon 18,000,000 Filipinos "to rise as one to crush American aggressors trying to infringe upon their territorial integrity and independence."

"Several cities in the central Philippines, including Legaspi and Cebu," were attacked, said a Domei broadcast. The attacks were the fifth in as many days on targets in the Philippines by American planes from task force carriers.

Domei said 200 American planes carried out the Sunday morning bombing attacks and "the extent of the losses inflicted on the enemy by our interceptors is not yet known, as details of the raid still are under investigation."

MacArthur Bombs Celebes.

ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Sept. 25 [Monday] (AP).—Allied heavy bombers dropped 105 tons of explosives on Dutch Celebes in an attack reported by headquarters today. Japanese interception was negligible.

Meanwhile PT boats tightened their blockade of by-passed Japanese forces on Halmahera Island. The audacious patrolers strafed shore defenses. They have sunk at least two Japanese supply and troop laden craft in Morotai strait between Halmahera and American occupied Morotai Island.

Fighter sweeps over Ceram, another heavily hit Japanese base, destroyed or damaged 11 luggers and barges and many small craft.

DONALD NELSON RETURNS FROM CHINA MISSION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Donald M. Nelson returned from his Presidential mission to China today, enthusiastic about the prospects of increasing that nation's industrial war contribution but remaining silent about his plans and prospects in the war production board. He expects to go to China again before the end of the year.

Nelson expects to report results of his mission to President Roosevelt in a day or two.

He said he brought back with him a set of recommendations he had submitted to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, and which the Chinese leader approved for increased war production.

Chicago Sergeant Makes Battery of Plasti-Glass

AT AN ARMY AIRFORCE SERVICE COMMAND in Italy.—Staff Sgt. Earl M. Knutson, 2916 Neva av., Chicago, and Sgt. Emmit J. Liston of Sturgis, Mich., are members of an air depot unit winning laurels for "keeping 'em flying." By ingenious methods, mostly devised among themselves, they have created plane parts which, theoretically, cannot be obtained. Among their emergency contributions is a replacement battery made of plastiglass which they found practical when many planes were grounded because of a battery shortage.

Two Illinoisans Cited for Daring in Normandy

WITH U. S. TROOPS IN FRANCE.—Seven American infantry men, members of a battalion wire section, have been cited for "daring achievement against an armed enemy of the United States." Operating under enemy fire the unit laid and maintained a communications system during the battles of the hedgerows in Normandy. The group included Corp. Edward J. Engebrecht, 1308 32d av., Melrose Park, and Pvt. Magnus H. Goebel of Granville, Ill.

UNRRA TO HELP IN REMOVAL OF 'INTRUDER' NAZIS

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 24 (AP).—On the request of any of the invaded nations of Europe, the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration plans to assist in returning the two to two and one-half million "intruder" Germans who are expected to be found living in other countries, such as Poland and the Netherlands, as a result of the German war policy of colonization. The principle was recommended here today by UNRRA's committee on displaced persons. The committee also recommended that Germany be made to pay for the transportation of these colonists.

There has been determined effort here by European delegates to prevent use of any UNRRA funds on Germans. But in this case they agreed that the presence of Germans in the homes of allied citizens, such as the 200,000 Germans who took over French homes in Alsace-Lorraine, might block the return home of people the Germans made homeless.

One UNRRA official, in a press conference, made clear that UNRRA will be merely responsible for transporting these "intruded" Germans. It would not furnish them clothing and medical care such as will be given allied persons while they are waiting return home, and in transit.

Japs Order Civilians Out of Cities in Formosa

CHUNGKING, China, Sept. 25 [Monday] (AP).—Chinese reports reaching here say Japanese military authorities in Formosa, fearing allied air attacks, have ordered the evacuation of all non-essential civilians from cities. At the same time all able bodied persons in Formosa between 16 and 45 have been conscripted into the Japanese home guard and those from 10 to 15 years old have been drafted into the labor corps.

AUSSIES LIMIT USE OF ARMY IN PACIFIC FIGHTING

Restrict Half of Troops to Prescribed Area.

Altho the Australian army now has an approximate strength of 750,000 men, only 380,000 of these, constituting the Australian imperial forces, will be available for the conquest of the Philippines and Japan, and the liberation of China and the Malay peninsula, including Singapore.

This is because the activity of the Australian militia and conscripted soldiers is limited by parliamentary decree to the area south of the equator and between the 110th and 159th meridians, and then only when a combat area within this zone is specified by proclamation.

These lines describe a square roughly embracing Australia, New Guinea, the southern part of Borneo and the eastern tip of Sumatra.

Japs Already Driven Out.

Outside the permissible combat area for Australian conscripted troops are the Philippines, Japan, and Formosa,, the Carolines, Marshalls, and part of the Gilbert Islands, the Malay peninsula, French Indo-China, Burma, China, and New Zealand. The Japanese already have been driven from virtually the entire area prescribed as combat area for Australian conscripted troops.

The approximate division in strength between the Australian imperial forces, composed of soldiers who have volunteered to fight anywhere, and the militia, or conscripted troops, was confirmed yesterday by the local office of the British Information service, which emphasized that the figures are not the latest, altho they are believed to be substantially correct.

Law Revised Last Year.

Originally, the Australian militia was confined to combat within the limits of continental Australia and a few possessions. Early in 1943, however, Prime Minister John Curtin proposed a revision of the law and parliament agreed.

The Australian 6th, 7th and 9th divisions served with the British forces in Egypt during the campaign against Rommel. All these divisions were subsequently returned to Australia. Australian regular forces likewise aided in the unsuccessful defense of Singapore in 1941.

The minimum draft age in Australia is 18, but no recruits under 19 are permitted to go overseas or to serve in combat areas.

TIRES TAKEN OFF AUTO.

Walter Peart of 2627 Monroe st. told police yesterday that thieves during the night had stripped his automobile of its tires and rims and had removed an outboard motor from the back seat.

JAPS' KWEILIN DRIVE STALLED, SAYS CHUNGKING

Foe Halts 40 Miles from Base.

CHUNGKING, Sept. 25 [Monday] (AP).—A danger that the Japanese might be outflanking Kweilin, key city of northern Kwangsi province, was indicated by the high command in an announcement today.

The announcement said the Japanese were striking southward from Chuanhsien on the Hunan-Kwangsi railway, 67 miles northeast of Kweilin. It is believed the invaders plan to swing southwestward from Kwanyang to cut the railway south of Kweilin, a maneuver which not only would neutralize Kweilin, but also would threaten the equally vital town of Liuchow, 90 miles further south.

Engage Jap Column.

A bulletin issued earlier said the Japanese drive was stalled 40 miles northeast of Kweilin.

The bulletin said another Japanese column striking out from Wuchow, 140 miles west of Canton and 140 miles southeast of Kweilin, had been engaged by Chinese troops nine miles northeast of Wuchow.

Chungking observers said the slow down of the Japanese drive toward Kweilin probably indicated the enemy was massing fresh forces.

Destroy 8 Jap Planes.

The U. S. 14th air force in a review for the week ending Sept. 20 said planes of the Chinese-American wing in pounding enemy supply and communication lines encountered only light air opposition.

"Ample Japanese aircraft were within range of the active fronts but the enemy was hesitant to commit his planes to combat," the report said. American aircraft destroyed eight enemy planes in combat and probably destroyed five others and damaged 24.

26,600 Tons of Shipping Sunk.

In the same week 14th air force planes sank 26,600 tons of Japanese shipping, excluding 209 transport and cargo vessels of less than 100 feet in length. Two ocean-going vessels totaling 1,700 tons and 25 other miscellaneous vessels probably were sunk.

The Japanese have evacuated Pingka, a prime objective in the allied drive to join up with forces in Burma and reopen a supply route to China, the high command said.

The garrison at Pingka, 22 miles southeast of the Burma road town of the Mangshih in Yunnan province, long had been isolated, and it withdrew yesterday along with a relief column which arrived from Mangshih the day before, the announcement said. Two other big objectives, Tengchung and Sungshan, previously have been captured.

Patrols Active in Burma.

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Sept. 24 (AP).—Chinese patrols in northern Burma are active in the area south of Kazu, 15 miles south of the allied base of Myitkyina, headquarters announced today.

At the same time the bulletin said British patrols were active in the Nimma area directly south of Myitkyina.

Report Portuguese Troops Ready to Hit Timor Japs

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—A Portuguese division is now in the Southwest Pacific ready to move in on Timor, Japanese-held Portuguese possession, when the time comes, a CBS correspondent reported from Madrid this afternoon.

MIDWEST PASTOR ORDERED TO LEAVE INDIA FOR 'POLITICS'

NEW DELHI, Indina, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Rev. R. P. Keithahn of Fairmont, Minn., was charged by the Indian government today with taking an active part in Indian politics and ordered to leave the country. Keithahn arrived in India in 1925 and for the last five years lived with his wife and two children in the village of Kengery, near Bangalore. Recently he severed his connection with the American Madura mission, dressed in Indian clothes, ate Indian food and lived in a small native hut and became associated with the student movement of southern Inia.

THIS AD was run by a prominent New York store. The buyer* referred to, who was responsible for the better-fitting shirts, is an officer of Capper & Capper. Our customers were the first men in America to enjoy the marked advantages of these shirts five years ago . . . and every shirt in our store since that time has been made this new and better way.

Capper & Capper LTD.

A shirt story with a happy ending

There was once a very persistent and insistent shirt buyer* who kept firing questions at shirt manufacturers.

"Why?" he asked. "Why must a shirt be cut on straight lines, like a flour bag? Why must it hang on a man instead of fitting him? Why don't you cut a shirt on curves, like a man's coat? Then it would fit smoothly and look neat."

The answers he usually got were: (1) It would cost too much. (2) It would mean turning the factory upside down. (3) It was strictly a custom-maker's stunt. (4) Why change, anyway?

But one shirt outfit . . . Excello . . . leaped on the idea without a single argument; reorganized their plant methods, and in due time produced a line of shirts that offered the first real improvement since the days of the surrey with the fringe on top.

Form Fashion Shirts by Excello are cut on curves like a coat. They fit the actual curves of the human body. They fit smoothly, without a single unnatural wrinkle or bulge.

That was about 3 years ago. Since then, thousands of New York men hail Form Fashions as the closest relation to custom-mades, without the sting of custom-made prices. Why don't you try a few yourself?

MARAUDER GUNS MASSACRE JAPS IN JUNGLE WAR

Enemy Piled in Heaps at Burma Battle.

(Merrill's Marauders cover themselves with glory in their first major mission behind Japanese lines in Burma. This, the eighth chapter of their exploits, tells their slaughter of veteran Jap warriors in the historic battle of Walawbum. The narrator, a Chicagoan, fought with the Marauders thruout the Burmese campaign.]

BY S/SGT. WM. J. ANDERSON.
Composite Unit 5307 [Merrill's Marauders], United States Army.
As told to CHARLES LEAVELLE.
[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

When our scouts returned from the Walawbum side of the Nambyu river on Sunday, March 5, 1944, they reported the Japs apparently were going to try to wipe us out. Artillery and big 90 mm. mortars were being set up and several companies of Jap veterans from Singapore were moving into position.

The bank on our side of the river was at least 20 feet high. From our entrenchments along it, we could look across the muddy stream and into a flat field that fringed the jungle whose undergrowth shielded the gun emplacements. We set up our machine guns and mortars, with Browning and M-1 [Garand] riflemen between them. The mortar men ripped open shell cases and piled projectiles behind their pieces.

Prepare for Jap Attack.

The day passed quietly except for the rumble of Jap trucks on the Walawbum road beyond the field and river. Reënforcements still were moving up to the force opposing Lt. Gen. Stilwell's Chinese, several miles to the north. It was our job to block that road, then harass the Jap garrison from the rear, while Stilwell's forces pushed in to take the town. We were told the Chinese would relieve us in 24 hours. We then were to pull out and again head in a southerly direction, cutting around the Jap forces to attack them from the rear at a new place farther down.

A platoon was chosen for the road blocking job and the rest of us settled down to await the Jap attack. But Sunday and Sunday night passed uneventfully. We could hear Jap preparations continuing, however. The attack would come Monday.

About 9 a. m., the mortar command sent a walkie talkie man into a high tree to see what cooked and—if anything did—to direct mortar fire. His reports began immediately. He could see gun emplacements and considerable activity beyond the field, he said. Suddenly, his calm voice broke off.

Lead Poured on Enemy.

"Holy smoke!" he yelled. "I never saw so many Japs. They're coming out of the jungle and into the field the other side of the high grass. Get set. I'll tell you when." Men snuggled rifles to their shoulders. Machine gun crews lay tense and ready. Then, suddenly, we could see them: Lithe, dark faced men in tan uniforms, moving stealthily toward the river across the field. At the same instant, our man in the tree shouted: "Let 'em have it!" We did.

Every square foot of that field must have been hit by the torrent of lead we unleashed. The crashing of small arms fire was punctuated by the stuttering roar of the machine guns and the harsh clap of bursting mortar shells. Japs went flat all over the field. A new wave of men sprang from the jungle, some of them picking up machine guns and ammunition boxes the dying had dropped. Another wave followed these. Our relentless fire cut them down. But still the Japs came.

Japs Lie in Heaps.

Jap machine guns opened up now, but their bullets imbedded themselves in the bank or sang over our heads. They tried mortars next. The first bursts were short, sending up geysers of muddy river water. The next went over our heads, some exploding among our pack mules at the rear, killing and wounding several and causing a near stampede. Meanwhile, the ground forces kept charging and we kept giving them everything we had. Dead and wounded now lay in heaps all over the field.

For 25 minutes, the slaughter went on. Then, abruptly, the Japs stopped shooting and retired into the jungle. We threw a few mortar shells after them before we, too, shut down. As the gunfire ceased, we could hear terrible cries and shrieks of the wounded. Some of them were flopping around in the field like chickens. Their comrades ignored them.

We knew, of course, that the Japs would attack again, so we made ready. We cleaned and oiled hot guns and refilled the machine gun water jackets. The mortar men tore open more shell cases. By the time this was done, we had worked up quite an appetite and were glad to hear a 1st sergeant announce:

Jap Supply Road Blocked.

While we were eating we got wonderful news. The Jap supply road was blocked, having been blown in two by the demolition squad of the platoon that went out earlier. Several fellows said they had heard two heavy explosions south of Walawbum in the fight. The Jap forces to the north now were cut off from their supplies. If they should send any men back to help out the Walawbum garrison, it would be all the better for Stilwell, we figured. We learned later that was exactly what did occur—at great cost to the Japs.

Noon passed and nothing happened. Later on, we heard trucks come in from the north. After that, there were sounds of digging over near the edge of the jungle. Then silence once more.

Japs Renew Assault in Waves.

The Jap attack came without warning. Simultaneously, machine guns and mortars opened up along the fringe of the jungle. And, now, from behind them came the jarring thud of field guns. Shells screamed over our heads to burst half a mile back of us.

The first dense wave of infantry sprang out, followed almost immediately by another, then another. A fourth wave was poised at the edge of the swamp. We were up against a real force this time. Knee mortars began kicking out grenades that burst along the parapets of our position. Rifle fire from the jungle sent bullets whining just over our heads. Two men were hit. A grenade damaged one of our heavy water-cooled machine guns, but it kept firing.

We were giving them the morning treatment all over again and they went down in piles. We sowed that field with lead from end to end, but the Japs kept charging into it. Some were lucky enough to get all the way across before they fell. Some of the dying actually tumbled into the river, but none got close enough to try a crossing. I could hardly believe my eyes. But on they came.

Yank Calls Foe Crazy.

"They're nuts, I tell you," shouted a kid near me as he changed magazines. "Plain nuts. I don't know what . . ." The rest of the sentence was drowned by the roar of his gun. I was emptying my rifle and reloading as fast as I could—and still Japs poured out of the jungle screen.

We had a little diversion now. Henry Gosho, a Minnesota born Japanese, who served as our interpreter, had been brought up to listen to and interpret Jap commands. But since the Japs were yelling nothing but "Susume! [Charge!]" and "Banzai!"—their battle cry—there was nothing for Henry to do. So he began yelling insults at the enemy in their own tongue. His shrill, powerful voice carried across the river thru the din of shooting. The Japs who heard him howled with rage and brandished the rifles they should have been shooting.

Then Ammunition Runs Low.

I didn't wonder, after I was told what Henry had been saying about the ancestry and personal tendencies of Hirohito and Tojo. I was a little shocked, as a matter of fact. Henry, however, was having the time of his life.

Meanwhile, the sun had sunk low in the western sky and was shining directly in our faces, but we could still see our targets. It began to seem that the entire Jap army was moving out of the jungle into the death swept field. I emptied my last clip and called for more ammunition. At the same time, I heard an officer asking if any one could spare a few clips for other men up the line. Then another ordered that all available grenades be handed over for use farther down. I asked him if we were running out of ammunition. He nodded grimly without speaking.

FINNS CAPTURE PART OF TOWN FROM GERMANS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 24 (AP).—Four Finnish divisions, battling their former comrades in arms, have captured part of Suomussalmi in northeastern Finland from the Germans and are continuing to make progress in ejecting an estimated 100,000 Austrians and Nazis from the area, a Helsinki bulletin said today.

[The broadcast bulletin as heard in New York added that Finnish troops were approaching Puolanka. It said progress had been slowed by German demolitions.]

A newspaper correspondent in the area said the Finnish high command was hopeful of completing the job of driving out the Germans within four weeks without help from the Russians.

"The Finns feel it will take at least that long," he said, "because of the long, thin communications and the scorched earth policy the Germans have adopted."

Germans Well Supplied.

At Kemo and Petsamo, two German strongholds on their northern defense line, the Nazis were reported to have had on Sept. 15 enough supplies for nine months, including a three months beer supply, but they are said to have destroyed part of them.

Austrian troops, which at one time comprised 80 per cent of the German garrison in the north, were reported unwilling to fight the Finns, and the Helsinki correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said gun fire had been exchanged by the Austrians and Germans.

Finn Victory Forecast.

The correspondent said there was no doubt about the result of the fighting between the Germans and the Finns.

The Germans will succumb to the Finns, who are well acquainted with German methods and know the terrain, he asserted.

The correspondent reported that 100,000 Finns, 25,000 head of cattle, and 8,000 horses had been evacuated from the battle area in northeastern Finland and moved south of the Ulz river or into Sweden.

Porkkola, near Helsinki, leased to the Russians by the Finns for 50 years under terms of the armistice, will be turned over to the soviets formally on Friday.

JAPS BREAK WITH FINNS.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Japanese radio said yesterday that Japan, after receiving formal notice of the Finnish decision to break off diplomatic relations, had in turn severed relations with Finland.

SWEDEN PLANS TO MAKE PORT CLOSING DRASTIC

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 24 (AP).—Sweden's decision to close all her gulf of Bothnia and Baltic sea ports next Wednesday is so broad it also includes the important ferry service from Tralleborg, Sweden, to Sassnitz, Germany, it was learned today.

The closing of the ports, putting a serious crimp in German Baltic traffic, will not affect ferries operating between Denmark and Sweden's west coast, however.

The Swedish government further restricted German travel by instructing the consul at Oslo, Norway, to issue no more transit visas thru Sweden to Germany.

REDS INVADE SLOVAKIA AND OLD HUNGARY

Romanian Troops Aid in Pincers Drive.

LONDON, Sept. 25 [Monday] (AP).—The Red army smashed 25 miles inside Czechoslovakia and also crossed the pre-war Hungarian frontier yesterday in a pincers drive aimed at knocking Hungary out of the war, while soviet naval forces captured the Baltic seaport of Paldiski on the Estonian coast.

A Moscow broadcast quoting a report from the front said early today that Russian troops crossed from southern Poland thru Lupkow pass into Czechoslovakia and captured Humenne [Homonna], 25 miles inside the frontier.

Simultaneously, Russian and Romanian troops crossed the southeastern Hungarian frontier, a Bucharest bulletin disclosed. These units were believed to be less than 35 miles from Szeged, Hungary's second city. Szeged is 97 miles from Budapest.

The Romanian bulletin said Hungary was invaded in the area west of Arad, Romania, 10 miles from the frontier and 55 miles east of Szeged. Arad fell to the Russians and Romanians on Friday.

[A Berlin broadcast heard in New York said the Germans in Hungary-annexed Transylvania—250,000 before the war—had been evacuated.]

Rout Nazis in Slovakia.

The Russian drive into Slovakia routed the 228th and 101st German infantry divisions, said the Moscow broadcast.

The Red army units entered by the Lupkow pass and another route thru the east Beskid mountains and were only 30 miles northeast of Kassa [Kosice], east Slovakian city annexed by Hungary. Kassa is only 125 miles northeast of Budapest.

The double push threatened to trap all the German and Hungarian troops strung out in eastern Slovakia and northern Transylvania. The two arms of the pincers were only about 150 miles apart, and the troops that invaded Hungary were on flat terrain suitable for tank warfare.

Soviet naval forces struck into the Baltic sea for the first time in three years.

Marines of the Red banner Baltic fleet seized Paldiski, 25 miles southwest of Talinn, Estonia's capital, which was captured on Friday, as land forces overran 200 more places in western Estonia and 450 towns and villages in northern Latvia as they advanced on Riga.

Thousands Appear Trapped.

In southern Estonia the 3d Baltic army captured Nuia, 30 miles northwest of Valga, steadily hurling the Germans back toward the gulf of Riga.

Aircraft of the Russian fleet continued to rain blows on German ships carrying troops from Estonia, the Moscow bulletin said. Five more transports were sunk Saturday.

From Warsaw, capital of Poland, Gen. Bor reported that Polish Red army liaison officers were working with Polish patriots after crossing the Vistula river from captured Praga.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN.

Germany's broadcast bulletin said yesterday:

"Continuous local fighting is reported from southwestern Transylvania. On both sides of Thorenburg renewed enemy break-thru attempts were foiled.

"During vain attacks by superior Romanian forces in the area south of Neumarkt the enemy suffered severe casualties.

"Local soviet attacks in the Szekler corner and in the east Carpathians were unsuccessful. Near the Carpathian passroads in the area south of Sanok and Krosno heavy fighting continues.

"In the northern sector massed soviet infantry and tank attacks were repulsed or absorbed yesterday after the destruction of numerous enemy tanks.

"During fighting against bands in northeastern Slovakia more than 40 soviet commissars were taken prisoner."

QUESTIONED IN KILLING.

Police yesterday questioned Melvin Jackson, 35, of 8829 Commercial av., a Negro, in the death of Charles Garrett, 56, of 5165 State st., also a Negro, who died Saturday night in Provident hospital after being struck in the head with a bottle allegedly hurled by Jackson.

QUEBEC PARLEY DECISIONS LAID BEFORE STALIN

MOSCOW, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Kremlin today was in possession of the decisions on the far eastern war that were reached by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill at their Quebec conference.

The United States and British ambassadors, W. Averell Harriman and Archibald Clark Kerr, reported last night to Premier Stalin and Vyacheslav Molotov, foreign commissar, on instructions from Washington. Stalin is reported to have been deeply interested and to have asked questions frequently.

The soviet radio and all newspapers carried the announcement of Stalin's reception of the ambassadors without mentioning that the decisions on which they reported were concerned with how to crush Japan. Russia is not at war with Japan, and this was diplomatically correct, but the Russians knew, from previous dispatches in the press, that the Quebec plans covered the east Asia phase of the war.

YANK CHUTISTS BATTLE BEYOND GERMAN BORDER

Poles Cross Rhine to Aid British at Arnhem.

were reported to have suffered heavy losses when their counter-attacks in this sector were beaten back yesterday.

Landings Near Nijmegen.

Berlin located the major air borne landings Saturday as south and southeast of Nijmegen. German troops immediately attacked, broadcasts said.

The British were broadening the base of their 50 mile long passageway up thru Holland.

The push up to Arnhem was impeded by soft marshlands, and by roads raised up six feet. This elevation made tanks proceeding on the narrow roads an easy target for Nazi artillery.

In broadening the corridor up from Eindhoven, a bridgehead was built up over the Boir le Duc canal at the base of the salient. East of Antwerp, allied troops established another bridgehead over the Meuse-Escaut canal.

A Nijmegen dispatch quoted American staff officers as saying the British drive when it reached that area "took pressure off United States air borne infantry who have been making active patrols in a nearby forest which has been under our steady artillery fire.

Withdraw Along Canal.

Indications that the Germans were withdrawing along the Antwept-Turnhout canal were exploited by Canadian forces, which moved up eight miles to the northeast and established a bridgehead over the canal seven miles from the Dutch-Belgian frontier.

The bridgehead established by the Canadian 1st army was about five miles northeast of the Belgian port of Antwerp in the area of Lochtenburg. The canal runs northeast from Antwerp to St. Leonard and then east to Turnhout, 25 miles from Antwerp. Some reports said Turnhout was being evacuated by the Germans.

Dutch government reports said western stretches of Holland from Amsterdam 70 miles southward had been flooded. Some Dutchmen escaping the area said the soil would be ruined for cultivation for 10 years.

Hampered by Bad Weather.

Hundreds of allied planes blasted German ground positions in the Nijmegen-Arnhem area and in the Nancy area 9th air force Thunderbolts assisted in repulsing strong tank-led enemy counter-attacks despite encountering near-gales and rain in both regions. The rains were bogging American armor.

United States 1st army men continued to mop up in Stolberg, six miles east of Aachen on the path to Cologne. In one sharp battle east of Busbach, below Stolberg, doughboys chopped down 40 per cent of an attacking Nazi force.

Allied headquarters confirmed reports that civilians in communities north and east of Aachen had been pressed into service by the Nazis to dig defenses. No ground changed hands in that area today, altho artillery duels continued.

Germans were being cleaned out in the area bordering northern Luxemburg, supreme headquarters said. Enemy artillery fired at Americans along the whole German-Luxemburg frontier.

The heaviest disclosed German counter-blows fell northeast of Nancy in reaction against the 3d army drive toward Strasbourg.

At Dieuze, 28 miles northeast of Nancy 30 attacking Nazi tanks were beaten by United States armor, artillery, and planes, a front dispatch said. In this area in six days the 3d army has wrecked more than 100 Nazi tanks.

Lull Along Channel Coast.

There was no word of progress of the United States 7th army, battling west and south of Belfort, and along the Riviera. Berlin radio said the new American 9th army had intensified its activity, but "made no progress toward the German frontier." The 9th's sector not specified.

There was a lull in operations on the channel coast, where Nazis still hold out at Cap Gris Nez, Calais and Dunkerque. It is estimated that 5,000 Germans are in the besieged garrison at Calais. Flying thru rain squalls and a 50-mile an hour gale, RAF bombers attacked enemy positions at Calais.

Headquarters said Hodges' 1st army had taken 183,827 prisoners and forces under Lt. Gen. Patton, had captured 92,600, making a total of 276,427 for the United States 12th army group since June 6.

40,000,000 Pounds Flown to Holland in One Week

U. S. TROOP CARRIER COMMAND HDQS., Britain, Sept. 24 (AP).—United States troop carrier planes flew 8,000 sorties in the first week of the 1st allied air borne army's invasion of Holland, a staff officer estimated today. He said 40,000,000 pounds of heavy supplies and troops had been landed with a loss of less than 3 per cent.

Doolittle Staff Deputy Promoted to General

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, commander of the United States 8th air force, announced today the promotion of John S. Allard, deputy chief of staff of the 8th air force, to the rank of brigadier general. Gen. Allard, Bronxville, N. Y., was vice president of the Curtiss Wright corporation.

PRIVATE 'CHUTES INTO DUTCH CITY AND TAKES OVER

Organizes Army and Staff of Girls.

WITH U. S. AIR BORNE TROOPS IN HOLLAND, Sept. 22 [Delayed]—(AP). — Overnight Pvt. Theodore Bachenheimer of Fullerton, Cal., became a general and leader of an army of 300 Dutch Partisans. He parachuted into Holland and wandered into a town near the German border on a personal reconnaissance.

Pvt. Bachenheimer.

The Nazis held the town when he entered and continued their hold most of the next day, but Bachenheimer quickly made friends with the Dutch and organized his own army, armed with captured German weapons.

The army called itself "the Free Netherlands army" and insisted on dubbing Pvt. Bachenheimer "kommandant." He set up headquarters in a steel factory, patroled by sentries with Dutch army helments and orange brassards.

Has a Staff of Girls.

Down one corridor in a glassed-in room pretty girls of high school age type rosters of the Dutch volunteers and keep records. There is an enlistment office for volunteers and a large room where scores of Quislings are kept under guard.

The floors of the buildings are spotless and the typewriters click constantly. Records are neatly filed away and the whole place is run with smooth efficiency.

In Bachenheimer's headquarters he has a situation map showing where bands of Dutch patriots are engaging the enemy.

Officers Call on Him.

Girls on Bachenheimer's staff drive cars on official business and to transport the wounded. They also prepare and distribute meals.

So important is his work that another parachute trooper has been assigned to maintain communications between Bachenheimer's headquarters and a United States regimental command post.

CONGRESSMEN CALL 'IKE' BEST DIPLOMAT; HE'D RATHER FISH

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP). — Two congressmen returning from France suggested today that Gen. Eisenhower be given "the toughest diplomatic post in the world" after the war to make use of his "proven qualities—ability to get along with all types of people, a shrewd appraisal of every situation, and common sense."

Not that the supreme commander would want it, for Reps. Mundt [R., S. D.] and Richards [D., S. C.] quoted him as saying that all he wanted to do when peace comes was to go back to Kansas, "sit on the bank of a creek and fish in the sun."

Mundt said a good assignment for the general would be ambassador to Russia. Neither knew whether Eisenhower was a Republican or a Democrat. In fact they asked him over lunch and drew only a grin in response.

TANK DESTROYER 'M-18 IS A 'DEMON' AGAINST NAZIS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—The army's new 18½ ton tank destroyer with its 75 mm. cannon was the "stream-lined speed demon that put a streak of lightning in our drive across France," the war department was informed today.

Capt. Charlie R. Adkins, automotive expert for the army who has reported back after a month in France, asserted the "M-18 is the hottest thing in today's armored warfare." A unit of M-18s advanced 65 miles in three and a half hours of combat, he said. Once a breakthru has been obtained, the M-18 advances so rapidly the enemy finds it almost impossible to plant new mine fields in its path.

A damaged wheel will not stop the M-18. A new engine can be installed in an hour and three-quarters.

79th Division in 3d Army; 134th Regiment Named

WITH THE AMERICAN 3D ARMY IN FRANCE, Sept. 24 (AP).—The 79th infantry division and the 134th infantry regiment are in action with the American 3d army, it was officially disclosed tonight.

FRENCH FORCES OF INTERIOR JOIN REGULAR ARMY

PARIS, Sept. 24 (AP).—The French Forces of the Interior were made a part of the French army today by decree of the ministry of war, partly solving a problem which has been discussed for three weeks by the government and the council of national resistance.

Meanwhile a protest against this move was made by M. Valrimont, one of the three members of the military action committee of the council of national resistance. He said his group had not been consulted by the government on the final decision to absorb the FFI into the French army, and expressed surprise that the military action committee "had not been asked its opinion on a decision of such importance.

Will Be Distinct Units.

Still undecided is whether FFI officers are entitled to an equal rank with their counterparts in the regular army. One contention is that FFI officers are not trained in the use of weapons and the tactics of modern warfare.

The ministry of war ruled that FFI enlisted and noncommissioned personnel must be given the same consideration as the regular army in the matter of pay, grade advancements and decorations. Records of FFI personnel will be investigated.

Another distinction was accorded the FFI. They will be entered in the army as distinct FFI units. Only those who fought voluntarily against the enemy will be considered as belonging to the FFI organization.

May Join Voluntarily.

All members may join the army voluntarily for the duration of the war. Those who do not will be sent home.

FFI units still engaged in fighting will be placed under the command of the military.

Those whose territories have been liberated will function under the present regional command.

GLIDER TROOPS DEFEND LINE TO BRITISH 2D ARMY

Smash Concentration of Nazi Armor.

BY WALTER CRONKITE.

[Representing the Combined U. S. Press.]

WITH THE AMERICAN AIR BORNE ARMY, Holland, Sept. 23 [Delayed] (AP).—Stone wall defense, gallant counter-attacks by American air borne troops, and a dramatic sweep by rocket-firing Typhoon fighter-bomber planes combined today to keep open the life line corridor to the north which the Americans are holding for Lt. Gen. Dempsey's British 2d army.

The air borne troops smashed a big German concentration one mile from the corridor, sending the attackers reeling back, at the beginning of a day of savage fighting.

An Effective Offensive.

It was a small scale offensive, for this front, but it was effective. Rapid firing air borne guns and British tanks opened a supporting barrage at dawn and the air borne troops three minutes later attacked the Germans from two directions thru the heavy ground haze.

The hammerlike impact seemed to daze the Germans, and they broke quickly. But other Germans moved to the attack, seeking to break the British spearhead rolling northward above the Waal, the lower outlet of the Rhine, toward the upper outlet where air borne troops are fighting around Arnhem.

Thruout the day German Tiger tanks and self-propelled guns hammered at the life line.

It was just before dusk when the Typhoon planes came into action with their rockets. They hit suddenly and hard at the German tanks and the enemy withdrew.

Rescued from Germans.

Eleven American paratroopers, who landed behind German lines far from the main body of sky-borne troops in the opening glider invasion of Holland, were brought out by an international rescue squadron which wound its way past strong Nazi forces, it was disclosed today.

The Americans, who landed in the wrong areas last Sunday after their two planes were hit by anti-aircraft fire, were rounded up by Dutch Partisans and carried to safety in six British Bren gun carriers and an unarmed Red Cross jeep.

The little force included two severely injured airmen who crashed in a flaming tow plane. Four others were from a glider which cut loose from another burning plane. One was a parachutist who leaped from a third flaming tow ship and the others were crewmen from various crippled tow planes.

Hide for Four Days.

They hid four days in the woods while the British approached, and the battle raged around them. They set up their own stockade, with a system of outposts where the guards were regularly changed, leaving behind for the relief shift four rifles, one carbine and one submachine gun—their only arms.

The party included Pvt. John Kessel of Detroit, T/5 Kitterman of Indiana, and Parachutist Pvt. Lucien Hopkins of 315 Michigan st., Hammond, Ind.

Kessel told their story:

"We had been over enemy territory about two and one half minutes Sunday [Sept. 17] when explosive ack-ack hit the motor of our towplane," he said. "The pilot immediately climbed the ship as fast as he could to give us altitude to try to make a landing.

Pilots Give Their Lives.

"These two pilots gave their lives to do that, that plane crashed a minute later. We all landed, but were quite a few miles from other gliders and were completely cut off."

He said they were met by Dutchmen who helped them hide in the woods and brought them milk, beer and food. Once they almost got caught in the midst of a battle between the Nazis and the British.

"A group of Germans stopped in the woods and stood only two feet from Kitterman. He and I were so quiet I don't think our hearts were beating. Then on Thursday, a Dutchman told us he had been thru the German lines and contacted the British who said they would try to get help to us. Later the British came and took us off."

Peoria Mess Sergeant.

If you think war time shopping and meal planning is difficult on the home front, consider the difficulties of S/Sgt/ Herman Smith, former Peoria, Ill., hotel man who now is general mess sergeant with this air borne outfit. Headquarters are right on the frontline battle for the corridor thru Holland, but Smith slung a rifle over his shoulder and set out to see what he could obtain to supplement the monotonous army rations. Smith said marketing was much tougher in this area than it had been in Normandy.

"Cattle seem to be staying out of the way of bullets and shells," he said. One treat for many Americans here is milk—the first many of them have tasted since they left the United States. And the Dutch are generously sharing it.

IKE ORDERS INQUIRY ON 'CARPET BAGGER' CHARGE BY BRITISH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—A thoro investigation will be made of charges of the London Daily Mail that American "carpet baggers" are setting themselves up in business in Paris after arriving in American army officers' uniforms, supreme headquarters announced. Gen. Eisenhower has issued an order forbidding transportation of American, British, and other allied civilian personnel to forward zones to open offices of private enterprises. On the other hand, responsible agencies of the American and British governments have been advised that supreme headquarters will transport any civilian who is accredited by service ministers of either country and by the President or prime minister.

SHELLING CONTINUOUS

BY ALAN WOODS.

[Representing Combined Allied Press.]

WITH BRITISH AIR BORNE TROOPS IN THE ARNHEM AREA, Sept. 24 (AP).—German shelling of our little stronghold is continuous and getting more vicious. Now it seems they are bringing up batteries of 88s, and confused firing about a hundred yards away may mean the German infantry is attacking.

We can hear a German Spandau [multiple machine gun] firing, but since some of our men are using captured weapons, we can't judge from the sound whether it is turned against us—and we can't see because of the thick trees.

Typhoon planes were attacking enemy guns with rockets earlier, but now it is raining again. One day's clear sky would make all the difference in the world. Meanwhile, rain or shine, our men go on fighting—beating off attacks and themselves attacking while waiting the arrival of the 2d army.

I can't yet write the full story of all they have done and all they have endured, but if in the years to come any man says to you, "I fought with the Arnhem air borne force," take off your hat to him. The few of Arnhem will rank in glory with the few of the battle of Britain.

BURGLARS TAKE CLOTHING.

"IMPOSSIBLE" TO CAPTURE BRIDGE, BUT YANKS DO IT

Cross Waal in Rain of Nazi Fire.

BY ROBERT WILSON.

WITH U. S. AIR BORNE TROOPS IN HOLLAND, Sept. 22 [Delayed] —(AP).—For raw courage, the battle for Nijmegen bridge fought by American air borne troops ranks with the marine capture of Tarawa.

It was a masterpiece of military improvisation—"impossible according to textbooks"—achieved only "thru the quality of our troops," said the general commanding the division that did it.

The audacious operation of crossing the 300 yard wide Waal Rhine in daylight under enemy fire, in which British troops and the Dutch underground played important roles, was conceived and finished in less than 24 hours.

The Germans held both ends of the bridge, a life line to the air borne forces isolated at Arnhem, eight miles north. It was decided that a frontal assault was suicidal. Instead the commanders decided to cut a half mile northwest of the town, leap the river, turn east, and come at the bridge from behind.

Boats Are Hidden.

The general was informed of the plan at 9 p. m., Sept. 20. It first was necessary to clear enemy troops from the south bank, and American infantry with British tanks did this early the next day, taking 300 prisoners.

While this fighting was under way, boats were brought up and hidden near a power station to await H-hour, which was 3 p. m., Sept. 21. At 2:45 p. m. a heavy barrage of artillery was poured on the north bank, followed by smoke shells. Then the first of 26 boats stuck their noses in the water.

The Germans raked the river with artillery, mortar, machine gun, and small arms fire. Thirteen of the boats returned. An eight mile an hour tide carried them 500 yards west, and men had to go out and drag them back to the starting positions.

Again the boats braved the river.

Bullets Riddle Boats.

"It was a case of paddling like hell with machine gun bullets ripping the water, coming closer and closer and finally no longer hitting the water," said Col. R. H. Tucker, Ansonia, Conn. "They hit something more solid."

Eight boats returned from the second trip. One landed with three dead and four wounded out of a boatload of 11. Some troops had to bail out the bullet riddled boats with canteen cups.

Finally only five boats were left and there were 700 men still to get across. But the job was done, and those that crossed found many dead Germans.

German Fight Fiercely.

"I don't know yet how we did it," Tucker said. "You'd never have got American troops out of a fortress like that. We took 30 live Germans."

The doughboys slugged their way over a 30 foot high railroad embankment and closed in on the north end of the bridge.

Meanwhile other troops, veterans of Sicily and Normandy, were engaged in the fiercest fighting alongside British troops at the Nijmegen or south end of the bridge.

Attack Medical Men.

S. S. [elite guard] German troops attacked allied medical men kneeling by wounded. With bayonets and knives, the Americans and British rooted the Germans from their holes on the approaches to the bridge. Finally both ends of the bridge were captured, and at 6 p. m. British tanks rolled across.

But it was due to the Dutch underground that there was a bridge there.

"These people really deserve liberation," said the general. "The Germans wired the bridge for destruction, but the Dutch kept the wires cut."

Polish Group, Lithuania Agree to Shift Nationals

LONDON, Sept. 25 [Monday] (AP).—The soviet sponsored Polish National Liberation committee and the Lithuanian soviet socialistic republic have signed an agreement providing for voluntary evacuation of their nationals from each other's territory, the Moscow radio said today. This is the second such agreement by the Polish committee, the first being with the Ukrainian government.

Flying Bomb Hits School; Raid Called Token Attack

LONDON, Sept. 24 (AP).—German flying bombs fell on southern England again tonight. One exploded on the grounds of a Catholic boys' school injuring 12 persons. For the second successive night the assault amounted only to a token attack.

GREEKS DEMAND BULGARS GIVE UP LAND AT ONCE

Macedonia and Thrace Areas Asked.

ROME, Sept. 24 (AP).—The Greek government flatly demanded today that the Bulgarians "hand over at once unconditionally and without further discussion the Greek territories of Macedonia and Thrace, which they are occupying."

Control of mountain passes by which the Bulgars are able to enter Greece also was demanded in the post-war settlements.

The Greek attitude was announced at a press conference on behalf of the government, established in Italy and awaiting the first opportunity to return home, by George A. Cartalis, minister of information.

He explained he made the announcement because a press dispatch had quoted the Bulgarian propaganda minister as saying an agreement had been reached between Bulgarian and Greek representatives.

"Clear Out" Is Policy.

But, Cartalis asserted, "our only policy is for the Bulgarians to clear out at once without discussions about policing or anything else."

As for the mountain passes, he said, "It is inconceivable that Greece should again leave the doors for invasion open to the Bulgarians, who already have invaded our country three times in 20 years. Our pre-war frontiers there were not satisfactory. The Bulgarians were on top of the mountains, and we were at the bottom."

"The wounds inflicted on Greece by Italy are very deep, but I am sure they will be healed soon by the allies," Cartalis continued.

Referring to the Dodecanese islands, he said every Italian government since 1922 has recognized them as Greek, even tho Italy failed to turn them over to Greece. Count Carlo Sforza, minister without portfolio in the new Italian government, recently said Italy was prepared to cede the Dodecanese to Greece if the inhabitants wanted Greek rule.

Macedonian Problem.

To a question on the Greek attitude toward a proposal attributed to Yugoslav Marshal Tito for creation of an independent Macedonia, Cartalis replied: "Greek Macedonia is absolutely inhabited by Greeks. If there is a Macedonian problem, it is between Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. Greece doesn't figure in it at all."

The Greek people "themselves must decide what government they want," Cartalis added in mentioning the Greek cabinet's decision that King George II. must remain outside the country pending a plebiscite to determine whether he shall return to the throne.

VISITOR DIES OF HEART ATTACK.

Mrs. Catherine McDermott, 65, of Grand Rapids, Mich., wife of Thomas McDermott, a road contractor, died of a heart attack yesterday in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine McDermott, 2230 Chestnut st., Wilmette, where she was visiting.

Greek Demand

(Story in adjoining column.)

Thrace and part of Macedonia (black area), demanded by Greece from Bulgaria.

SO THEY DIG UP BILLY M'GEE AND BURY HIM AGAIN

MUSTANG BASE IN ITALY, Sept. 24 (AP).—Capt. Robert Rhodes, St. Louis, Mo., driving along a lonely Italian road, spotted a little white cross in a field. He got out of his jeep and went over for a look. On the cross was this inscription: "Billy McGee, AAF."

Rhodes reported his discovery on the assumption that McGee might have been reported missing in action and his death remained unconfirmed. Word was sent to Washington, and a crew from the U. S. 15th air force was ordered to exhume the body and place it in a military cemetery.

After 20 minutes of digging the men threw down their shovels. "Billy McGee" was an army air force goat.

BULGARS HOPE TO BE ALLY, SAYS FOREIGN CHIEF

ANKARA, Turkey, Sept. 24 (AP).—Bulgarian troops are fighting beside Russians under Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin, Petko Stainov, foreign minister, told the Anatolian news agency today at Sofia, Bulgaria. He said Bulgaria would undertake everything necessary in order to be acknowledged an ally of the allies.

"Armistice talks have not started because Bulgaria has not been summoned to have the terms presented to her," he added.

A Bulgarian government spokesman denied that Prince Cyril, Fedor Filov and Gen. Mihov, members of the former regency, had been arrested by Russians and taken to Moscow. He said they were under arrest in Sofia awaiting judgment by a "people's court."

Troops Called to Unload Cargoes in British Strike

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Troops were called in to replace 1,200 striking dock workers to unload urgently needed cargoes in Newcastle-on-Tyne this week-end. The dockers stopped work yesterday without consulting their union, the result of a dispute over the removal of hatch covers.

FLYERS SMASH AT AIR FIELDS, PORTS IN GREECE

ROME, Sept. 24 (AP).—Medium forces of Liberators blasted three airdromes near Athens, the rail yards of the Greek port of Salonika and submarine pens, and harbor installations at Skaramanga on the Greek south coast, 10 miles north of Piraeus, today.

The airdromes, all within a nine mile radius of Athens, were well covered with bombs. On a similar raid 77 planes were destroyed on the ground in a raid Sept. 15.

Intense flak was met over Salonika, where large numbers of enemy freight cars have been concentrated. Returning pilots said many hits also were scored on the submarine pens.

Foil Blocking of Harbor.

A German plan to use the old Italian cruiser Taranto to block the harbor entrance to the Ligurian sea naval base of La Spezia, toward which 5th army troops are driving, was foiled yesterday by the accurate bombing of American Mitchells, reconnaissance photos disclosed today.

The enemy had the cruiser in position to be moved into the harbor mouth where it was to be scuttled. The B-25s left the ship on fire with its foredeck awash, so the Germans will be unable to carry out their plan.

An 8,000 ton merchantman alongside the Taranto was sunk.

One Nazi Downed.

The Mediterranean air forces encountered only one enemy plane in operations yesterday over Italy, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Yugoslavia and Greece.

It was shot down in the Venice area by Lt. Johnny Voll, Goshen, O., Mustang pilot. It was his 13th victory and placed him in a tie for fifth plane among American aces in the Mediterranean theater.

R. A. F. Destroys Ship.

CAIRO, Egypt, Sept. 24 (AP).—R. A. F. Beaufighters destroyed a large enemy vessel in Denusa bay, off the Greek coast, in continuing attacks against German ships used to evacuate troops from the Aegean islands, a Middle East air bulletin said today.

The war bulletin said an enemy vessel smashed Friday by Beaufighters in a Samos port had been filled with German troops.

STADIUM CROWD HEARS REDS HIT TRIBUNE, G. O. P.

Plate Passed Often as Browder Speaks.

An estimated 10,000 persons, attended what was advertised as a "People's Rally for Unity and Victory" in the Chicago Stadium last night to hear Communist speakers assail Republicans and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

The meeting was sponsored by the Communist Political association, with local offices at 208 N. Wells st. The chief speaker was Earl Browder, ex-convict head of the Communist party in America.

Altho the meeting had been scheduled to start at 7:30 p. m., a half hour delay was announced at that time which was used to advertise Browder's books while salesmen went up and down the aisles offering them for sale.

Second Balcony Empty.

Back of the speaker's platform were large pictures of Roosevelt, Stalin, and Churchill, but photographers were told not to take pictures of the stage. They were likewise ordered not to take pictures of empty seats in the stadium. No one was in the second balcony.

A program had been prepared, containing an eight-verse song to be sung to the tune of "Parlez Vous" assailing THE TRIBUNE, Hoover, and Hearst.

A Negro song leader sang alone. Something went wrong with the loudspeaker system after the first verse and his efforts were almost inaudible to those in the rear rows.

Morris Childs, perennial Communist candidate and a teacher in the Workers' school at 64 W. Randolph st., the first speaker, called THE TRIBUNE a menace.

Collection Taken Up.

Alfred Wagenknecht, Cook county president of the Communist Political association, directed the taking up of a collection for subscriptions to the Daily Worker, which was being sold outside the Stadium.

After a talk by Benjamin Davis Jr., Negro alderman from New York elected on the Communist ticket, and songs by Woody Guthrie, Louise Thompson, president of the midwest district of the International Workers Order, supervised another collection, this one to "combat reactionary forces."

She called for $100 bills. The request apparently came as no surprise, because several organizations had that exact sum ready in envelopes, which were passed to the platform. Then she called for smaller sums.

Dewey Under Attack.

Browder, in his talk, described Thomas E. Dewey as carrying "the flag of anti-Communism" and asserted that President Roosevelt had "built a solid foundation of unity with all our allies."

"Roosevelt and Truman are the candidates not alone of the Democratic party but of the great body of independent voters who make up about one-third of the American electorate," he said. "They stand on the solid platform of a working policy which is in action every day and has proved itself in deed."

THE TRIBUNE herewith presents the records of the principal speakers at the rally:

EARL BROWDER

Earl Russell Browder, 53, twice has served federal prison terms during war time.

Earl R. Browder.

In 1917 he led the Kansas City forces opposing American entry into World War I. and continued his activities after this country was at war. With his brother, William, he was convicted of refusing to register in the draft and served a year in the Platte county jail, Missouri. On a conspiracy charge in connection with his subversive activities he was convicted and sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth and served part of a two year sentence as prisoner No. 14314.

After his release he joined the newly formed Communist party, which then went under the name of the Workers' party. A little later he was elected to the executive committee of the Red International of Labor unions in Moscow. On his return to this country in the early '20s he was elected to the executive committee of the Workers' party.

Nominee for President.

In 1930 he became general secretary of the Communist party in America. In 1935 he was elected to the executive committee of the Communist International, Moscow. In 1936 he was Communist nominee for President.

In March, 1941, Browder was convicted of passport fraud—using aliases to obtain passports to attend Red conferences in Moscow—and was sentenced to serve four years in Atlanta penitentiary.

He was freed May 16, 1943, when President Roosevelt commuted his sentence in "the interest of national unity." Browder had served 14 months, less than a third of the sentence.

On his release he plunged back into his work of taking over the Democratic party for the Communists. To this end, he changed the name of the Communist party to the Communist Political association, asserting that the party as such had been disbanded. This enabled the Reds to evade election laws which in many states would handicap them in their avowed intention to throw full Communist support to President Roosevelt.

Defies House Committee.

On Sept. 19 he spent four hours before a special house group investigating campaign expenditures and defiantly refused to give information concerning Communist penetration into the government and the Democratic national committee. He declined to name leading Communists on the CIO action committee. He also rejected questions concerning his proposals that the United States follow Russia's example in signing a peace pact with Hitler—this, of course, before Germany invaded Russia. Browder further declined to discuss the fraudulent aliases he used in violating the passport laws.

PAUL-BONCOUR QUITS OBSCURITY TO URGE PEACE THRU FORCE

PARIS, France, Sept. 24 (AP).—Joseph Paul-Boncour, former president of the league of nations council and foreign minister in Leon Blum's government, has emerged from the obscurity that enveloped him during the four years or the Nazi occupation. At 71 years he still seems to be looking for the universal peace about which men talked at Geneva. He still believes in the ideal of collective security, but he wants it backed by force. He is working on a book of memoirs.

Stressing his belief that no collective system would work in Europe which did not include Russia, he described himself as "the father of the Russian alliance." Socialism, he added, "must play a great role in the future."

MORRIS CHILDS

Morris Childs.

Morris Childs [real name: Maurice Chilovsky; alias: Morris Summers] is thin, dark, curly haired, and vitriolic. This Red agitator who has been a candidate for United States senator was born in Kiev, Russia, 42 years ago and, like many Reds, not only has changed his name several times, but has tried to black out his past. In 1940, however, when he wanted to visit Moscow for additional instructions on infiltrating the Democratic party, he was forced to tell the state department his real name is Chilovsky and that his Moscow alias is Morris Summers.

Police first took notice of Chilovsky in Milwaukee in 1933. He was organizer for the Communist party and ran for governor of Wisconsin in 1934. Transferred to Chicago in 1935, he ran for congress as Red "agitprop"—director of agitation propaganda in communist district 8—Illinois and Indiana. He ran for senator in 1938. He was a leader in the League Against War and Fascism, which later became the League for Peace and Democracy. It folded after the Dies committee exposed its un-American activities.

Pact Causes Switch.

Before Hitler attacked the soviet union, Childs and his comrades were violently opposed to the "imperialistic war." Communists here and thruout the nation fomented sitdown strikes, slowdowns, and other forms of sabotage. Stalin's pact with Hitler caused them considerable embarrassment, but they switched over, urging that this country also sign a treaty with Hitler.

Childs' vocation is that of teacher in the Workers' school at 64 W. Randolph st., where young revolutionaries are indoctrinated with Communistic principles and sent out to agitate for an overthrow of the recognized government of the United States. Childs' avocation has been a campaign directed at smearing THE TRIBUNE and other American institutions.

WOODY GUTHRIE

Woody Guthrie.

Woody Guthrie is an irresponsible hobo, oil field roustabout, "wobbly," and so-called Troubador of the Dust Bowl. He sings stories about his travels and experiences, minstrel style, accompanying himself on the guitar. In recent years he has had a vogue, being talked up by young pinks and others who know nothing of the dust bowl, oil fields, or especially of riding freights and blind baggage.

Guthrie is the author of a book, "Bound for Glory" [Dutton, $3], published in 1943. It is intended to be something of a shocker in the Jim Tully tradition. Guthrie has appeared as an entertainer, among other places in New York's Rainbow room. He has made records, some of which have been filed as "American folk music" in the Library of Congress.

BENJAMIN DAVIS

Benjamin Davis.

Benjamin J. Davis Jr. is a Negro alderman of New York, elected on the communistic ticket, and a director of the George Washington Carver school in Harlem, a Communist backed venture described by American Negro leaders as a project intended to hitch the Negroes to the tail of the communist kite. The teachers in the school were recruited from among instructors dismissed from the New York City school system for Communist activities. Among other directors of the school are numerous commies and party backers, such as Paul Robeson, Canada Lee, and Ferdinand C. Smith.

SUICIDE AVERTED IN JAIL CELL.

Edward Kroll, 29, of 1022 14th st., North Chicago, a deaf mute sentenced for vagrancy, was cut down and revived early yesterday after he tried to hang himself in a cell in the North Chicago jail, jailers reported.

CHICAGO PILOT FLIES 'DOOMED' FORT 400 MILES

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Because a quick thinking Chicago pilot refused to desert the controls when his Flying Fortress was riddled by anti-aircraft shells and appeared doomed 400 miles from a base, most of his crew escaped death or capture and the plane lived to fight the Nazis again. He is Capt. James M. Miller, 6018 Winthrop av.

Capt. J. M. Miller.

Capt. Miller had carried supplies to the Polish underground army in Warsaw on the first leg of a trip from England to Russia. After reaching Russia, he and his crew joined a group of planes assigned to bomb rail yards at Szolnok, about 65 miles southeast of Budapest, Hungary, on the way to a base in Italy.

Crippled Plane Raids Target.

The planes had reached Szolnok and were making their bomb runs when Capt. Miller's Fortress was struck by heavy anti-aircraft bursts and began to lose speed. He took it in, however, and the crew saw their bombs hit the target.

The Chicagoan then turned out of formation, being unable to keep up with the other planes. A Fortress to his rear radioed the chilling news that his plane's right wing was aflame. Unhesitatingly, Capt. Miller put the craft in a steep dive, which extinguished the fire, and then turned toward Italy, trailing far behind the others.

Four members of the crew, who had heard the radio warning and seen flames licking along the wing, had bailed out. These included both navigators, as well as the bombardier and aerial gunner. Those who remained did their own navigating and flew unescorted to Italy.

Scores of Holes in Plane.

Flying with Miller as co-pilot and observer was Col. Karl Truesdell Jr. of Washington, D. C., but the Chicago flyer received full credit for bringing his plane in when the 8th air force told the story today. When the Fortress landed, it was found to be riddled with scores of holes and each gas tank had been hit at least once.

Lt. George J. Prokopec, 23, River Grove, Ill., also was aboard when the plane reached Italy.

Nazis Capture San Marino Army (All 68 of Them)

Bern, Sept. 24.—A Berlin despatch says the diminutive state of San Marino, which last week declared war against Germany, has lost its army, which has been captured and disarmed by a company of German shock troops. The army numbered 68.

FREE A MONTH, PARIS SITS DOWN TO BETTER FOOD

But Bad Transport Still Proves Headache.

BY ROBERT SAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—In the month that has passed since it was liberated, Paris has seen marked improvement in the food situation and general living conditions. The average Parisian is eating the most substantial meals he has had in three years.

Transport, however, remains bad, there is little wine to be had, and the people still long for the day when they will again see American movies.

Vast French areas untouched by war have produced good crops and food shipments are arriving at Atlantic and Mediterranean ports. Because of the destruction of railroads and bridges, as well as the war's demands on fuel and transport, the problem is how to bring these stocks to Paris.

German Potatoes Are Good.

In the month of liberation, however, 22 pounds of potatoes a person have been distributed, compared with two pounds issued in the eight months preceding the Germans' departure. Most of the potatoes being sold are of high quality and come from nearby fields that had been planted by the Germans for their own use.

The weekly meat ration has been almost trebled, increasing from 3.15 ounces at the end of occupation to 8.75, of which 3.5 ounces are corned beef or meat loaf from American stocks. The butter ration was doubled from 3.5 ounces to 7, and a small quantity of salad oil was distributed. Bread has changed from poor quality black to white or light tan, a high grade loaf, and even better quality is promised soon, with a probable increase from 10.5 ounces to 12.25 daily. Fruit and vegetable supplies have increased. Fresh fish is lacking but a small quantity of the frozen product recently was put on sale.

Lots of Wine Far Away.

Hardest hit are the wine drinkers. Ordinary wine, huge quantities of which are stocked in the provinces, has been unobtainable since July, and medium grades of classified wines continue to sell at prices ranging from $2 to $5 a quart.

The black market has virtually dried up, altho there is a small traffic in butter, which sells on the illegal market between $5 and $8 a pound.

Meals in restaurants remain expensive but there is a tendency toward lower prices, partly because soldiers complained it took a week's pay to buy a satisfactory lunch.

A hookup of high tension wires to hydro-electric plants in liberated districts of central France and the arrival of several trains daily with coal from mines in the north are permitting a gradual restoration of light and power supplies. Electric lights in private homes now may be turned on from nightfall to dawn except for one and a half to two hours in midevening. Gas supplies are adequate for cooking.

Movies Lack Electricity.

The Parisians waiting to see the first American films after four years of German fare will be obliged to wait a little longer because there is insufficient electricity to supply the movies. Meanwhile, block long lines wait hours daily for a chance to see a short program consisting of a film of the liberation of Paris and American newsreels, which three large movie houses are permitted to give.

A few legitimate theaters and night clubs that are able to furnish illumination other than electric are operating. Horse and greyhound racing will be resumed this week.

The postal service has been restored inside Paris and between the city and several departments, as well as with America, England and Corsica.

SENATOR URGES CLAUSE ON NEWS IN PEACE TREATY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Sen. Ferguson [R., Mich.], commending congressional indorsement of the principle of world-wide news freedom, said today it should be written into the peace treaty as a guarantee.

"It is just as important to provide for the free and unhindered flow of news as it is to disarm the enemy," the senator told a reporter. Congress last week adopted a resolution expressing congressional belief "in the world-wide right of interchange of news by news gathering and distributing agencies, without discrimination as to sources, rates, or charges."

Ferguson said short wave broadcasting equipment established abroad for the United States military forces should be retained.

FRANCE ARRESTS RENAULT, MOTOR INDUSTRIALIST

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Sept. 24.—Louis Renault, one of the leading motor car manufacturers and industrialists of France, is in jail at Fresnes on a charge of trading with the enemy. Following a bitter campaign against him in the Communist press, Renault, accompanied by two attorneys, yesterday left the sanitarium where he had been confined by reasons of health and presented himself before Special Prosecutor Martin.

Louis Renault.

The prosecutor confirmed the report that Renault was officially charged with supplying the German army with $120,000,000 worth of equipment between 1941 and 1943. The prosecutor assigned three doctors to look after Renault's health before sending him to prison.

Renault Explains.

Renault made the following statement:

"Shortly before the armistice I was in the United States studying tank production. I learned there that France had accepted certain German conditions and upon my return to France my factories already had been seized by the Germans.

"In view of the orders given by the minister of war in that epoch—Gen. Weygand—that all industries must continue to work I agreed to do so in the belief that by so doing I would prevent the deportation of a large number of French workers to Germany and at the same time prevent the enemy from denuding France of her raw materials. Thanks to my efforts, stocks of raw materials in our possession are even higher in 1944 than they were in 1940."

Communists Claim Credit.

The official Communist organ L'Humanite today claims credit for Renault's arrest saying, "Thanks to L'Humanite, Louis Renault has been imprisoned at Fresnes," adding that this is the first fruits of its campaign against big business and bankers.

Renault's former general manager, Rene de Peyrecave, was arrested also. Other arrests reported today were those of the former Vichy minister, Jacques Benoit-Mechin, author of a prewar book on the German army, on a charge of giving information to the enemy; the directors of the French Oil company and the Bank of Paris and Holland on charges of having sold to the Germans for large commissions French financial participation in Romanian oil wells and mines and Yugoslavian properties; Bankers Worms and Le-Roy-Ladurie who are accused of financing enemy submarine production, and others.

Army Officer Saves Two as Canoe Upsets in Lake

Two occupants of a canoe that capsized in Lake Michigan, a quarter of a mile off Fargo st., were rescued yesterday when a third, Lt. J. Edwards Moeller, 1201 Chase av., an army ordnance department officer, pushed the craft to shore. Clinging to it were his wife, Jacie, and F. F. Thomas, of 1201 Chase av. Police took Thomas and Mrs. Moeller home, but Moeller uprighted the canoe and paddled it back to its pier.

2,500 CONTINUE THEIR STRIKE IN 2 BRASS PLANTS

Disrupt Output of Discs for Navy Shells.

Twenty-five hundred war workers stayed off their jobs in the Revere Copper and Brass company plants at 2200 Natchez av. and 6630 Fullerton av., for the third consecutive day yesterday, disrupting production of urgently needed five inch brass discs for navy shells.

The crews in both plants struck Friday because Charles Moser, 29, of 5139 Foster av., refused to pour metal for the discs, and was sent home. The job was assigned to Moser after the company made a change of molds in his furnace room.

Point to Mold Change.

Leaders of the employes' AFL United Automobile Workers' union said the changeover from a wide mold, used in producing metal for other war material, to a narrow mold in which the shell disc material was cast, meant "increased physical effort" for Moser.

In addition the pouring of molten metal into the narrow mold created "new health and safety hazards" for the pourer, because of gasses created by the slow flow of the metal, Moser said. He also contended he was made "a goat" because of some one's grudge and sent to work in a poorly ventilated room.

Herbert S. Ullmann, head of the company, declined last night to discuss the mold changeover, but earlier company spokesmen asserted the changes had not produced unfair working conditions in the plant.

Strikers List Demands.

The strikers said they would refuse to return until Moser was reinstated, and Charles Paumere, the plant superintendent, discharged. They also said they demand safer working conditions in the casting department and improved conditions in other parts of the plant.

Tony Audia, chairman of the negotiating committee of the union local, said he had tried unsuccessfully to encourage the strikers to comply with a request from Edgar Warren of the regional war labor board to return to work.

The steak can't be that tough, sir!

3 WEEK STRIKE IN WALLPAPER PLANTS ENDED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—A three-weeks-long strike affecting substantially the entire wallpaper manufacturing industry has been called off, the United States conciliation service said tonight, adding that the 3,000 workers will return to work Monday.

Representatives of companies, operating more than 100 plants in eight states, and the United Wallpaper Crafts and Allied Workers [AFL], have reached an agreement on all issues in dispute except a general wage increase, the service reported.

The union is asking for a general wage increase of 20 per cent, the service said, and this question will be referred to the war labor board for determination under the wage stabilization policy.

The states in which the plants are located, the service said, are New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Louisiana, North Carolina, Illinois, Missouri, and Massachusetts.

BOILER MAKERS ASSAIL THEORY OF A WAR CYCLE

The theory that wars must continue to return periodically was assailed by the special committee on post-war problems in its report to the conference of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, and Helpers of America yesterday in the Stevens hotel.

"We assert," said the report, "that there is no more justification for armed conflict between nations than there is for armed conflict between the cities of New York and Chicago."

Continuing, the report asserted that the workers of all nations at war bear the brunt of burden of war, providing the fighting men, taxes, implements of war, and essential services of production.

The report called for government reduction to the lowest safe minimum of stock pile accumulations on hand when the war ends, payment by government of expenses of war workers for return to their homes, expansion of unemployment aid, full employment without reduction of earnings, and post-war creation of a mercantile and passenger fleet which can successfully compete in world commerce.

WAGE HEARING OPENS TODAY ON ELECTRIC LINES

Hearing of issues in a wage dispute between union employes and the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee and the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin railroads will open today in Hotel Sherman before an emergency mediation panel named by President Roosevelt.

A threatened strike by 600 employes of the two railroads was averted a week ago by establishment of the special panel. The workers, who seek an increase of 9 cents an hour, are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

HOPKINS SNEAKS BACK AS F. D. R.'S NO. 1 SCHEMER

Hides His Activities in Behalf of 4th Term.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24.—Harry L. Hopkins, who returned to his desk in the White House last July after an absence of six months occasioned by gastric disorders, has resumed fully his place at the right hand of President Roosevelt as the New Deal's No. 1 schemer.

The one time director of WPA leaf raking is concealing his activities within the administration and in behalf of the fourth term, because it is feared disclosure of his part in the campaign would drive votes from the New Deal.

The Rasputin of the White House, as Hopkins has been labeled in congress, has been thrust into the background along with Mrs. Eleanor

Mrs. F. D. R. Kept in Hand.

Mrs. Roosevelt has spent most of the time since the fourth term nomination in the family estate at Hyde Park, or in the White House, where her activities can be supervised. She was blamed for the defection of hundreds of thousands of Democrats, particularly in the south.

Foreign born Frankfurter, who is considered as possessing more influence in the government than any man in America thru his flattery of the President and thru pupils of his Harvard law classes, now in government legal posts, also has been shelved for the duration of the campaign.

While Hopkins has not returned to the White House to live, he is back at his desk and is most active. He lost his rooms in the White House, where he was a star boarder, when his wife, the former New York stylist, Louise Macy, and Mrs. Roosevelt clashed.

It is widely understood in the capital that Hopkins is the man who maneuvered WPB Chairman Nelson out of his post in order to place the direction of reconversion in the hands of New Dealers after the war if Mr. Roosevelt wins a fourth term.

Industrialists, who built the mighty arms production machine, are being eased out by Hopkins' manipulation in persuading Mr. Roosevelt to send Nelson to China on an indeterminate mission. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated Nelson will not return to his former post, now being filled by Julius A. Krug, an ardent New Dealer, who is without business experience.

Hopkins now reportedly has set his feud sights for W. L. Clayton, head of the surplus war property administration. Clayton, a Texas millionaire, is a pal of Secretary of Commerce Jones, who has long been a target for New Dealers.

Opposes Baruch Plan.

Hopkins is opposed to the reconversion program of Bernard Baruch, industrialist and Presidential adviser, and the surplus property disposal program of Jones. Baruch had put over his program during the absence of Hopkins, and it was adopted by Nelson. Jones likewise was able to push his surplus property disposal program.

On his return to his office Hopkins began cutting ground under the two financiers and working to place both reconversion and surplus property disposal under the control of New Dealers. He has accomplished half of his objective, and observers are confident he will defeat Clayton in his drive to put those in charge who are in accord with his communistic theories.

The return of Hopkins to power was made clear last week when Hopkins and his wife were discovered to have been with the President and Prime Minister Churchill at a retreat in this country. His presence at the intimate conferences the leaders held was a certain indication he has returned to his post as No. 1 adviser.

Hillman Link Considered.

It also is assumed he is playing a major part along with Sidney Hillman, CIO leader, in the fourth term campaign. It is believed the President is clearing everything with Sidney thru Harry.

Hopkins left Washington early last January for a Florida holiday. Later he went to Rochester, Minn., where he spent months undergoing treatment in the Mayo clinic.

In May he checked into the army's Ashford General hospital at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., undergoing further treatment and in recuperation. He returned to the White House July 6.

NEW PLEA MADE TO CHICAGO FOR SALVAGE OF TIN

Mrs. Walter J. Kelly, tin can salvage chairman, issued an appeal yesterday to boost tin can salvage which has been lagging badly in the Chicago area with an accrued shortage of 750 tons in the quota for the year to date.

Tin is gravely needed at this time in the production of ships for the navy and is now listed as the nation's No. 1 critical shortage, Mrs. Kelly said. She revealed plans for a campaign to spur salvage in the area.

"A drive is being organized among office of civilian defense volunteers to visit homes and factories in their districts in an effort to salvage tons of cans that are now being thrown away," said Mrs. Kelly.

[ADVERTISMENT]

NOTE—From time to time, in this paper, there will appear an article which we hope will be of interest to our fellow Americans. This is number sixty-two of a series.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

Telling the World!

When this recorder learned that one of our affiliates, Schenley International Corporation, had just ordered special labels to be affixed to every bottle of our products going to foreign markets, it both intrigued and excited him. In the center of this red, white and blue label is the wording, "Made in the United States of America". This label was originated and designed by the Special Promotion Division, U. S. Office of War Information. Overseas Branch.

You too will be interested, as I was, to learn that OWI Overseas will furnish reproduction proofs of this "Made in the United States of America" label in fifteen foreign languages, free of charge, to any American manufacturer or processor that ships to foreign countries. Already several hundred American manufacturers are using this label on commercial shipments. It can be printed in any size desired, by any local printer. In fact, several large label houses already carry them in stock.

Mr. Harold D. Frazee, chief of this division of OWI, told this writer that all shipments of Lend-Lease material which are going all over the world, also bear either a label or sign, showing the American flag and the wording, "Made in the United States of America". Here is something really worth shouting about!

And certainly the idea is long overdue. Other nations have made it a practice for years to distinctively trade-mark and label products which they have exported. We, the largest producing nation in the world, have lagged far behind in this field. It took the war to awaken us to our opportunity and the OWI to arouse us to action.

We understand that this idea will not be shelved when the war ends, when millions of tons of materials and products for the rehabilitation of devasted countries will be shipped abroad by American manufacturers. But don't let's talk too much about the obvious.

May we humbly suggest to every American industry, that every package or crate or article shipped to a foreign country henceforth and forevermore, proudly bear this standard label, "Made in the United States of America".

And may we also suggest that every single article or product should reflect by its quality our sincere belief that —AMERICA MAKES THE BEST OF EVERYTHING!

MOVE TO BLOCK SCHOOL RULING IN COURT TODAY

With two subpenas served and sheriff's deputies scheduled to make another attempt this morning to serve 10 more, Atty. Charles Liebman will appear before Judge John C. Lewe in Superior court at 10 a. m. today to seek an injunction restraining the board of education from carrying out a recent no-transfer order for elementary school pupils.

Liebman is representing 1,000 school parents whose children were affected by the cancelation of transfers which Supt. William H. Johnson ordered two weeks ago. The attorney said he would question the board members today to determine if the cancelation was ordered without their consent.

Three Absent from Homes.

Meanwhile, Supt. Johnson and James B. McCahey, board president, remained absent from their homes, as did Frank Righeimer, school attorney. Liebman said that an effort to make an appointment with Righeimer Saturday had been unsuccessful.

Both Johnson and McCahey dropped out of sight after the bombing Thursday night of Johnson's home. At the time, a subpena for Johnson already had been issued. Liebman said that the deputy who held the writ told him he heard a radio report of the bombing but didn't think it would be worth while to attempt to serve it "at that late hour."

Political Issue Raised.

"I've tried to keep politics out of this," said Liebman, "but it doesn't look like I'm getting much coöperation from the sheriff's office."

Deputies who ordinarily would not work Saturday afternoon were sent out by Sheriff Mulcahy Saturday after 11 subpenas were issued shortly before noon for McCahey and the 10 members of the school board. The two served were to Erik Thulin, 157 E. Ohio st., and Mrs. Walter F. Heineman, 9920 Hoyne av.

Liebman said the publicity given to the issuance of the subpenas would probably bring the board members to court today on their own initiative.

THOMAS SCOUTS 'INDISPENSABLE' ROLE IN PEACE

New York, Sept. 24 (AP).—Norman Thomas said tonight the administration had not planned effectively for either war or peace and that on the "record of the handling of pre-war issues, there is no reason to accept the indispensability of the Roosevelt administration for the handling of the peace."

In a broadcast address, the Socialist candidate for President declared:

"In 1940 when the Nazi power was at its height, Roosevelt did not say we must prepare rapidly and very soon enter the war to save ourselves and the world. He said we must take the sort of steps to aid one belligerent, which always in history has led to war—that latter fact he forgot to mention—but by these steps short of war we shall remain at peace. After the election the President proceeded to extend help to the allies which included actual convoying of their soldiers."

Mine Cave-In Damages Church, Scores of Homes

Ashley, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—A creeping mine subsidence, first noticed several days ago, continued to spread here today, damaging scores of homes along sections of four streets. Walls were cracked and a section of flooring buckled in St. Leo's Church. Water and gas mains were broken.

The Economic Reconstruction of EUROPE

THE time is fast approaching when allied and enemy populations alike will demand a blueprint for the economic reconstruction of Europe. The peace plans following this World War will be written piecemeal, and by experts, at a series of continuing conferences, such as Hot Springs, Bretton Woods, Dumbarton Oaks, and Quebec, each tracing a new pattern for negotiation and each dealing with a single, specific problem. In the drawing of these plans, the United States, as owner of more than half of the world's industrial capacity, controller of the only great credit reservoir, and possessor of the largest force of highly skilled technicians and management engineers, has heavy responsibilities which its industrial, financial, agricultural and labor leaders cannot evade.

The best safeguard of peace is economic opportunity—a good chance for all peoples to raise their standard of living by their own ingenuity, foresight and industry.

Frustrated and disappointed peoples, who view the future with misgiving rather than hope, breed fanatical demagogues who seek to divert nations from their ills and disappointments by promising military glory and conquests.

Consequently, an important step in building a secure and lasting peace is to open the doors of opportunity to the peoples of Europe.

The greatest obstacle to opportunity in Europe has been economic nationalism.

The economic tradition of the Continent always has been highly nationalistic. The national feeling generated by the First World War, and the political autonomy conferred upon many peoples by the peace treaties, led to a great growth of economic restrictions. This trend was accentuated by the depression and by the military plans of the Fascists and Nazis. Hitler had to show his people they could be fed even if a blockade was imposed again. The inevitable result of these influences was to carry self-sufficiency to tragic extremes.

Economic nationalism holds down the standard of living of Europe in two ways:

1. It prevents the rise in most European countries of low-cost mass production.
2. It operates against an efficient geographical division of labor, preventing nations from doing what each can do best.

Great machines require great markets. One great machine of which the United States has many and Europe few is the continuous strip steel mill. At the outbreak of the war we had twenty eight such mills of various sizes, England but one, and Continental Europe one. A building containing one of these machines is more than a quarter of a mile long and the minimum cost of the mill is almost $25,000,000. Only the prospect of a mass market justifies production on this vast, but highly economic basis.

In the 1930's, when lard sold for less than 8¢ a lb. in the United States, it cost 32¢ a lb. in Germany. In Italy and Germany imports of wheat were banned and its production at home was heavily subsidized. By the middle of the 1930's wheat sold for $1.55 a bushel in France, $1.97 in Czechoslovakia, $2.29 in Germany, and $2.47 in Italy. At the same time the United States and the other efficient world producers and exporters (Canada, Australia and Argentina) were restricting production and were unable to average more than about 75¢ a bushel for their wheat.

Economic unity in Europe must ultimately mean a freedom to trade not greatly different from what we have within the United States. Given economic unity and the large markets which go with it, efficient mass production will develop. With Europe receiving cheap supplies of such staple foods as wheat, pork, lard and dried fruits from over-seas, European farmers can prosper by specializing in producing fresh foods—butter, cheese, eggs, fruits, vegetables.

Then European agriculture will be more prosperous producing its specialties, and our agriculture (and that of the other great efficient surplus-producing countries as well) will have greatly expanded markets for our staples.

With a cheaper food supply for Europe—yet one yielding a better price for our agriculture—European labor will live better. Labor now used uneconomically for agricultural production will be released for industry. With big machines and semi-automatic processes European labor can produce more steel, automobiles, furnaces, plumbing and electrical appliances to advance its standard of living in coming decades, as the United States has done in past decades.

A rising standard of living in Europe will bring Europeans to view peace with optimism and hope. And world trade grows as confidence and prosperity widen.

How would a Europe which possesses economic unity appear to us on this side of the Atlantic?

It would be a prosperous Europe that would have strength in its advancing industries, but as the single great agricultural deficit area of the world, it would be dependent upon overseas supplies for vital agricultural staples. This dependence upon overseas agricultural supplies would be greatest for industrial Germany. Some people believe that a strong Europe would be a threat to world peace. More important, however, is the fact that a strong and prosperous Europe would not be a frustrated Europe. It would have found a way to achieve a rising standard of living. Furthermore, a prosperous Europe would, economically, be a dependent Europe because, although the European industrial worker would use more and cheaper food, he would have it only as long as he maintained the peace.

A prosperous Europe would be of special advantage to American agriculture (if we do not keep on pricing ourselves out of the market) and of great advantage to American industry.

The British policy of buying agricultural staples from abroad, for example, made her, a nation of only 45,000,000, the purchaser, in 1937, of $250,000,000 of all kinds of agricultural products from the United States. In the same year the rest of Europe (exclusive of Russia), with a population of 325,000,000, purchased only $300,000,000 of our agricultural products. But with more sensible organization of its agriculture, Europe could be expected to buy more than one billion dollars of agricultural products from us.

By far the greatest market for an expanded European industry will be Europe itself.

For American industry, there will be growing markets in Europe as industry expands. Experience shows that the trade between different highly industrialized areas is large. This country's biggest export markets have been with its keenest competitors—Britain, Canada, Japan, France and Germany.

Before the war, Europe, with two and one-half times the population of the United States, had only one-sixth as many automobiles.

If Europe (exclusive of Britain and Russia) were to motorize proportionately, it would need 75,000,000 automobiles. With normal depreciation this would ultimately mean 10,000,000 cars to be produced annually to replace worn out cars.

If one still wonders about the immense number of things Europe might produce for herself, let him calculate the highway expenditures, the filling and repair station businesses that must be equipped and maintained; and the doubling of the steel production that would be required to make the automobiles themselves and to reinforce with steel even a moderate amount of additional concrete highways.

Another example is the electrification of Europe. With two and one-half times our population Europe's consumption of electrical energy would be 175 million electrical H. P., if the European worker were to have the advantage of as many H. P. as the American. Yet, just prior to the war, Europe's installed operating capacity was only about 40 per cent of this figure.

What has been sketched for Europe actually is much more nearly a page from the economic history of the United States than it is mere prophecy about a desirable future for a Europe at peace. But how can it be achieved? And what is our part to be in helping to bring it about?

Economic unity can be provided for the sovereign states of Western Europe by the peace treaty or treaties adopted at the end of the war. The provisions for securing economic unity in Europe should specifically cover:

1. Substantial freedom for persons and enterprises to do business anywhere in Europe.
2. Reasonably free movement throughout Europe of persons for employment, recreation and education.
3. Greatly increased freedom of trade:

   a. Within Europe—through the application of a Europe-wide agreement reducing the tariffs among all European countries to a maximum of 10 or 15 per cent.

   b. With the rest of the world—through reduction of European tariffs on goods bought from overseas. This would call for generally lower levels on manufactured goods, and for the removal (after a reasonable period of progressive reduction) of tariffs on all agricultural foodstuffs and most industrial raw materials.
4. A special currency provision requiring as nearly as practicable complete currency stabilization for all countries of Western Europe among each other.
5. Creation of an agency (with adequate revenues) through which all Europe-wide business and other affairs affected by these agreements would be administered for a minimum period of twenty five years.

This would permit the economic unity of Europe to be substantially achieved. During this period, assistance in administering the provisions would be given by officials of the United Nations.

Near the end of such a period arrangements could be made for a vote in the European countries on whether or not to continue the "unification provisions". If the vote were in the negative, the United Nations would have proper warning that additional safeguards would be necessary to prevent war.

The suggestions made in this statement aim at securing economic unification of Europe and thereby promoting the possibilities of permanent peace in Europe.

The realization of these possibilities throughout the postwar years requires a freely expressed public opinion in Europe to guide all who share the responsibility for bringing peace to Europe and to the world.

SPRING RAINS AND BIG HARVESTS.

It is now clear that crops in this country this year will be almost the largest ever harvested. Wheat production, totaling 1,115,000,000 bushels, broke all records. It is equal to 1⅛ years of average production. It is the second billion bushel crop in history.

The corn yield was estimated at 3,100,000,000 bushels on Sept. 1, an amount that was exceeded only in 1942. It is equal to 1⅛ years of average production. It is the third 3 billion bushel crop, the only other two being the two preceding years. The year's output of barley and oats is far better than average, of rice is near a record, and of sorghums far and away the greatest.

All grains combined equal 153 million tons, compared with 143 million last year, 155 in 1942, and from 120 to 136 million tons in the five years before that. Not only will there be plenty to eat, but when all this grain is harvested there will be as much feed per head of live stock as there has ever been. The quality meat of the corn-fed steers is coming back, and we can forget about "economy" or grass-fed beef, which has to be cooked for hours, and heavily larded to be made tasty. To add some missing vitamins to this picture, the aggregate tonnage of eight major deciduous fruits [apples, peaches, grapes, etc.] is 21 per cent greater than last year and 10 per cent more than the 10 year average.

These remarkable results have been achieved under great handicaps. To raise anything, as the Chicago amateur gardeners have found out, requires labor. Farmers have had 300,000 fewer hired hands than they had last year. Even their help from members of the family has been cut by 180,000 from a year ago because of the draft. The agricultural implement supply has been inadequate. Worse still, planting was delayed over a wide area by persistent and heavy spring rains and by floods. At a critical point in the growing season, in late July and August, there was drouth. And what was raised had to be shared with a greatly increased number of rodents, because of lack of ammunition and hunters to destroy them. What would production have amounted to if there had been favorable conditions for farming such as prevailed in 1942?

What pleases at least one of our staff is that the abnormally large crops have been attained despite the floods and excessive spring moisture. Several years ago he went thru the files of THE TRIBUNE to see how crops had turned out in the fall when they appeared in spring to be in jeopardy because rainy weather had kept the farmers from the fields.

He found on May 14, 1935, a story which said: "With thousands of acres under water yesterday, bottom land farmers feared for their corn and wheat crops. . . . Added to the heavy rains of the last two weeks, the week-end's gale has produced more rain for the first 13 days of May than in any other year." When the end of the year came it was found that there was a corn crop larger than average in this state, and about twice as great as in the year before when the trouble was not enough rain.

Again in 1937, spring rains made the front pages of the papers. On May 5 a story said: "Rains continue over the corn states. . . . Planters are wondering when the weather will clear up and give them a chance to sow their spring crops." The rainy spell continued for 11 days. The gloom had disappeared by fall. More corn was harvested that year in Illinois than ever before or since. The total for the nation was far above average.

Again in 1938 rainfall was big news. It rained every day from May 14 to June 11. It was the wettest period on record. A story about farming said: "The corn crop is imperiled. Cultivation is blocked, water is standing in the fields, and the weeds are getting their greatest start in years." The true extent of the calamity is better judged by the crop returns. It was the third biggest corn crop in history in Illinois, and a total yield for the country far above average.

Early last year and in May and June this year the experience was repeated. Farmers, impatient to get at their work, look out of their windows at late spring rains and announce that doom is at hand. Lack of rain frequently has reduced crops, but our inquisitive staff member was not able to find a single year when a small harvest resulted from what appeared in spring to be too much precipitation. And so, if there are rainy days for two or three weeks next May, don't get excited if a farmer says to you, "Woe is me, look at all that water."

JAILBIRD BROWDER.

President Roosevelt's board of appeals on visa cases has voted to admit Mrs. Earl Browder to this country. She had confessed entering the United States illegally in 1933 and was ordered deported in 1940. She had been a librarian in the Lenin institute in Moscow where Communists were instructed in what is euphemistically called the art of subversion. A plainer word is murder. That was and is the Communist method of dealing with persons who disapprove or may be expected to disapprove the dictatorship.

It would be too bad, however, if public attention which ought to be concentrated on her husband were diverted to Mrs. Browder. He is the official head of the Communist movement in the United States. He is a twice convicted felon. He was a draft dodger in the last war. He was convicted and sentenced to the federal penitentiary at Atlanta for four years in 1941.

When Stalin climbed into Hitler's bed in 1939, Browder led the commies here in their vitriolic campaign against American preparation for war. That wasn't because they didn't want America to become involved in a European war. Their concern was to prevent the United States from fighting Stalin's great and good friend, Hitler.

Until then the New Deal had been good to Browder. It had given a lot of his boys important jobs in the federal service. Now the New Deal turned against him, tho only briefly. The passport frauds were dug up and the conviction followed. After Hitler invaded Russia Browder returned to favor in Washington. In 1942 his sentence was commuted "to promote national unity." In truth, he was pardoned to assure Communist support for Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal.

Browder has kept his part of the bargain. The commies under his leadership are all out for Roosevelt. They are working for the fourth term thru their own organization and thru Sidney Hillman's political action committee and a score of other false fronts.

Mr. Roosevelt has not been heard rejecting the support of this jailbird and his cutthroat gang. Mr. Roosevelt wants to carry New York and to do so he needs the 400,000 votes that Browder controls in the American Labor party. That's why he turned Browder loose and that's why Mrs. Browder has been permitted to remain in this country over the protests of five government departments and bureaus.

THE SILENT CANDIDACY OF MR. TRUMAN.

Since his appearance at the American Legion national convention in Chicago, Sen. Truman has moved to the back of the political stage. In contrast, Gov. Bricker, who holds the Vice Presidential nomination on the Republican ticket, has just returned to Columbus, O., from a swing thru New England.

Ordinarily, the efforts of a Vice Presidential candidate are part of a campaign to oblivion. He occupies the public eye for a few months as second man on a national ticket, and if the ticket is successful he moves into Washington on the 20th of January to become America's forgotten man for the next four years. Occasionally somebody makes a picture of him presiding over the senate or attending a diplomatic ball, but that is all. This is likely to be the fate of John Bricker if the Republicans are victorious. Gov. Dewey is the younger man, and Gov. Bricker cannot seriously expect to succeed to the Presidency.

In contrast, Mr. Roosevelt is 62 years old, and his health has been a matter of concern to his close associates and to the rest of the nation since his long convalescence at Bernard Baruch's Hobcaw Barony several months ago. If he wins a fourth term, he will be 66 before it runs out, and a man of that age, weakened by the strain of a tremendous war time responsibility, is much more likely to fold than a man in his early 40s.

Sen. Truman, therefore, has a much better chance of becoming President of the United States before 1948 than has Gov. Bricker. Mr. Truman ought to do most of the campaigning. He ought to tell the people more about himself, and explain, if he can, how his connections with the crooked Pendergast political machine and corrupt Kansas City municipal gang fit him for the Presidency.

Mr. Roosevelt does not have to do a lot of campaigning because he has held office so long that nobody can fail to know the things he represents. Sen. Truman, however, is a newcomer. We ought to know more about him, and the best way to learn is from his own lips.

CITIZEN OR SUBJECT?

The high court of Ontario, Canada, has dismissed a damage suit brought against the Hamilton, Ont., school board by a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect, whose sons had been expelled from school for refusing to salute the flag or sing "God Save the King." The court thereby upheld the right of the province to force these duties on every school child.

When a similar question first came up to the United States Supreme court it took the same line over Chief Justice Stone's strong dissent. About a year ago our court reversed its previous finding. Under our Constitution, with its guarantee of religious freedom, children cannot be kicked out of public schools for refusing on religious grounds to salute the flag.

The disagreement between the law of Ontario and the law of the United States seems to follow logically from the circumstance that an American is a citizen while a Canadian is a subject of the king. A man whose lawful status is that of subject has no lawful ground for refusing to salute the lawful symbol of his lawful sovereign. A man whose status is that of a citizen of a republic is nobody's subject but is himself one of the sovereign people. To make him salute the flag against his religious scruples is a good deal like making the king sing "God Save the King" when, as must sometimes happen, he doesn't feel that way about it at all.

Editorial of the Day

SECRETARY

[Manitowoc (Wis.) Herald-Times.]

. . . Harold Ickes says that when Gov. Dewey intimated the New Deal planned to keep men in the army overly long in order to lessen unemployment and Dewey promised to bring them home as soon as the war was over, the Republican candidate was "plucking at the heartstrings of American fathers and mothers."

Well, maybe he was. We cannot think of any promise that the fathers and mothers of America would like to hear as much as Dewey's outright promise to bring their sons back home as soon as possible.

But when it comes to "plucking at the heartstrings of American fathers and mothers," what was Mr. Roosevelt doing in his Boston speech just before the last election when he promised American fathers and mothers "again, and again, and again" not to send their sons to fight in any foreign war?

Was that plucking the heartstrings of American fathers and mothers for votes—or merely kidding them?

It is unquestionably a win for our side if the Russians capture Yurgbudzie, but the newscaster wishes they wouldn't.—Detroit News.

WHEN FOOTBALL WAS BORN.

This column finds in an important fall publication which has been ignored by the book reviewing department [Football Guide, 1944] the story of the birth of the game that has built more amphitheaters than the broad empire of Rome could produce. Amos Alonzo Stagg, a hoary demi-god of football's shadowy past, tells it after interviewing one of the original patriarchs—Eugene V. Baker, Yale, '76, captain of that year's team.

For several years there had been hit-and-miss games between various eastern colleges, some of them unadulterated soccer, others wild-eyed versions of Rugby. The first game played under Rugby Union rules with 11 men on a side, thereby establishing the framework for the American code, was between Yale and Harvard on Nov. 18, 1876. Yale won, 1 to 0. Harvard made two touchdowns but failed to kick goals. Touchdowns then meant only opportunities to score by kicking.

The linemen were called "rushers," and when they were tangled up in a hard knot it was a "scrummage." The word "scrimmage" came into the language two years later. The Rugby oval ball was used and it puzzled Yale, but the boys were bright enough to kick it on the nose instead of in the slats. Furthermore, the problem of inflating the ball was vexatious. They tried to blow it up by human wind power, but were in despair until Baker consulted a prof, who opened the physics laboratory and did the job with an air pump.

Baker was 82 years old when Stagg interviewed him in 1937, but he still had his scrap books.

• • •

This football guide also supplies evidence on the post-graduate career of Northwestern's forgotten man, Bill De Correvont. It contains a picture which shows him carrying the ball for Bainbridge Naval Training station in Maryland. We checked on Bainbridge's record and found that De Correvont's team won all of its seven games last fall, scoring 313 points to opponents' 7. It was among the six undefeated teams in the country, and in this group was highest scorer.

In the Shadow of the Mills.

When I was very young and came to live in the shadow of the steel mills they were terrifying devils that lit the skies with their nocturnal orgies. They were head-hunting cannibals who boiled their victims in huge caldrons, and rescuers were frightened away by their crackling fires, and fearful din. My father spent his days there, but it always surprised me to see him come strolling nonchalantly home in the evening.

Slowly, as the years passed, fear became fascination. The nightly glow of the fires was a friendly, familiar aurora borealis that pointed the way toward home. The crash and clang of machinery was the overture to life itself. Smoke in the sky and cinders on the porch were signs that all was well with Steel. I had learned that they meant bread on the table and shoes on the feet.

Now more years have passed, and the grip of Steel is firm and unrelenting. I smile at my youthful vows that some day, yes, some day I would live where the skies are clear and blue; some day I would be free of this circle of smoking chimneys; some day I would have a clean white house and a tidy porch. Some day! There is many a gay troubadour who is tied to his fate by a cobweb; there are free spirits whose duties bind them with silken cords; a few may squirm within ropes of hemp, but here beneath the smoky sky and on the sooty earth live those whose lives are fastened to the future with bands of Steel. PROOF OF PUDDING.

When grass is flecked with morning dew,
And foliage begins to fade,
When flowers reject their brilliant hue,
Then nature's plans for fall are laid.

When golden grains are stored away,
And wrens and warblers disappear,
When night steals in upon each day,
'Tis then we feel that fall is here.

But when my muscles throb and ache,
It then becomes quite crystal clear,
When caused by mingling leaves with rake,
That fall is definitely here.

Q. A. A. writes: "I was in junior college when drafted. When this is all over, I don't want to go back to college. If I want to follow a trade, can I get help from the government during apprentice training?"

Yes. For example, if you want to learn to operate a turret lathe and the regular scale is $1 an hour for a full-fledged operator and 50 cents for an apprentice, the veterans' administration, under the G. I. law, is authorized to pay you the difference up to a limit of $50 a month if you are single and up to $75 if you have dependents.

JOINT TROUBLE DURING THE CHANGE OF LIFE.

ATTENTION has been called time and again to the fact that rheumatic diseases and the change of life go hand in hand. There seems to be something about the tapering off of the function of reproduction and the blossoming of trouble about the joints. The system at this time undergoes a substantial upheaval. True enough, many will not experience the slightest symptom. The transition may be as gradual as the stopping of a train at the hands of a skilful engineer. No jarring will be observed.

But now and then the sufferer will become nervous, peevish, irritable, and exhibit both physical and emotional depression. In some parts of the country, one woman in every four will complain of rheumatism. Manifestations vary from minor twinges to enlargement of the "hinges" of the fingers and stiffness in knees, ankles, hips, and back.

It must be understood that the menopause does not cause arthritis. It is the adjusting habit of body which opens the doorway to attacks. We must recall that this malady is a systematic disorder, the exact origin of which we do not know. We realize, however, that whenever reserve is lowered, or marked alterations in metabolism occur, it may assert itself. For example, following any wasting disease, particularly if associated with worry, resistance and nutrition may drop to a point where joint difficulties will become the dominant enemy of comfort.

All of this means that every woman in the 40-50 age bracket should look to her general health. The important thing is not to allow fatigue to gain the upper hand. Furthermore, we can correct all other conditions which militate against physical buoyancy. Good hygiene demands plenty of rest, balanced meals, and freedom from anxiety.

The circulation is always a factor and we must maintain the blood at par in hemogoblin and red cells. Anemia and arthritis constitute an unruly team. The sedimentation test will point unerringly to the state of well being. If the rate is rapid, this is a warning that the patient is not up to standard. Attention likewise may be given to the digestive apparatus and to the organs of elimination, including the skin.

Just why potassium iodide is helpful is not clear. But the drug has long been known to be useful, especially if darting pains are encountered. Many will improve under small doses of thyroid extract while the hormone, stilbestrol, can be depended upon to relieve hot flashes.

In association with this same period, physicians have seen many victims of what appears to be a true fibrositis, involving muscles about the shoulder joints. "Frozen shoulder" is a common diagnosis because movement is avoided scrupulously. This condition is frequently mistaken for neuritis and no amount of vitamin B will help. The affliction may disturb one or both sides and must be regarded as of rheumatic origin. Heat and other forms of physical therapy are our best remedies.

Many women will go thru the menopause without a vestige of arthritis. With others, unfortunately, the disorder will come on and may not disappear with the termination of the interval. Thus it is that speedy reënforcement of decreased stamina becomes the prime consideration.

COOLEY'S ANEMIA.

E. H. M. writes: What is Mediterranean anemia?

REPLY.

European physicians refer to this malady as "thalassemia." When it appears in the United States, it attacks usually the descendants of those who lived along the Mediterranean. It is associated with enlargement of the spleen, changes in the facial expression, involvement of the bones, sometimes of the hands and face.

OXYGEN HUNGER.

K. D. writes: What does cyanosis mean?

REPLY.

Blue. It indicates lack of oxygen, commonly seen in severe pneumonia. The lungs are unable to supply this vital gas to the circulation.

LOVES ONIONS.

J. W. writes: I eat a small piece of raw onion every day. Is this good for my health?

REPLY.

O. K. if you like it and your digestive system does not rebel. An excellent article of diet.

Chrysanthemummery.

Also, a huge chrysanthemum,
In hope that she might then succumb
To such a reckless spender.

But tho she liked and chewed the gum
She loathed the huge chrysanthemum
And with a faint encomium
Returned it to the sender.

Who forthwith sent his aunt the "mum,"
The poor despised chrysanthemum,
And took to drinking pots of rum
With topers of his gender.

Early Christmas.

The sight of Christmas wrappings when the thermometer roams in the high '80s and the first autumn leaf has yet to fall is a shock, but the postal service for overseas Christmas shippings makes it necessary. What to send is a terrifying problem. You go around muttering to yourself, "Now, what did I send him last year? Did he like it? Was it what he wanted? He was polite, but . . . but . . ." and there you are.

You lurch thru the shops, looking at this and that and admitting that that pretty gold edged billfold is hardly the thing to send to the Siegfried line and that fragrant shaving soap might come as a considerable shock in a South Pacific foxhole, and then you read that some one has sent a tiny Christmas tree, and why can't you make one like that and send it?

It takes you 10 hours to get over this. At the end of that time you find yourself glued into the paper carton, no more than 36 inches in circumference, and the Christmas tree you have just made of twisted green paper and silver tinsel is glued to the couch. Glued imperishably to it is the pair of woolen sox you have been working on for the last six months. And time is flying. The mailing period is limited.

What can you do, anyway? The needs vary so from one war theater to another. In one there is plenty of soap, in another none. In one cigarets fall out of trees. In another they smoke rolled hay. And try as you may, you can never ascertain definitely just which theater has what.

At about this period in this department's Christmas spirit season along came a letter from Lt. Arthur Olsen of the 43d field hospital in New Guinea. What he has to say probably will not apply in other theaters, but he says he speaks for his organization when he says they do not need [1] razor blades, [2] cigarets, please! [3] tooth paste, [4] shaving cream, [5] billfolds, [6] knitted sox or sweaters, [7] candy or cake, [8] electric razors, [9] pajamas.

"What do the soldiers want?" he asks. "Actually the soldier is more concerned with what he can send in the way of a gift to his mother, dad, wife, or sweetheart.

"The average soldier would get greater joy out of being able to send a gift home to his loved ones—than anything he could receive.

"But here is the soldier's problem. He has no facilities for purchasing gifts to be sent home. There are no State st. stores in the Pacific. Why hasn't some business man realized this? Why won't they send us goods on consignment?

"Our men need Christmas cards to send home, novelty jewelry, wristwatches, and other items which make acceptable gifts. The soldier is tired of receiving worthless gifts. All he really wants is the chance to send something home."

Incidentally, all Lt. Olsen's outfit wants, he says, is saws, hammers, and 8 and 10 penny nails! He says they are needed to build the million and one things required by a hospital. These items are not to be had out there, and a keg of nails is the most precious thing on the island.

This department again opens its doors. Any one who wishes to send a Christmas package of nails, hammers, and/or saws to the 43d field hospital in New Guinea will be given its address.

"THE QUICKEST WAY TO THE POOR HOUSE."

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 20.—It might be interesting to take a brief look at the spending record of the indispensable man in the White House who said in a speech before his first term that "the quickest way to the poor house is to spend more than you take in."

Since Franklin D. Roosevelt entered the White House, the country has been obligated to an amount equal to all the wealth accumulated on this continent since Columbus found it. This is on the authority of Sen. Harry S. Byrd of Virginia, and a Democrat.

In 1943 he spent as much as the first 150 years of the life of the republic.

The federal debt is different from city, county or state debt. It is far more dangerous. The federal government issues the money of its creditors, some 50 million or more bond holders, and you are one of them. Cities and counties are forbidden to issue money. Every city and county in America could go bankrupt and 3,000 have since 1932, and the American dollar would still be good. But let the federal government default or falter in its obligations and every investment such as life insurance, war bonds, social security cards, and paper money would be waste paper.

Some people ask me, "What can I do?" The answer is simple—put an "X" in the right square on Nov. 7. Bear in mind it takes votes to win elections, not only yours, but your friends'.

JOBS OR THE DOLE?

Chicago, Sept. 14.—If the really wealthy families which control some of our great industries wished, they could dispose of their holdings, place the cash so obtained in safe deposit boxes, and draw from these for their requirements. They and their heirs for many generations could loaf and enjoy life without a single worry.

Possibly a New Deal victory may bring such disgust to industrialists that they sell out or shut down their plants. They can do so without serious loss, but I wonder if we, the employes, can have them do so without severe injury to us?

The industrialist and merchandiser must be allowed to prosper in order that we who labor can prosper. A job with Dewey—or a dole with Roosevelt? The choice should be easy.

BATTLE CRIES.

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 19.—Down thru the history there have been many great battle cries, chief among which were: "Give Me Liberty or Give Me Death," "Remember the Alamo," "Remember the Maine," and "Remember Pearl Harbor." Those famed battle cries made and preserved our great Republic for us. Now, with an election coming up, I say "Remember Pearl Harbor"—who was responsible for it, and who refuses to take the blame?

THE WAY IT USED TO BE.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Eva Jegi who appears thrilled with the speed of her ration board in giving her sugar in only four days, must have forgotten that back in the good old pre-Roosevelt days we could get all the sugar we wanted in less than four minutes. ALBERT KLINGER.

SAYS WE HAD TO FIGHT.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—I have been a constant reader of THE TRIBUNE for more than 45 years. I am in agreement with your opposition to the New Deal, but I must say that your editorials are often not logical.

Today's editorial, "Winston vs. Churchill," is a case in point. In this editorial you ignore completely one very pertinent fact with regard to our entry in this and the previous European war. In both cases we, the people of the United States, felt ourselves threatened. We felt that our liberties were in danger. The fact that, as in the present instance, this threat included the possible destruction of the British empire and the defeat of Russia was only incidental. The people largely felt, and with reason, that if both of these nations went down to defeat and we were isolated in a world in which Hitler was triumphant, we would be subjected to dangerous pressure and eventual invasion and that the only course was to help defeat Hitler, and incidentally the Japs, while we had the coöperation of these two nations whose efforts in their own behalf greatly helped us in the period when we were militarily weak, and even now.

Your diatribes against Russia and Britain always ignore these facts. No man in this country has or has had the right to bring this nation into a war save on the basis of self-preservation. We are in this fight not to save Russia, and England with her empire, but to save ourselves.

AN OLD WELL-WISHER.

WHAT THEY WON'T LET US EAT SPOILS.

Bluffton, O., Sept. 14.—Today the Cleveland Plain Dealer printed an article about peaches, saying they were rotting for want of buyers and for want of sugar to can them. The OPA says they didn't know we have a sugar shortage. A friend of mine who works in a large wholesale grocery house in Washington, D. C., has always declared there never was a sugar shortage, and there isn't now.

The man who usually delivers butter to our grocery says the government is buying all the cream and letting it spoil. He says it is cheaper for his creamery to sell it to the government to spoil than to make butter. Now if the sugar and butter were going to hungry people in Europe, or to the army, I wouldn't say a word. Something ought to be done about the matter.

DENTIST FLYER'S PRAYER IN AIR SAVES HIS LIFE

Lt. Chapin Granted Time to Apply Tourniquet.

Lt. Marvin E. Chapin Jr., 28, of 3848 N. Ridgeway av., who entered the army as a first lieutenant in the dental corps but became a pilot with the 9th air force, has won renown as one of the heroes of World War II.

Lt. M. E. Chapin Jr.

For each of his missions over enemy territory, Lt. Chapin painted a gleaming white molar on his plane. He chose this form of decoration so that he wouldn't forget he was a dentist. His plane boasted 21 molars, but on the mission which would have provided the 22d he ran into trouble.

Guides Crippled Plane Home.

At the base of the Cherbourg peninsula, Lt. Chapin's plane was jumped by a German fighter and riddled with machine gun bullets. He nursed the crippled plane back to England, but when he was ready to land he discovered that a 500 pound bomb under one wing had failed to release.

To have landed the plane with its bomb would have been disastrous, so Lt. Chapin regained altitude and jumped. The tail of his plane whipped across his right leg, amputating it just below the knee.

His Prayer Granted.

The injured flyer yanked his parachute rip cord and twisted a tourniquet about his leg. In a letter to a former associate in Chicago, Lt. Chapin wrote that he prayed that God "would be a good fellow" and let him complete the touriquet application before he lost consciousness. He added, "God was a good fellow."

Now at the Lawson General hospital in Atlanta, Ga., Lt. Chapin is awaiting a final revision operation. "I'm not at all self-conscious or sensitive about my loss," he said. "On the contrary, I kinda feel a little proud that I was able to do it." His wife, Betty, and 2 year old son, Keith, are with him in Atlanta.

Lt. Chapin was awarded the air medal with two oak leaf clusters and the Purple Heart. He was graduated from the Chicago College of Dental Surgery at Loyola university and was a member of the American Dental association.

BRIDES TO GET VOTING LESSON PLUS LICENSE

Young women who go to the county building these days with only a marriage license in mind are likely to leave properly registered to vote as well.

County Clerk Flynn said yesterday that the current drive by both parties for full registration has disclosed confusion among newly married women as to their standing on the registration books, and he decided the best time to enlighten each one was when she was about to change her name and possibly her address.

"You can hardly expect a girl on the way to the altar to be concerned about her status as a voter, so I have instructed all my office people to suggest to those of voting age that they can save time and be sure of their vote by taking care of registration right then," he said. "All they need do is step over to another counter for a minute."

Every woman who has married since she last voted must make a new registration, Flynn said. Many of them, he has found, think all that is required of them is to give notice of a change of address if that has taken place with marriage, but the law calls for a new registration under the married name. Brides who have not previously been registered also are given the opportunity to make one trip to the clerk's office count for two.

British Teachers Oppose Equal Pay for Women

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 24.—Denouncing a suggestion that women should receive the same pay as men in the school teaching profession, the president of the National Association of School Masters asserted at Nottingham yesterday that such a concession would eventually mean virtual feminine domination. Introduction of such equality, he said, would cause a larger number of boys to be handed over to instruction by women teachers, deteriorating "to the same state as in New York, where 97 per cent of the teachers are women."

ONE of the mechanical landmarks of the Fox River farm is requiring much attention from the farm workers. It's the hydraulic ram, the automatic pumping machine which has supplied water for one of the main sets of farm buildings for more than 50 years.

The water supply comes from a small pond created by the damming of a spring hole. The water from the spring pond is carried about 100 feet thru a three inch pipe to the hydraulic ram. Enough pressure is produced by the plunger pump in the ram to force the water thru a one inch pipe over a hill to the farm buildings a quarter of a mile away.

Repairs Only Cost.

Since the 1890s this mechanical gadget has provided the power for watering the stock at almost no cost except the labor of making occasional repairs. During the last few weeks, however, the ram has been out of order several times because of a series of leaks in the three inch pipe running from the spring hole to the pump. Small stones entered the pipe thru these leaks and then were carried into the pumping mechanism, causing it to jam. For a while the men thought they would have to destroy the 10 inch concrete abutment dam to get to the faulty pipe, but they were able to stop the leak by replacing a 14 foot section of pipe just below the abutment, so the ram now is in working order again.

A Fence Row Is Cleared.

The repair of the water pump was the main odd job of the last two weeks, and the men also completed the major chore of clearing an overgrown fence row. On neither of the farms do the men maintain "clean" fences, because the weeds and native shrubs which grow alongside the field markers provide cover and feed for game birds. This particular fence row, however, was getting out of control.

Wild black cherry trees had been planted along the fence, and so many saplings had grown up between the main trees that the fence row was becoming a jungle. The first five rows of corn on the west side of the fence were stunted because of the shade from the cherry trees and their theft of the ground moisture. The men used tractors to pull out most of the saplings, but left 20 of the largest trees to provide shade for the cattle when they are pastured there. The wire fence was removed and the ground between the fields will be cultivated for two years to starve the tree roots further.

The GARDEN

GARDENERS having small plots in their own yards often can protect tender vegetables against light frosts by the use of a rotary sprinkler. The hose and sprinkling equipment can be put in place during the evening of a forecast frost and allowed to run from around midnight to 6 a. m., the hours when early frosts usually strike.

If the sprinkler nozzles are adjustable, the sprays should be set as fine as possible, but if necessary to cover a wider area one of the nozzles can be adjusted to throw a heavier spray for the outer edges of the garden plot.

If the garden is too large to be completely covered, gardeners often can save tender crops such as snap beans and tomatoes by directing stationary sprays over those individual crops.

DRUGGIST POSITIVE DRAKE MURDER GUN IS ONE HE HAD IN 1933

Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 24 [Special].—Carl Haffner, a druggist at 720 Chestnut st., in a written statement today asserted he is now "more positive than before" that a .38 caliber revolver taken from him in a store holdup in 1933 was the weapon used in the murder of Mrs. Adele Born Williams in the Drake hotel in Chicago on Jan. 19.

The murder revolver also has been identified by Walter Brown, a Stateville convict, who asserted it was one of two weapons given him by a man who had robbed Haffner. Brown said he brought the revolver and an automatic pistol to the home of Adolph Valanis, now a Chicago policeman, in 1933 before Brown was sentenced for murder of a deputy sheriff.

Charles Wilson, head of the scientific crime detection laboratory of the Chicago police department, said a search for bullets Brown said he fired into the ground near here from the .38 caliber revolver would be concluded today. By matching the lost bullets with the murder gun, investigators hoped to find conclusive proof of its former ownership.

TRIBUNE WORKER SERVING IN ARMY DIES OF WOUNDS

10th to Lose Life on Military Leave.

Pvt. William J. Curran Jr., 34, a Tribune pressman on military leave, died in France of wounds he received in action on Aug. 22, the war department yesterday informed his widow, Elizabeth, 2632 Cortez st. He was the 10th Tribune employe to die while in service.

Pvt. W. J. Curran Jr.

Pvt. Curran was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Curran Sr. of 5323 Nelson st. His father also is employed as a Tribune pressman. The son worked for THE TRIBUNE for 10 years before he joined the army on Feb. 2. He went overseas June 24 and two weeks ago word was received that he had been wounded. Pvt. Curran also is survived by two sons, Harold, 11; William J. Curran III., 4; a daughter, Sharon; two brothers, and two sisters.

Tech. Sgt. Arthur Anderson, 28, of Leland, La Salle county, was killed in action in France Aug. 30, while on duty with a tank unit, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnst Anderson, were advised by the war department yesterday. He entered the army in February of 1942.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Platt, 741 Lebanon st., Aurora, were advised yesterday by the war department that their son, Lt. R. J. Platt, 21, a bombardier, has been missing in action over Germany since Sept. 9. His wife, Mrs. Dorothy Platt, makes her home with his parents.

'Burocracy' Is a Phony Issue, Says Mrs. Douglas

Pana, Ill., Sept. 24 (AP). — Mrs. Emily Taft Douglas, Democratic candidate for representative at large, today said in a campaign speech that burocracy in government is a "phony" political issue. "The opposition attacks on burocracy fail to mention that two-thirds of the burocrats are directly concerned with the war effort," she said.

Nude Body of Woman Found in Capital Lagoon

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—The nude body of a woman with her throat slashed, identified by police as Mrs. Margaret Fitzwater, 53, a widow, was found today in the lagoon fronting the Pentagon building, home of the war department. Gardner Holmes, 66, who lives in a houseboat, found the body. He said he had heard a scream about midnight but did not investigate.

400 DANES PRAY FOR KING AS 73D BIRTHDAY NEARS

Celebration of the birthday anniversary of King Christian X. of Denmark, who will be 73 tomorrow, was held yesterday in St. Luke's church by more than 400 Danes who met to pray for his longevity. The observance was moved from Our Savior's United Lutheran church because of the large crowd.

The Rev. Paul Nyholm of the sponsoring church gave the address in the Danish language, and the Rev. E. F. Valbracht of the host church read the opening scripture.

Fifteen veterans of the Danish guard, who once served in the king's personal regiment, took part in the program, wearing their traditional blue sash and carrying both the American and the Danish flags.

Firemen Scale Elevator in Battle with Flames

Firemen had to scale the equivalent of a six story building last night to fight a fire in a wood machinery housing on the top of an unused grain elevator at 57th st. and Hamilton av. The structure was last used as a sand elevator by the Material Service corporation. Damage was estimated at $3,000.

LYONS ASSAILS SECRET SCHEMES OF NEW DEALERS

Declares Citizens Have Right to Facts.

BY ROBERT HOWARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Moline, Ill., Sept. 24.—Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, denounced diplomatic secrecy at the Dumbarton Oaks conference in a speech today and refused to pledge support of any policy on which the public is not given full information.

"What business man would sign a contract without knowing what it contained?" Lyons asked.

Gov. Green and Lyons headed a group of candidates speaking before a large crowd at a Republican picnic in Riverside Park here. Green in his talk recounted assistance given by his state administration to labor and hailed the importance of war work done in Moline, Rock Island, and East Moline industrial plants.

Blast Hillman and Reds.

Denouncing Sidney Hillman of the political action committee and Communist backers of the New Deal, the governor said plans for America's future should be made and executed by Republican leadership uniting all the people. He praised the Dewey-Bricker Republican Presidential ticket.

Lyons, who has advocated international coöperation to prevent future wars but has insisted full protection be given American interests, said no man had a right to pledge support of any policy which had been kept secret.

"It is a theory of the New Dealers." Lyons said, "that citizens of our nation, from which government derives its authority, must be kept in the dark concerning covenants secretly arrived at which may seriously affect the future of their country. We're still trying to find out what happened at Cairo and Teheran. In foreign relations, as in every other form of government which affects our daily lives and welfare, the burocrats have ruled that the public is dispensable.

Opposes Secret Facts.

"Today, nobody is aware just what is happening at the Dumbarton Oaks conference. From what little has been revealed the conference has bogged down because Russia and England are having trouble deciding about their respective spheres of influence in the post-war European world."

Earlier in the day in a speech at a meeting in Rock Island, Gov. Green stated the issue of the Presidential campaign as a change from an administration of "dictatorial interference" to one committed to "work with the people to help build a new and finer America."

"There is the issue," said Gov. Green. "It is time for a change—time for a change to the leadership of Tom Dewey and John Bricker, who, accepting fully the responsibility of government to serve the people, will also accept the responsibility to work with the people."

Gov. Green cited the legislative accomplishments of his administration in improved public services. Ten days ago State's Atty. Courtney of Cook county, the Democratic candidate for governor, spoke at a campaign meeting here and attacked Gov. Green on the same points.

Aid to Handicapped Cited.

The governor said the state had maintained and improved its safety, health, and educational services, and in many instances had developed facilities to meet needs of war time. He said aid to handicapped citizens had been increased and ample provision had been made for returning soldiers.

The governor said service centers for the aid of returning veterans have been set up in every county, and added: "As long as I am governor, the veterans will come first in our program for Illinois."

4TH TERM FOES TO GET PLACE ON TEXAS BALLOT

Austin, Tex., Sept. 24 (AP).—Secretary of State Sidney Latham said today he would certify the names of presidential electors chosen by a new political party organized yesterday if the group submits its nominations in the proper legal manner.

The party, made up of anti-Roosevelt Democrats, has not yet taken on a name. It was formed a few hours after the State Supreme court ruled pro-Roosevelt electors nominated at the state Democratic convention Sept. 13 were the party's legal electors and would be listed on the ballot in the Democratic column.

The court's action upheld the September convention's purge of names of electors chosen at the May 23 regular state session.

WLB WILL HEAR GROCERY CHAIN STRIKERS TODAY

Issues in the strike of more than 450 National Tea company store managers in the Chicago area will be aired at a meeting of union officials at 2 p. m. today before the regional war labor board at 332 S. Michigan av. In response to the WLB order that the union appear to show cause, Atty. S. G. Lippman, representing the Chicago local of the Retail Clerks' International Protective association [AFL], said, "We'll be there as a matter of courtesy to state our position." The union contends that the WLB is without jurisdiction in the dispute, which involves the union shop issue.

Atty. James Bryant Made Regional Counsel of WPB

John Nuveen Jr., regional director of the war production board, said yesterday that Atty. James R. Bryant of Chicago has been appointed regional counsel for the 6th region of the WPB, comprising five midwestern states. Bryant, who has served since 1933 as master in chancery of the Superior court here, succeeds Judge Russell J. Ryan of Indianapolis, Ind.

BURNS FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Elsie Gottselig, 58, of 7743 Coles av., died yesterday in Illinois Central hospital of burns received Saturday when her dress caught fire as she kindled a fire in a coal stove.

"Yes, it's Jimmy, all right. But what on earth is that thing with him?"

The Inquiring Camera Girl

THE QUESTION.

What unexpected problem have you had to cope with while acting?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Jane Sterling, New York City—In a play at Boston an old character actor who couldn't hear his cue on stage had an alarm clock in his dressing room to tell him when to enter. Ten minutes was cut from the first act, and while he sat calmly waiting for his clock that night I had to face the audience with nothing to say.

Clinton Sundberg, New York—Once while playing Horatio in "Hamlet" in a repertory company, I was supposed to say, as Hamlet died in my arms, "Now cracks a noble heart. Good night, sweet prince—." Instead I said, "Now cracks a noble voice. Good night, sweet prince and flights of angels sing thee to thy rest."

Millard Mitchell, East Moriches, N. Y.—During a scene in "Mr. and Mrs. North" I had to pour a cocktail from a large shaker. One night the top of the shaker flew off. Ice water splashed all over my lap, the floor and even onto the first row in the audience. I had to pick up the ice while, of course, the audience howled.

Emily Ross, New York—I was playing Edith, the girl with all the babies in "The Women." In the last act I had just told Mary Haines she should find a new beau now that she was divorced. As she replied, "I hate men. Men are awful," the upstage door opened and there stood a strange man. He had opened the door by mistake.

Loring Smith, Norwalk, Conn.—While playing in a show at the Music Box theater in New York a fly kept annoying me all during the second act. Finally it alighted on my nose—and I managed to grab it. In my excitement I said out loud, "That's the last show you will see for nothing." Imagine how the audience reacted.

Marjorie Clark, New York—In S. N. Behrman's "Amphitryon" I was playing the part of Alkmena. One night in the last act near the climax Jupiter and light-footed Mercury were arising out of the clouds. Just as Mercury with wings on his feet appeared, he knocked over all the scenery. We continued playing on top of it.

PAC GIVES UNION EASY POLITICAL LESSON FOR $1

Another circular with which Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee is seeking campaign donations from union members with an approach intended to evade the Smith-Connally law came to light yesterday.

Passed out to workers at the big Studebaker airplane engine plant at 5555 Archer av., this plea for "at least a dollar," warns to donors to get a PAC receipt, not a union form. The Smith-Connally act forbids gifts of money from a labor union to a political party. The strategy outlined on the mimeographed sheet given the Studebaker CIO workers is to hand the dollar to the steward, or any PAC member, at the union hall, but to make sure the receipt is signed by PAC, which regards itself as free of the restraint placed on the union.

"We're asking you to make a contribution to the political action committee of the CIO so it can do its job in helping to elect President Roosevelt and a congress that will work for the people," the appeal states.

A pamphlet circulated among members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, district 1, CIO, cautioned that the PAC fund is to be used for "a mass educational and organizational campaign for democratic government, and not for party purposes."

SCHLAEGER ASKS VOTERS TO BACK CODE REVISION

Support for the constitutional amendment on the Nov. 7 ballot that would remove the limit of one term for sheriffs and county treasurers was asked by County Treasurer Schlaeger yesterday in a statement. He said the limiting statute was passed in 1870 and was needed then because in most instances those officers were insufficiently bonded. Adequate surety and frequent audits, he said, have removed that reason. He argued also that the limiting statute may cost the public the service of a good man just at his peak after one term.

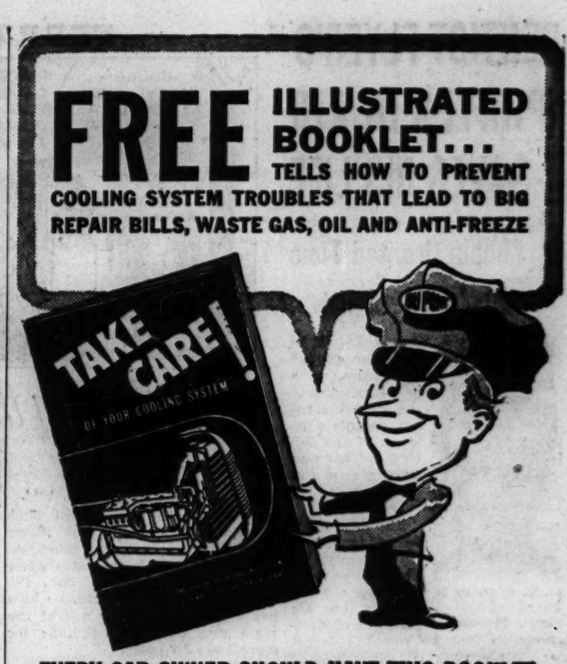
FREE ILLUSTRATED BOOKLET... TELLS HOW TO PREVENT COOLING SYSTEM TROUBLES THAT LEAD TO BIG REPAIR BILLS, WASTE GAS, OIL AND ANTI-FREEZE



EVERY CAR OWNER SHOULD HAVE THIS BOOKLET

Prepared under the supervision of Du Pont engineers, "Take Care of Your Cooling System" tells you in simple, non-technical language how to avoid expensive, destructive trouble in your car's cooling system. It shows you easy ways to prevent rust, corrosion and scale from ruining hard-to-replace engine parts . . . how to get set for winter and summer . . . how to detect mechanical troubles before they cause a breakdown.

Fully illustrated with photographs and cartoons, this informative booklet answers such questions as:

Why does water in some parts of the country cause rust and scale to form so quickly?

How can I get the most heat from my car heater?

What kind of anti-freeze should I use?

"Take Care of Your Cooling System" will help keep your car or truck running for the duration—and longer! Especially valuable to war workers.

Send no money—It's absolutely free. Du Pont, maker of leading anti-freeze and other cooling system products, has published this booklet as a public service to car owners. Send the coupon or a postal card for your copy today.

Which of These Statements is Correct?

1. UNITED STATES STEEL IS OWNED BY 86,743 PEOPLE.
2. UNITED STATES STEEL IS OWNED BY 204 PEOPLE.
3. UNITED STATES STEEL IS OWNED BY 222,602 PEOPLE.

No. 1 and No. 2 are wrong. No. 3 is correct. 222,602 people own U. S. Steel. Among this army of owners is a remarkably large number of women shareholders, 97,106 of them. A good many shares are held by 1,246 charitable and educational institutions, and other large amounts of stock are owned by insurance companies for the benefit of policyholders.

You'll find owners of U. S. Steel stock at work in stores, in factories and on farms, in every one of the forty-eight states. They're the typical Americans you rub elbows with on a bus or at the movies. Their stake in U. S. Steel is a good example of American thrift.

That fiery, tender, tired, painful feeling lessens more and more as soothing Dr. Scholl's Foot Balm helps speed up circulation to drive away fatigue. The relief you enjoy will be unforgettable. Grand for sweaty, odorous feet, too. Get a jar of Dr. Scholl's Foot Balm today. Costs but a trifle.

WHY PAY More THAN THESE LOW RATES FOR A PERSONAL LOAN?

COMPARE WITH MERCHANDISE BANK'S LOW CHARGES

Offers of personal, or "salary loans," meet the eye everywhere. But LOOK at the stated "tables of payment." They show what loans actually cost you—if you take time to figure it out. In most cases, for a loan of $100, you're asked to make 12 payments of about $10.07 each. That totals $120.84—or $20.84 more than you borrow.

SAVE NEARLY TWO PAYMENTS

Merchandise Bank has two loan plans: On a $100 loan, if you use the popular plan of borrowing with one co-maker the cost is only $5.50—and you save $15.34 on $100 for 1 year. If you borrow on your signature only the cost is only $8—and you save $12.84. In either case the saving amounts to nearly as much as two payments—and it's money in your pocket. Only two examples are shown in the table above—but you save proportionately on any amount you borrow at Merchandise Bank.

For a 12 mo. $100 LOAN — At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay $20.84 — At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only 8.00 — YOU SAVE $12.84

For a 12 mo. $200 LOAN — At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay $39.52 — At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only 16.00 — YOU SAVE $23.52

Why Pay more THAN THIS LOW COST?

Clubs Arrange Programs; Set Opening Dates

BY JUDITH CASS.

NOW that summer vacations are a memory and there is a hint of cold in the air, most of the Chicago clubs have set their opening dates and are busy arranging their calendars for the coming season. Both the Arts club and the Casino club, which have been closed since the middle of June, will reopen next Monday. Altho no special event has been planned at either club, members of the Arts club will exchange summer experiences at tea from 4 to 6 p. m. on that day.

The Woman's Athletic club, which remained open thru the summer, will hold its first meeting of the season on Oct. 10 when its guest speaker before luncheon will be Mrs. Mark Clark. Her subject will be "A General's Wife Looks at the War." Her husband is commander of the American 5th army in Italy.

Mrs. John Crerar, president of the Fortnightly club, will return from the east, where she has been spending the summer, about the middle of October, just a few days before the club's first meeting on Oct. 26.

The Friday club and the Contemporary club which also meets at the Fortnightly, will hold their first meetings on Oct. 20 and Oct. 27, respectively. Dr. Lothrop Stoddard, author, editor and radio commentator, will speak on "What About the British Empire?" at the Contemporary club meeting.

Other Coming Events.

The Woman's Exchange has sent out attractive pale pink and blue cards for its autumn exhibition of children's clothing tomorrow in the headquarters at 902 N. Michigan av. Six or eight consignors who for years have made the children's garments sold in the shop will be present to show new materials and to meet guests who have been invited to tea between 3 and 5 p. m. Mrs. James Ward Thorne is in charge of the tea and sale. There also will be a board meeting tomorrow at the shop.

The English-Speaking Union will open its fall season with a luncheon and tea on Oct. 13. Harold Butler, director of British Information Services in the United States, will be the luncheon speaker. Mrs. Ralph H. James is chairman of the luncheon meetings, of which three will be held before Jan 1. The tea will be the first of a series of regular gatherings following concerts by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. Charles W. Dempster will be in charge of the teas.

Joseph H. Ball, Republican senator from Minnesota, will speak on "The Consequence of Dumbarton Oaks" when the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations holds its next luncheon session at 12:15 p. m. on Thursday in the Mural room of the Morrison hotel. If Mrs. Ball also is here at that time, she will sit at the speakers' table with her husband, Walter T. Fisher, the council's new president, and others.

The young people who look forward to the dancing parties of the Dinner Dance club will have two gay evenings before the first of the year, a party Nov. 11 and one on Dec. 23, both at the Saddle and Cycle club. Mrs. Roger Faherty heads the group of mothers who plan these parties. Some of those on her committee are Mrs. Francis Blossom, Mrs. Abner J. Stilwell, Mrs. Howard Carroll, Mrs. James O. Wood, and Mrs. Arthur Wirtz. The club is entering its eighth year.

Engagement News.

At a tea yesterday at home in Northbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen Putt announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen Virginia, to Warrant Officer Robert Lockard of the navy, son of Mrs. Josephine Lampfrom of Phoenix, Ariz. The wedding will take place probably after the Christmas holidays.

Miss Putt attended Lake Forest college. Warrant Officer Lockard has served in both European and Pacific theaters of war and is now stationed at the naval air station in North Bend, Ore.

Today's Calendar.

Mrs. Vilas Johnson, president of the Friends of Orphans, has invited the organization's board to be her guests at luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today at the Glen View club. Under the direction of Mrs. Carroll H. Blanchar, chairman of the projects committee, plans are being made for the group's annual rummage sale late in October. During the summer the Friends of Orphans continued to supply weekly treats to children living in the Lydia, Central Baptist, and Lake Bluff homes, and the Red Cross unit has been operating under Mrs. Carl Judsen.

Mrs. Nelson Utley will entertain at tea today for members of the Kenwood Social Service club of the Infant Welfare society.

White Collar GIRL

Siren Led.

It was a siren led convoy observed by D. C.—the large navy trucks heavily loaded with sailors zooming along Jackson blvd. at Clark st., all driven by serious faced seamen—except one. That one was chauffeured by a pert young blonde.

One Man Steno.

Inter-Office Communication.

Just in the event you ever should be a purchasing agent, or even work for one, a No. 10 envelope (referred to in a letter to Scared Secretary) is always 4⅛"x9½".

Remember to list the closed end of the envelope first, for reversing the measurements in describing a No. 10 would give you an envelope with the flap on the 4⅛" end. The endless joys of purchasing! D. O.

First Aid.

The new switchboard operator, when going on a pass, asked the relief girl to nurse the board while she was away.

ALLIANCE LIFE.

Attitudes.

With the beginning of the end in sight, do you suppose it is timely to remind the employer that he has been blessed these many months if he has had on his premises girls whose wholesome attitudes regarding responsibility to office duties have remained unchanged by the war time situation?

These girls have been a blessing when they chose to remain in their jobs despite other tempting offers. They have been a blessing when they refrained from climbing into the driver's seat, simple as it might have been; when they went about their daily tasks with the same genuine concern as in the days when, on the way to work, it was necessary to step over applicants for jobs.

These girls, contributing noiselessly and efficiently to the smooth operation of the office—sometimes overlooked among the more obtrusive—are the ones I hope will be remembered.

HELEN CLINE.

Puzzled.

Just a little puzzled over the ad in the paper which read: "For Rent: Rooms to two nice girls or a couple of school teachers."

JOAN VANDER WERF.

Don't Forget.

Don't forget that the Art Institute offers free half hour lectures in the galleries, every Wednesday, 12:30 to 1 p. m., beginning Oct. 4. There is a Thursday evening free lecture series in Fullerton hall at 6:30, given by Helen Parker, beginning Oct. 5. Beginning Oct. 7, famous motion pictures will be revived every Saturday afternoon at 2:30, also free to the public.

'That's A Laff' Opens but Critic Can't See Why

"THAT'S A LAFF."

Comedy by Pamela Edmunds, adapted from Don Mullally's "Laff That Off." Presented at the Civic theater Sunday evening, Sept. 24, 1944.

THE CAST.

Peggy.....Shirley Deane
Emmie.....Jane Elliott
Mrs. Connelly.....Margaret Hillias
Leo.....Lester Podewell
Art.....Hitous Gray
R. E. Morse.....Wilms Herbert
Mike.....Tom Post

For the life of me I can't think of anything to say about this one that won't come under the head of taking candy away from the baby. "That's a Laff," the Civic's current venture, known in some previous incarnation as "Laff That Off," is third rate stock company stuff in writing, acting, and direction, and left me with nothing more constructive than a desire to depart.

For the record, it concerns three hall room musketeers who adopt a pretty girl not in the least rumpled from two nights on a park bench [the blonde, black lashed, slimly curved Shirley Deane], and when she thinks the right one doesn't love her, she flees into the night with the communal $600 from the tobacco tin, leaving the musketeers short on cash and faith in human nature.

The piece sprouts characters, from the pantywaist musketeer to the flat footed Irish landlady, her tippling spouse who licks his lips at the sight of a bottle, and the tousled slavey, who looks like Ann Pennington a long time ago. It isn't the sort of play that ever ought to be reviewed, and if you don't believe me, take a look.—C. C.

Youth Is Served Well by Clever Young Stylist

BY REA SEEGER.

Only a few well known American designers dedicate their genius to the career girls, or the younger crowd who wear sizes 9 to 16, and who operate on limited clothes allowances. But those few do a marvelous job. Vera Maxwell, for example, has all her clever ideas incorporated into the smart clothes she designs for these young shoppers. There's an inimitable swish and swank to her silhouettes, a fine regard for freedom of action in skirts and in the fit of clever jackets and coats. Biggest excitement of all are the knockout color schemes used for the linings. Many are so exciting they should be worn wrong side out to give the spectators a treat.

The tweeds and wools are equally outstanding, the colors are fruity and opulent—reds, gold, deep blues, greens, and browns. There are casual coats by the score that are stunning for any hour or need of a day in the office, in town, or in the country. There's a new jacket with a fencing jacket closing line at the side. It fits like a kidskin glove. These fencers' models are the signature theme of the entire collection—they're smooth, snug, and new as tomorrow's headline.

Top coats are remarkable for their distinction and difference from the usual topcoat. The seam details, the pockets, and the sleeves are not only different but boast a very feminine manner even tho they are extremely simple. Color blazes freely, and if you like black, see the coal black coat with gleaming silver ball buttons. Down the front marches the double row of buttons to keep it snug over the streamline. Unbutton, turn over each side, then button back, and, presto, you have the newest tuxedo collar line. That's inventive genius by Vera Maxwell.

Episcopalian Group Confers on Laymen Role in Church Life

To consider how Episcopal laymen can best be mobilized to aid in deepening the spiritual life of the church, key men from the 13 dioceses of the 5th provincial conference met yesterday at the Seneca hotel. The Rev. Wilburn C. Campbell of the national council, New York City, attended, and Harvey S. Firestone Jr., national chairman of the committee on laymen's work, presided.

"I do not know of any time when the church was so vital to laymen," Firestone said. "These days impose greater burdens and greater opportunities upon every churchman, and there are many grave issues that laymen must help the church to meet and overcome if civilization is to endure."

Bishop Wallace E. Conkling of the Chicago Episcopal diocese stressed that Christian fellowship should be developed by individual effort with as little organization as possible, and the Rev. Mr. Campbell outlined a plan of action for laymen.

The committee, consisting of the presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. H. St. George Tucker, one member from each of the eight provinces, and representatives from Episcopal organizations, was organized in 1942 to enlist men in the work and worship of the church and to interpret the same to men.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Yesterday several members of the business women's group of the American Camp and Hospital service, 540 Briar pl., took a large cake, magazines, song sheets, phonograph records, cigarets, and candy to the Marine hospital, 4141 Clarendon av., for the birthday party which the group gives at the hospital every month. All patients who have September birthdays were remembered at the party. Arrangements were in the hands of the co-chairman, Dora Lou Litwin and Tillie Lavin.

The senior organization will have a benefit party at headquarters at 8:30 p. m. on Saturday. Proceeds will go to the club's work in military and naval hospitals in the Chicago area. Miss M. Karel Spak is entertainment chairman and Mrs. Louis Green is president.

The A. C. H. S. business women's earning fund drive will continue to January 21. Records, books, magazines and leather goods are being collected this month for distribution to convalescent service men.

A total of 420 cosmetic kits will be the Christmas gifts of the WAC Mothers' Association of Chicago to daughters of members serving in foreign theaters and in the United States. The 120 overseas parcels already have been shipped, as Oct. 15 is the foreign mailing deadline for Christmas packages.

The 300 kits for WACs in the United States will be distributed at Christmas time. Several motherless WACs serving overseas have been "adopted" by the association, and will receive their gift kits on Dec. 25 at their foreign posts.

Mrs. George B. Schulten, president, has announced that another project of the club, the distribution of 36 full length mirrors to WAC barracks in Illinois, has been completed. Large army installations have received as many as eight mirrors each.

The association will have its monthly meeting tomorrow at 8 p. m. at headquarters, 188 W. Randolph st. Mrs. Stanley K. Evans, membership chairman, invites all mothers of WACs to join the organization, which has as its objective promotion of the personal welfare of WACs. Prospective members are invited to call Mrs. Evans at Oakland 1639, or to write to her at 4840 Kimbark av.

The Standard club, 321 Plymouth ct., has invited women in the uniforms of the WAC, WAVES, SPARS, and marine corps women's reserve to use the recreational facilities of the club every Monday evening. The swimming pool, the badminton courts, and the gymnasium are at the disposal of the military women, who are asked to bring their own swimming suits, towels, and bathing caps.

Helen Ursula Fitch of the marine corps women's reserve has been promoted to 1st lieutenant. She is assistant to the officer in charge of the central procurement division, with headquarters in the United States courthouse. Lt. Fitch, a Chicagoan whose home is at 1367 E. 48th st., was commissioned in August, 1943.

Legislation Meeting.

The legislation department of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs will meet at 1:30 p. m. today at headquarters, 30 W. Washington st. Mrs. Harry W. Raymond is chairman.

A Little Girl Asks Romance a Little Early

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

on the SOLID side

"I am just sweet 16 and very down on 'things in general,' meaning fellows, of course. My home [which I left in May] is a small town in northern Illinois, and I came to the city to work as a telephone operator. I like my job and the city, but when it comes to men—I don't appeal in the way I want at all. I dress nicely and I'm a good conversationalist, but I lack something somewhere. Men are attracted to me, but in a brotherly way. Today I received a letter from the South Pacific and this soldier started out, 'Hi, little chum'—imagine that!

"I get a 'crush' on some one and he takes me out and begins the evening by telling me his girl troubles. The evidence points to this: I'm the original 'I only want a buddy, not a sweetheart' girl. Chances are that I am too sincere and don't have a line like many girls do. Girls like me, and so do fellows, but tell me—where, O where, is the road to romance? How can I ever get into the hand-holding class? I've tried all the angles but always wind up playing cupid for some droopy eyed chum or some star gazing boy friend. . . ."

Sixteen is a little young to get discouraged about men and to move into the Cinderella department, and it's also a little young to leave home to come to the city job-hunting and man-hunting. How about marking time till you come of age before looking for high romance? You can't expect joe-blows to get starry-eyed over a gal who is still almost in pigtails and pinafores. Whatever you do, stick to your sincerity; that old axiom retouched, "A good line is the shortest distance between two dates," has definitely been proved in error. But don't expect results so soon and don't be overly social. It takes time for any girl to mature into an adult companion [and if you date you are presumably "adult"]. You enjoy your job, so work hard at it and keep your mind off the road to romance lest you get onto the wrong track.

Music Note

The following concerts have just been announced for the coming season by the Allied Arts corporation: Fritz Kreisler, violinist, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 5, at the Civic Opera house; Marian Anderson, contralto, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 19, at the Civic Opera house; Boston Symphony orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky conducting, Friday evening, Dec. 8, at Orchestra hall [this is in addition to the appearance on the History and Enjoyment of Music series Dec. 10]; Ballet Theater at the Civic Opera house for 14 performances, starting Nov. 24; Zino Francescatti, violinist, Sunday afternoon, Jan. 7, at Orchestra hall; Artur Rubinstein, pianist, Sunday afternoon, Feb. 4, at Orchestra hall; Efrem Zimbalist, violinist, Sunday afternoon, Feb. 25, at Orchestra hall. Single tickets for the History and Enjoyment of Music series, also Allied Arts attractions, go on sale at the Civic Opera house box office tomorrow morning.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 24.—"I Ring Doorbells," Russell Birdwell's story about newspapermen, has been bought for PRC pictures and of course Birdwell, when it's made, will do the job of publicizing it. Recently the New Yorker did a job on "Bird" which ran four issues—the longest "Profile" they've ever aired. . . . "Home Is the Sailor" has been postponed until spring so that Loretta Young can be in Gary Cooper's next picture, and that releases George Brent. He has now been borrowed by Hal Wallis for "Affairs of Susan" starring Joan Fontaine. . . . Spencer Tracy is in Hawaii, as he says, not to entertain but to talk with the fellows, and bring them news from home. . . . Carole Landis left for a personal appearance in Boston ahead of time to prevent more arguments with her captain husband. When she returns, they're going to have a showdown if she doesn't announce her divorce—which I have a hunch she'll do—during this trip. It's one of those war romances that jelled for a moment only.

Home Again Is the Player.

Joan Fontaine is back from New York after 48 hours of being put on and thrown off airplanes. She was entertaining 15 friends when the plane company called, "It's now or never." She rushed out to the field in New York. "O, didn't you know you'd been thrown off?" And that's the way it was the whole way home. She has a new beau, a marine captain whose name I will not disclose at this time. She never reached Connecticut, but did visit New York, Inglewood, N. J., Washington, D. C., Fisher's Island, Chicago, Dallas, and lingered in Phoenix while a new engine was put in the plane. I asked her about dining with Capt. John Huston. She said, "Sure, I dined with him—and 14 others." Also present was Cole Porter, who has dived head-first into "Seven Lively Arts." She saw the Harry Hopkins in Washington, but they're now like the Cabots and the Lodges.

Climbing Too Fast.

Frank Sinatra walked off the set of "Anchors Aweigh" when he couldn't see his rushes, sulked in his dressing room a half hour, then came back, apologized to everybody and went on shooting. Joe Pasternak tells me Frank's the kindest hearted guy in the world, but the most confused. He's being driven crazy by requests from all over from benefits, hospitals, camps, etc. The one thing he needs to learn is self discipline. Well, Frank's young, and even older people can't learn that overnight. When he's away from Hollywood he'll realize that pictures aren't made by one individual, but by hundreds, and each person's work fits into a pattern like a mosaic. . . . Ran into my favorite man-about-town and co-columnist, Sid Skolsky, at the Brown Deryby. We made a deal—If Dewey is elected he'll write my column next day, but if it's Franklin, I'll do his. So I'm planning a day off when Sid works for me.

May Strike Twice.

Mary McCarthy's new comedy, "The Girl from Fall River," will have Irene Dunne reading it. Mary wrote "Theodora Goes Wild," which made Irene a zany comedienne. . . . Buddy Genis, wife of that hotel magnate, has bought herself new clothes, jewels, hats, and furs for New York for fall plays and opening of the opera. . . . Faye Emerson and Bobby Anderson are much more in love than folks imagine. Yes, she still hears from Elliott Roosevelt. . . . We may be losing Margaret Lindsay again to Broadway. Clare Kummer wants her for the lead opposite Henry Hull in "Many Happy Returns," which I hope will be as good as "Good Gracious, Annabelle," "Be Calm, Camilla," and "Rollo's Wild Oat." The latter play brought Roland Young to stardom. I enjoyed immensely the New York run of "Be Calm, Camilla" with the late Phoebe Foster, the present Mrs. Eugene O'Neill, Walter Hampden, and Arthur Shaw. Gee whiz! That was fun. Now I just work.

'Dragon Seed' Misses Being Great Picture

"DRAGON SEED."

BY ALBERT GOLDBERG.

Admitted that the producers of "Dragon Seed" were confronted with formidable problems in translating Pearl Buck's novel of the Japanese invasion of China to the screen, yet it would still seem that with greater uniformity in make-up, a prevailing policy in regard to accents, and more naturalistic dialog, one of Hollywood's most ambitious efforts might have been a great picture instead of what it is—a compromise.

True, Katharine Hepburn's slightly slanted eyes and extended eyebrows suggest that she is portraying a Chinese girl. But Walter Huston's goat whiskers do not impart a chop suey flavor any more than does Akim Tamiroff's skull cap. On the other hand, little if any change has been wrought on the visages of Aline MacMahon and Turhan Bey, and they come off the better thereby.

The garbled English, apparently intended to suggest the Chinese language, comes out of an international grab bag. Miss Hepburn talks like Katharine Hepburn. Mr. Huston employs the clipped Yankee accents of a Cal Coolidge to characterize a philosophical patriarch, while Akim Tamiroff often sounds like Solomon Levy in "Abie's Irish Rose." Turhan Bey, who has some natural right to an Oriental accent, smartly sticks to Pacific coast American.

As for the dialog, Mrs. Buck's quasi-Biblical prose, which marches across the printed page in stately rhythms and with poetic imagery, most of the time sounds only hollow and stilted when voiced by Hollywood actors impersonating Chinese peasants. Some of the long, mouth-filling speeches bear no resemblance to the communication habits of any known species of humanity.

By so much "Dragon Seed" misses being a great picture. But as the two and a half hour epic drama unfolds, your critical sense succumbs to the excellence of much of the acting, the beautiful photography of convincingly authentic settings, and above all, to the touchingly human characters helplessly involved with a ruthless and savage enemy. The brutality of the Japanese invaders is unflinchingly portrayed, and against it in vivid contrast there is the heroism of the Chinese, incredulous at first, then wily, at the end rising to a supreme gesture of defiance which gives the phrase "scorched earth" a new reality.

If you have liked Katharine Hepburn before you will like her again—she is but little different. Walter Huston is the thorobred he always is, and Aline MacMahon as his wryly humorous wife is delightful. Akim Tamiroff gives an oily portrayal of a Chinese Quisling, Turhan Bey is likeable and straightforward as Miss Hepburn's husband, and Hurd Hatfield is a newcomer who seems to have something.

Delegate Will Address Directors of Girl Scouts

Mrs. Charles Heitzman, one of two American delegates to attend a Brazilian Girl Scout encampment last August in Rio de Janeiro, will be the principal speaker today at a meeting of the Chicago Girl Scout board of directors. The group will assemble at 10:45 a. m. at headquarters, 35 E. Wacker dr., and will reconvene for luncheon at 12:30 p. m. in the Carson Pirie Scott tea room.

'The Key' . . . . . By Patricia Wentworth

(Copyright: 1944: By Patricia Wentworth Trumbull.)

SYNOPSIS: Michael Harsch, a refugee, about to enter the Bam in Marbury for tea, wonders if he has seen a ghost. He returns to Bourne. Next day his dangerous experiment is successfully completed. He tells Janice Meade his work is done. The war office can have his formula. He telephones to Sir George Randal. Late that night Hirsch is shot thru the head in the church where he often went to play the organ. The church was locked. Madoc, a fellow scientist with whom Harsch lived at Prior's End, is sole executor and sole legatee. Madoc is a belligerent pacifist. Sir George Randal asks Maj. Garth Albany to investigate. Garth arrives, ostensibly to visit his Aunt Sophy, whose new companion is Medora Brown. Garth finds that Janice Meade is Madoc's secretary; the new rector has Miss Jones' house; the Misses Doncaster are still at Pennycott, but Mary Anne is now an invalid; Mrs. Mottram, a pretty widow with a daughter, 5, is at the Haven; Mr. Everton, who admires the widow, is in Meadowcroft; that Harsch was in the habit of dropping in to see Miss Brown, a fine musician, and Frederick Bush, the verger, was approached by German agents before the war. Awakened about midnight, Garth sees Medora leave the house and return in 15 minutes. Next morning on the stairs he finds a sliver of glass.

THE INQUEST.

Two or three yards beyond the thorn tree the gray wall at the foot of the garden broke into an arch filled by a door of weathered oak. Garth lifted the latch, swung the door inward, and walked out into the narrow cut which ran at the back of the houses facing onto the green. It had on one side of it a long, continuous wall which joined one wall of the churchyard at right angles about 20 feet farther on, and on the other a tall mixed hedge. Between wall and hedge there was just room for two persons to walk abreast, or for a boy to ride a bicycle. On the right it skirted the churchyard and came out in the middle of the village. On the left it followed the wall until it ended, and then wandered out to join the road which bordered the green. Five houses shared the wall. Each had a door which gave upon the cut.

Perhaps Miss Brown had gone out at one door and in at another. Perhaps she had been to call upon one of her neighbors. Thanks to Miss Sophy's flow of conversation he could name them all—Mr. Everton, the retired business man and poultry expert, in Meadowcroft; the new rector, in The Lilacs; the Miss Doncasters next door in Pennycott; Mrs. Mottram in The Haven; and Dr. Edwards and his wife at Oak Cottage. Not at all a probable lot, with the exception of Mr. Everton, who might for all he knew be in the habit of sitting up till midnight.

He moved a step or two, and for the second time his eye was caught by something glinting under the light. This time he had no need to prick his finger. Nothing in the least mysterious about how it came there. Quite obviously the milk boy had been careless and let a bottle fall. The base had rolled under the hedge and was still sticky with mud.

Garth looked at the splinters on the ground, and thought about the splinter on the rectory stair. He thought Miss Brown had picked it up on the hem of her black lace skirt and dropped it again as the lace dipped and brushed the carpet on her way upstairs.

He walked slowly past the back door into Meadowcroft, and wondered whether Miss Brown had passed thru it last night.

He was within a couple of yards of the open rectory door, and had paused for another look at the litter of glass, when without any warning a voice went off in his ear.

"Coo! That's a smash!" It said.

Swinging round, he found himself looking down at a leggy boy of 12.

"Hullo!" said Garth. "Who are you?"

"Cyril Bond. I'm a 'vacuee. That's my billet." He jerked an elbow in the direction of Meadowcroft and added, "Got hens in there, we have. They don't 'alf lay."

"And you made this horrible mess?"

"Naow!" The shrill tone was scornful. "That's a milk bottle, that is. I don't tike the milk round. That's Tommy Pincott's doing, that is. He done it yesterdye. He's 14 and left school. He works for his uncle, and I reckon he'll cop it from him."

Garth stepped over the glass and went in thru the rectory door. The shrill voice followed him.

"You're stying in there? You're nyme's Albany? Come last night, didn't you?,"

"There was a man shot in there a coupler days ago—right in the church. There's going to be an inquest todye and none of us boys won't be let go to it. Coo—I'd like to go to an inquest!"

"Why?"

"I dunno. Miss Marsden, our teacher, she said any boy that went on talking about this gentleman that was shot, she'd keep him in."

"Do you reckon the gentleman shot himself?" he said.

"I don't know."

"I reckon it's a funny place to shoot yourself, don't you—right in a church?"

Garth nodded. Then he said, "Cut along now!" and shut the door.

He strolled into the churchyard after breakfast, and found Bush digging the grave which would be wanted tomorrow for Michael Harsch. Frederick was a fine broad shouldered man, and must have cut a personable figure in his footman days, but very few people had ever seen him smile.

Garth said, "Hullo, Bush!" and got a "Morning, Mr. Garth."

"I suppose this is for Mr. Harsch?". Garth indicated the grave.

This time he only got a nod.

"Did you know him? I suppose you did. Was he the sort of chap to commit suicide? Seems an odd place to do it in, the church."

Bush nodded again and threw out another spadeful. Then he said soberly.

"I doubt there's two kinds of chaps—any one might do it if they was to be pushed hard enough."

"What makes you think that Mr. Harsch was being pushed?"

Bush straightened up.

"Begging your pardon, I never said no such thing. Any one might get pushed so as they couldn't keep a hold of themselves." He bent to his digging again. There was no more to be got from him.

The inquest was set for half past eleven in the village hall. Garth walked down between Miss Sophy and Miss Brown, both wearing black. Miss Brown was silent, Miss Sophy tremulously conversational.

Rows of wooden chairs, a narrow aisle up the middle, a platform at the far end, an all-pervading smell of varnish. Only the two front rows remained unoccupied. A dozen chairs placed sideways in two rows accommodated nine embarrassed looking men and three women.

The coroner, who might have sat alone, had chosen to call a jury—half a dozen farmers; Mr. Simmonds the butcher; the landlord of the Black Bull; the baker; Mrs. Cripps of the general shop; Mrs. Mottram, a pretty fair-haired woman with a rolling blue eye; and the elder of the two Miss Doncasters, Miss Lucy Ellen, very thin, upright and gray, with an air of considering that her gentility was being contaminated.

On the left a couple of reporters and a small, efficient elderly man whose face Garth found familiar without being able to place it, until it came to him that he had seen it bent over papers in Sir George's office. Obviously Sir George was not leaving the reporting of the evidence to chance.

An Everyday Tragedy

MARRIAGE HAPPINESS—LOST! And now, just a miserable life of quarrels and tears. It might happen to any wife . . . because of "one neglect" . . . carelessness about feminine hygiene. Today so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant. It cleanses quickly, thoroughly, and deodorizes, too. Yet it's so gentle for douching; doesn't harm sensitive vaginal tissues—just follow easy directions. Use economical Lysol. Write to Lehn & Fink, 683 Fifth Avenue, New York 22, N. Readers often ask me if there are any cuts of nonrationed beef which may be prepared in a hurry. "I work in a war plant and don't get home until 6:30. I don't have much time to cook."

Unfortunately there aren't many cuts of nonrationed beef which cook fast. Hamburger is a good choice. Liver is another. I'd suggest meat stews, prepared the night before, and reheated just before serving. Lean, nonrationed beef requires long, slow cooking, which could be done well beforehand. The flavor seems even better upon reheating. If vegetables are to be served with the stew, they should be cooked fresh just before the dinner. Reheated vegetables have lost both flavor and food value.

Swiss steak and other braised beef dishes might be prepared ahead of time, too. Quick-cooking meats of any kind are a little hard to find, nowadays. Even broilable lamb chops are scarce. Nonrationed lamb is better cooked by braising—it is likely to be dry and not-too-tender if you broil it.

Pork is scarcer and scarcer, but bacon and sausage seem to be plentiful. Both meats may be prepared in innumerable attractive ways for a quick meal.

National Live Stock and Meat Board home economists suggest these herb seasonings for nonrationed meats.

Bay leaves for pot roast, stew, soups and gravies; marjoram with stew, sausage, beef, pork, or lamb. Rosemary and parsley with any kind of meat; dill foliage chopped and sprinkled on lamb chops five minutes before serving. For hamburgers a mixture of herbs, such as savory, basil, marjoram, parsley, celery leaves, each in small amount; for pork, liver and kidney dishes, caraway seed. With pork, sausages and stuffings, coriander. Thyme is especially good with pork and veal, basil with beef and pork.

Carp roe, says the "Iowa Conservationist," is a nutritious and delicious food, worthy of comparison with the highly prized black sturgeon caviar. The carp roe may weigh as much as a fourth the total weight of the fish. The roe are easily cleaned and prepared. They should be parboiled in salted water to which a small amount of vinegar has been added, for 20 minutes. Then they may be broiled, baked, fried, scalloped, or made into sandwich spreads or hors d'oeuvres.

Eggplant Fritters.
[Serves four.]

1 medium eggplant
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 egg, beaten
4 tablespoons flour [about]
Salt and pepper
Bacon drippings

Pare eggplant, cut in pieces, and cook in very small amount of water until tender. Chop finely and add onion, egg, enough flour to make consistency of a drop batter, and season to taste. Drop by spoonfuls into hot skillet in which bacon drippings have been heated. Brown on both sides and serve at once. Tomato sauce may be served with them if desired. MRS. F. C. BERNTH,

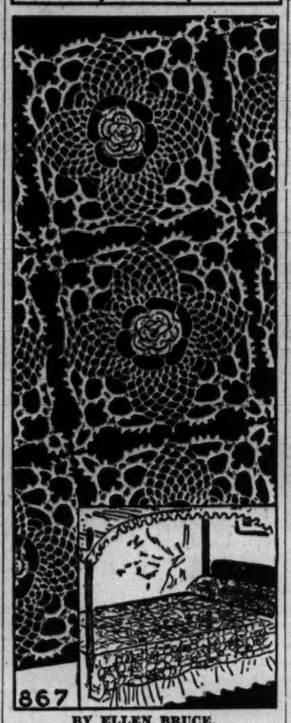
Dainty Bedspread



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A handsome crocheted bedspread done in a rose and pineapple design is a decided addition to the bedroom. The pattern is not difficult and works up rapidly. Pure white mercerized crochet cotton is the medium suggested.

For instructions in crocheting the bedspread, No. 867, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth av., New York 1, N. Y.

Toys for Three Children Are Sought by Sally

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Mrs. B. lives on the extreme south side of the city. Her husband has been ill for almost two years and is now hospitalized. During that period, the family has done without many things, and the mother finally has come to us with an appeal for a few toys for the children. If any reader has discarded playthings for a boy, 8, and girls, 5 and 1, Mrs. B. will be happy to have them.

Mrs. X. is the widowed mother of four children. She is receiving relief and is in need of many items which the agency cannot supply. If any reader can provide a bed, table, and chairs, bed linens, or blankets of any kind, this family would find them very useful. Clothing is urgently needed for boys, 10 and 2, and girls, 7 and 4. The address is on the north side.

Clothing is also an imperative need in the T. family. The father has deserted the family, and it has been necessary for the mother to go on relief. She has requested clothing for a boy, 10; girls, 6 and 2, and an infant.

Name Associate Director of Chicago Round Table

Dr. James M. Yard, director of the Chicago Round Table of Christians and Jews, yesterday announced the appointment of Dr. Sterling W. Brown as associate director. Last year Dr. Brown was assistant director of the St. Louis, Mo., round table. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago and a former head of the department of religion at Drake university, Des Moines, Ia.

Jumper Dress

The front buttoned jumper dress, with a softly tailored companion blouse, is the sort of ensemble which is suitable for a wide range of business and social activity. It's a favorite on campuses, too. Style No. 2517 is designed for sizes 12 to 44. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards of 39 inch material for jumper; 2¼ yards for blouse.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Child Benefit Group to Hear Tag Day Needs

More than 250 women members and friends of the Chicago Children's Benefit league will hear about needs of the children's charities of Chicago at a pre-tag day luncheon rally at 12:30 p. m. today in the Medinah club. Mayor Kelly, Jesse A. Jacobs of the Chicago Association of Commerce, and Maj. Frank L. Beals, assistant superintendent of Chicago schools, are among those invited to address the assembly.

One of Chicago's oldest tag day organizations, the league will apportion proceeds from its 37th annual tag day, set for Monday, Oct. 2, among 50 children's charities, including orphanages, clinics, nurseries, and hospital wards.

Mrs. Harry L. Starkey heads the league, and directors include Mrs. Henry W. Bernhardt, Mrs. J. T. Arenberg, Mrs. John C. Cannon, Mrs. John J. O'Leary, Mrs. Paul B. Smithson, and Mrs. William Raiser Jr. Committee chairmen are Mrs. Arenberg, Mrs. Royal D. Dwight, Mrs. Lee H. Williams, Mrs. K. I. Songe, Mrs. Henry Christiansen, Mrs. Cannon, Mrs. Leslie Biggins, and Mrs. Sidney A. Goreham.

Thru the Looking Glass

Ice as a mild skin stimulant is a pretty old standby, and a good one. It's used in some of the finest professional face treatments as the final fillip that leaves the skin luminous and glowing, and it's used by thousands of women in their own dressing rooms every day.

If you like what ice does for your skin but deplore the messiness and bother of it, you might be interested to know that there is on the market and has been for years a fine preparation that is quite understandably called an "ice lotion." This is a stimulant, but not one of those too vigorous ones that you might hesitate to use if you're inexpert or unfamiliar with the reactions of your own complexion. It has all the bracing qualities of real ice, but none of the messiness, and to use it as a "pick-up," either regularly or on special occasions, is a wise beauty move.

The lotion, a nice mint green in color, is used after the skin has been thoroly cleansed and before you apply makeup. You can apply it with cotton or even with your fingers; there will be a faint tingling sensation, altogether pleasant, and immediately after that the skin will feel miraculously cool. Better yet, it will look cool and revived!

This is especially helpful, we think, to the woman whose skin is losing its youthful texture, acquiring the outward signs of lax coarseness, and some lack of clarity. She can, and probably will, enjoy using the ice lotion every day, or every other day. Women whose skin needs less stimulation will use it once or twice a week, and always before they make up for an occasion when they want to look their best.

Goren on Bridge - - - By Charles H. Goren

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ.

Q. 1—You hold the following cards and open with one spade, partner responding with one no trump.

♠KJ976 ♥5 ♦642 ♣AKQ7

What do you bid now?

A.—Two clubs. Not that you have any idea of going places, but your hand is not well adapted to no trump play, with two unguarded suits, one of them a singleton. Don't make the mistake of bidding two spades. If the hand belongs in that contract partner can return to it after your two club bid. You might as well have two shots for the price of one.

Q. 2—Both sides vulnerable, and you hold:

♠QJ5 ♥AJ ♦AKQ53 ♣1054

A.—One no trump. This is preferable to overcalling with two diamonds. If partner hasn't very much you might as well play it at one no trump. If he has some strength and chooses to give you a raise you will have a good chance for game.

Q. 3—You are vulnerable, opponents are not. They open with one club and you hold:

♠5 ♥AJ742 ♦AKJ3 ♣Q94

What do you bid?

A.—One heart. While you have the honor strength to justify a double such procedure is not advisable since partner will probably respond with one spade which would make it necessary to bid two hearts, and since your suit is not very strong such a bid runs the risk of a sizeable penalty.

Q. 4—You are South and hold:

♠95 ♥Q7 ♦KQ10976 ♣753

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 hearts	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Five diamonds. This may sound quite drastic since in truth you haven't very much and have apparently told your full story, but the hand is known to fit very well. Partner is marked with a singleton club. The queen of hearts is the deciding factor in view of partner's strong bidding. It is a fair gamble that you will lose only one club and one trick in the majors.

Q. 5—You are South and hold:

♠— ♥A9653 ♦KQJ75 ♣KQ3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 diamonds	Pass	3 no trump	Double

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass, or if you feel so inclined, redouble. The important thing is not to run out of three no trump. Your partner has gone on in the face of your warning against it; he must therefore be well prepared. You have more than you might have had for your previous bids.

Q. 6—You are South and hold:

♠54 ♥QJ7642 ♦J73 ♣J5

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	3 no trump
Double	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. A bid of four hearts as a rescue indicates a lack of imagination. If partner were interested in hearing from you he would have made a takeout double and asked you to speak. His bid is probably based on a long minor suit. Let him alone and permit him to work out his own destiny.

Q. 7—You are South and hold:

♠A63 ♥432 ♦KJ1097 ♣Q10

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	1 spade
3 diamonds	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three spades. This bid serves a dual purpose. It may enable partner to bid three no trump if that happens to be the best contract or it may permit him to look around for a slam if his hand is suited for the purpose. Partner has opened the bidding and jumped. Your hand is virtually equal of an opening bid in strength, slam possibilities are therefore not remote.

Q. 8—You are South and hold:

♠K942 ♥KJ72 ♦A6 ♣J53

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
1 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

What is your opening lead?

A.—Two of hearts. This is a better lead than the spade because it is more nearly a sequence. If partner has the queen of hearts you will establish two or possibly three tricks. Whereas if partner has the queen of spades, an equal chance, the same result will not be achieved.

Dressing Alike May Be Cause for Jealousy

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Those girls look sweet in identical suits," said a visitor watching two sisters coming down the street. "Are they twins?"

"No, there are two years' difference in their ages. Betty, I believe, is 10 and Helen 8 years old. They look very much alike, but there the similarity ends. Their temperaments are different. Unfortunately, the younger child is brighter than the other, and their mother tells me a great deal of friction is developing between them; and apparently quite a little jealousy on the part of Betty," answered her hostess.

"Sister dresses" and "sister coats and suits" may make shopping easier and relieve a lot of that mental agony which is involved in choosing children's clothes, but there may be occasions when this isn't such a good plan. With twins, perhaps yes, but with sisters of different ages, perhaps no.

I have a notion that it is precisely because the mother in question treats these children almost as if they were twins that the elder child is jealous. Suppose, instead of dressing them exactly alike, she allowed the elder child a little freedom of choice, in order to play on her "more grownup taste," and let her feel that she is really almost a young lady. It wouldn't make the younger child jealous, because such things probably haven't begun to interest her to any great degree yet.

It is true that when children have a perfect feeling of emotional security they are not likely to be jealous. Without meaning to, the mother referred to must have made her older girl feel insecure; and she will have to use various tactful devices to wipe out this feeling. One concrete way would be a change in choosing clothes for them. I have known of several cases of jealousy created between two children thru dressing them exactly alike when their ages were different. It is surely an angle worth considering.

V-Day Coiffure

Cherie Gist as "girl G. I. Joe will come home to" at beauty operators' convention.

Accent is on the forehead this year in beauty parlors. Gone are the thin eyebrows. In their place, one will find what beauticians call "the military eyebrow," which is a heavier line such as nature intended. Also missing is the eyeshadow. This is being replaced with creams that will give "that transparent look."

It all goes to create what is described as an "open look" by Louise Norris, make-up authority of Kansas City, Mo., who is attending the 25th annual convention and trade show of the American Cosmeticians' National association in the Morrison hotel.

Evolution of milady's coiffure for the last quarter of a century was depicted by living models as the opening feature. Hair styles from the spit-curl era to the V-day coiffure for the "girl G. I. Joe will come home to" were shown.

In the three day convention, plans for the absorption of beauticians in beauty shops upon expiration of military service and war work as well as ways to alleviate the present operator shortage, will be discussed in open forums.

PACKERS BREAK LATE TIE; BEAT BEARS, 42-28

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

ILLINOIS football players are convinced the worst thing that can happen to them is to have a picture on the annual poster advertising the team's games. . . . Jim Smith was featured in 1941; he suffered a knee injury in pre-season drill and missed every game. . . . Captain-elect Joe Turek was the poster man in 1942; he did not return to school. . . . The 1943 poster depicted Ray Grierson and Bob Gerometta; both were called to military service before the first game. . . . This year's display shows Eddie Bray, Eddie McGovern, and Coach Ray Eliot; Bray wrenched a knee in a touch football game, and McGovern decided to stay on his job in a Terre Haute defense plant. . . . So far, nothing has happened to Coach Eliot, but he has his fingers crossed. . . . Three of Notre Dame's assistant football coaches were captains for the Irish. . . . Adam Walsh led the squad in 1924; Clem Crowe in 1925, and Hugh De Vore in 1933. . . . The University of Kansas football team will have engaged in four tough games before making its first appearance before the home fans. . . . The Jayhawkers will play in Denver Friday night and have other road contests coming up with Tulsa and Iowa State. . . . They opened the campaign Saturday against T. C. U. in Kansas City. . . . Jack Murphy, Texas Christian freshman tackle from Detroit, served two years with the marines before being given a medical discharge. . . . He recuperated in a Fort Worth hospital, where he became interested in the Horned Frogs. . . .

Tho he probably never can hope to be the dude his predecessor, Joe Barry, was, Frank McMahon, White Sox traveling secretary, plans to take a personal wardrobe trunk with him on road trips next season, something the dapper Barry never did. . . . Manager Jimmy Dykes wears sunglasses to direct the White Sox from the dugout and Al Simmons dons 'em to coach the Athletics at third base. . . . It is not an old Philadelphia custom—just the Hollywood influence. . . . Lt. Charley Putzler, for 15 years associated with the Chicago Park district and the American College of Physical Education, has been transferred from Iowa Pre-flight school to the Glenview naval air station. . . . Charley has been serving in the gym tumbling and military departments at Iowa City. . . . The Southern Football Officials' association refused to allow Secretary A. R. Hutchens to resign. . . . They reelected him as a vote of confidence. . . . No boxer over 40 years old or under 18 is allowed a license in New York state.

Indian Summer.

Now is the magic hour when deep, banked fires
Of summer are rekindled once again,
And brighten to a subtle gold, for then
The day, reflecting a burnished glow, acquires
A mellow warmth to cheer the heart. Desires
Are fanned to crimson flame, rekindled when
Their still warm ashes [merely a denizen
For memory] flame again, and then expire.

Now two that met in summer's radiant bower
When fleeting rapture gilded time and space,
Together walk again the mystic ways,
The same enchanted golden blooms in flower,
And meet once more in beauty's trysting place;
The heart, too, has its Indian Summer days!

All women are dizzy, and it is the fortunate man who finds one who is dizzy only part of the time.

Women are like the tricks of a magician. If you understood them they wouldn't interest you. Perhaps that's why they're sometimes referred to as cute little tricks.

You can educate women but you can't change them. They can attain to every degree but a degree of sensibleness.

Tomorrow.

Today I'm ill and weary;
Tomorrow lies ahead,
I hope to be so well then,

And luck will be with me.

Tomorrow holds a promise
That dreams will all come true,
Tomorrow means fulfillment,
And life will start anew!
That is the hope eternal
That swells the human breast;
It builds on each tomorrow
Until the final rest!

Ten Years Ago Today—Boston's 5 to 0 victory over the Yankees clinched the American league pennant for the Detroit Tigers. . . . The Giants' lead in the National league was cut to one game as they were shut out by Curt Davis of the Phillies and Dizzy Dean whipped the Pirates.

Engagement a Hit with Sophie; Foes Get None

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 24 (AP).—The engagement of Sophie Arabinko, star pitcher of the Connecticut Yankee girls softball team, was announced this morning. Several hours later she pitched a no hit game against the usually hard hitting Winchester Riflettes, smacking out two hits and scoring twice as the Yanks won, 3 to 0.

TIGERS, BROWNS EACH WIN; STAY 1 GAME APART

Detroit Triumphs, 9-5; St. Louis, 3-2.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 24 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers clung to their one game edge over the St. Louis Browns today by beating the Boston Red Sox for the fourth straight time, 9 to 5.

One of the biggest crowds ever to watch a single game in Briggs Stadium—48,702 paid—saw the Tigers take their ninth victory in their last 10 starts and their 22d victory in 27 games.

Tigers Gain 7-1 Lead.

Detroit scored a run in the first and two in the second but didn't get to Yank Terry, Boston's starting pitcher, for the knockout punch until the fifth, when four Tiger runs crossed the plate on three hits, a walk, an error and an infield fly, giving Newhouser a 7 to 1 working margin.

The hard working southpaw weathered a sixth inning Boston flurry of five straight hits which accounted for three runs before a man was retired but Newhouser steadied and yielded just three hits and one run the rest of the way.

Higgins Hits Home Run.

Detroit's last two markers came on Pinky Higgins' seventh homer in the seventh inning with one on. Higgins, with two singles besides the homer, batted in five runs for the day.

BROWNS BEAT A'S, 3 TO 2.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 24 (AP).—Refusing to give up in the red hot American league pennant race, the St. Louis Browns came from behind in the last half of the ninth inning today to defeat the Philadelphia Athletics, 3 to 2.

With one out in the ninth, Vernon Stephens singled but was forced at second by Milt Byrnes. George McQuinn worked the count to three and two and then was walked by Jess Flores. Tex Shirley went in to run for McQuinn. Mark Christman met Flores' first pitch solidly for a double into left center, scoring the baserunners, and Christman went to third when Shortstop Edgar Busch made a wild relay throw to the plate.

Estalella Drops Fly.

Jittery Joe Berry rushed to Flores' assistance and Floyd Baker lifted a high fly to Bobby Estalella in center field. Estalella dropped the ball, Christman scampered in from third and the game was over.

Jack Kramer turned in another craftsmanlike performance in winning his 16th game for the Browns.

The third in a row over the Athletics, the victory was the Browns' fifth in succession and their eighth in 10 games played during the current home stand.

If — — — — —

IF the White Sox beat the New York Yankees twice this afternoon in Comiskey park, AND the Detroit Tigers win their single game from the Philadelphia Athletics, the Yankees will be eliminated from the American league pennant race.

IF the Yankees win all their remaining eight games the Tigers will beat out the New Yorkers IF they win four of their remaining seven games.

IF the Tigers lose ALL their remaining seven games, the Yankees will have to win five of their remaining eight to beat out Detroit.

This morning the St. Louis Browns are only a game behind the Tigers, with the same number to go—seven. IF the Tigers lose to the Athletics this afternoon AND the Browns beat the Boston Red Sox tonight, the teams will be in an exact tie, each with 84 victories and 64 losses. After tonight the Tigers will have two games remaining with Philadelphia and four with Washington; the Browns will have two more with Boston and four with New York.

As of this morning, the Tigers have won nine out of 19 games against the Athletics and 15 out of 18 against Washington. The Browns have won eight out of 18 against New York and 10 out of 19 against Boston.

Cubs Win, 4-3; Lose First to Dodgers, 10-3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 24.—The Cubs, who seem to feel satisfied that fourth place money is as good as clinched, gave a little and took back a little today while winding up their season's chores with the Dodgers. They were so relaxed in the front half of a double header that they literally invited a 10 to 3 plastering, after which they really went to work to accomplish a 4 to 3 success featured by Bill Nicholson's No. 33 homer.

The Cubs' relaxation was so marked in the first game that they injected four errors into the party, two of them mistakes by Charley Brewster, who was introduced as a shortstop.

Fleming's Error Costly.

However, the most damaging of the blunders was manipulated by Bill Fleming who held his own with the well aged Curt Davis until the sixth when he let a 2 to 1 edge dissolve by uncorking a wild throw, three runs accruing.

Paul Derringer encountered Art Herring, a minor league refugee, in the second game and the pair had quite a time of it until the sixth when the Cubs were suddenly plunked into a two run deficit on which Nicholson quickly made a tying adjustment with his homer. The Cubs followed with another run only to get into another deadlock, but they kept on moving and

WHITE SOX BEAT SENATORS TWICE, 9 TO 3 AND 2 TO 0

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The lowly Washington Senators departed Chicago's usually hospitable shores last night without having won a game in Comiskey park this season. Yesterday the tailenders suffered their 10th and 11th losses here when the thoroly aroused White Sox swept a double header before 6,379 by scores of 9 to 3 and 2 to 0.

The Senators had taken six out of 11 from the Sox in Washington, thus the overall record of the competition between the teams for the season shows 16 successes for Chicago and six for Washington. The two conquests yesterday stretched the Sox's autumn winning streak to six straight.

Thornton Lee, out of action since he suffered a wrist fracture in the last play of a game in Philadelphia 11 weeks ago, yesterday went all the way in the first game for his second victory of the year.

Five Errors Aid Sox.

Lee yielded two hits in the second inning, two in the third, and one in the fifth, none thereafter. All the hits were singles. He walked only one batsman.

The Sox made 13 hits and their cause was further aided by five errors by the tailenders. They scored one run in the third inning, five in the fourth and three in the sixth.

Eddie Lopat won his eleventh victory in the second game. He yielded only six hits. The Sox scored their runs in the first inning on a walk and successive singles by Hal Trosky, Ed Carnett, and Thurman Tucker.

Play 2 With Yankees Today.

The sixth place Sox now can finish no lower than seventh, the berth they deserted Saturday night. They gained a half game on the fifth place Cleveland Indians, whom they trail by only half a game.

This afternoon the Sox and Yankees will play a double header. It will be Mel Queen and Walt Dubiel vs. Orval Grove and Joe Haynes. The Yanks and Sox also

Leo Wins Over Loras Eleven, in Opener, 26-6

Leo High school, city champion in 1941 and 1942, yesterday won its first start of the season by defeating Loras academy of Dubuque, Ia., 26 to 6, in an exhibition game in Shewbridge field.

The Lions scored in the first period when Don McAuliffe, left half back, went over right guard from the 2 yard line. McAuliffe, a reconverted tackle, scored twice more during the game. In the second quarter he went off right tackle to run 45 yards for a touchdown. He duplicated the off tackle thrust in the third period, for 4 yards and another score. Both teams scored in the fourth period.

Mount Carmel Triumphs.

Mount Carmel, which showed heavy scoring power in winning two previous exhibition games, yesterday continued the display by routing De Paul academy, 33 to 6, in Yates Avenue stadium. Fred Hendron, full back, scored twice for the Caravan. John Van Loon ran 30 yards for a fourth quarter touchdown after taking a 10 yard pass from Ted Mullen. Mount Carmel led, 14 to 0, at the half, and the lone De Paul score came in the fourth period.

St. Ignatius gave a demonstration of power by defeating Catholic High of Joliet, 33 to 0, in Key Branch stadium. The St. Ignatius scores were made by Bill Hickey, full back, and Bill Jacoby, right half back.

St. Philip Wins First.

St. Philip, after losing its first two games, defeated De La Salle, 27 to 0. St. Philip scored in the first minute of play when Dick Kluck passed 20 yards to Joe Dimanico, who ran 60 yards for the touchdown. Dimanico scored again in the second quarter with a 10 yard sweep around end after Joe Petruzzi had tried the play in the first period for a 31 yard touchdown run. Petruzzi took Kluck's 28 yard pass on the 3 yard line in the fourth quarter, for the final score.

St. Rita scored in the first quarter against St. Mel, and led, 6 to 0, at the half, but in the third period George Rinda, St. Mel full back, went off right guard for 30 yards and a touchdown, to tie the score. The game ended in a 6 to 6 deadlock. St. Rita's touchdown came when Jack McHugh intercepted a St. Mel pass on the St. Rita 15 yard line and ran 85 yards to score.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 24 [Special].—The Cleveland Rams gained an exciting 30 to 28 victory today over the newly combined Chicago Cardinal-Pittsburgh Steeler eleven before a crowd of 20,968 in Forbes field. It was the National Football league opener for both clubs.

Benton Scores 3 Times.

Benton was outstanding thruout the long afternoon, making three of the victor's touchdowns on aerials. Mike Kabealo made the other on a 6 yard smash thru center and Lou Zontini registered a 26 yard field goal.

Walter West, ex-Pitt quarter back, now playing full back for the Rams, made three conversions, while Zontini had the other try blocked. The Card-Pitts spotted Cleveland 16 points in the first half before they clicked with their attack. A 70 yard kick-off return which Bobby Thurbon accepted on his own 30, ran to the Ram 20 and then lateraled to Eberle Schultz for the remaining distance gave them their first score late in the half.

Pass Gives Card-Pitts Lead.

They dominated the third quarter, scoring on a 40 yard pass from McDonough to Rucinski and a one yard smash by Grigas. The other Card-Pitt score was a sensational 65 yard pass play from McDonough to Butler which brought a 28 to 23 lead early in the final period.

The Card-Pitts led in first downs 11 to 6, in net yardage by rushing at 110 to 96, in net gain via passing at 182 to 136, and in net yardage from all sources at 463 to 454.

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 24.—Green Bay is a slightly hysterical village tonight, which is a commentary on how a football game can affect American life even in these times. A few hours ago, the community owned Packers gave those city slickers from Chicago, the Bears, a National Football league beating they'll never forget.

The score was 42 to 28 and the combined 70 points were the second largest in the series, which today reached its 52d game. In 1942 the Bears whipped the Packers, 44 to 28. Until today the Packers never had scored more than 28 points on their ancient foes.

Packers Take 28 Point Lead.

Twenty-five thousand spectators, representing a sellout in City stadium on the edge of town, watched with amazement as the Packers raced into a 28 to 0 lead. They had reverse emotions as the Bears, furiously battling, finally overcame this tremendous obstacle by tying the score, 28 to 28, with five minutes left in the fourth quarter.

The magnificent fight went for naught as the Packers, held scoreless since early in the second quarter, added two touchdowns in the five closing minutes. This was Green Bay's first triumph over the Bears since 1941. That was a 16 to 14 affair which sent the Western division race in the National Football league into a play-off. The Bears decisively won that one and up to today had added three victories and a tie to make the Green Bay citizens and Coach Curly Lambeau very unhappy.

No Alibi for Bears.

The Bears had no excuses, for their great man, Sid Luckman, on leave from the maritime service, was in there most of the time. Perhaps never in his career had Sid faced such long odds as when the big scoreboard had 28 for Green Bay and none for the defending champions. Like the slow onrush of a volcano, the Bears inexorably fought their way back into the battle.

The Packers have two victories and the Bears a defeat for their lone league appearance. It's uphill all the way for the champions, with a victory mandatory when they meet the Packers Nov. 5 in Wrigley field. And this, assuming the rivals whip all other foes, will throw the race into a play-off in mid-December.

The Bears stopped Green Bay's first charge on their 17, but back came the Packers from their own 39. Ted Fritsch swept for 9 yards, after which Irv Comp passed in the flat to Lou Brock, who dashed down the side lines for a touchdown, brushing off three Bears, including Luckman. Don Hutson, who made one of the six Packer touchdowns, then kicked the first of six consecutive points. He has booted 60 in a row, 12 under Jack Manders' league record.

Luckman Lateral Goes Awry.

The Bears missed a first down on fourth down on their 25 after the kick-off and this ended with Green Bay's second score when Comp negotiated the final 9 yards on a run. A lateral from Luckman intended for Henry Margarita,

CARDINALS BEAT PHILS IN 2 CLOSE GAMES, 4-3, 1-0

Cooper Wins 1st in 16th; Wilks Gets 2d.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—Whitey Kurowski's home run broke up a 16 inning duel between Mort Cooper and Ken Raffensberger today, giving the St. Louis Cardinals a 4 to 3 victory over the Phillies in the first game of a double header.

The Cardinals also won the second game, 1 to 0, behind the five hit pitching of Ted Wilks. The winners got only four safeties off Charley Schanz.

A crowd of 13,480 saw the Cardinals win their 100th game of the season in the opener as Cooper and Raffensberger dueled.

The Phils went scoreless in the last 21 innings of the double header. Schanz, who had hurled superlative ball for the first eight innings of the final, weakened in the ninth and walked Ken O'Dea to force in the winning run after the bases were loaded on two hits and an error. It was the only base on balls issued by Schanz. It was Cooper's 22d victory of the season and No. 17 for Wilks.

Packers Score 42 to 28 Upset Against Bears

brought more woe for the Bears. Charley Brock recovered it and the Packers were 9 yards away when the first quarter ended.

Ted Fritsch finally pounded over from the 1 yard line. Next the Packers started on their 42 and in six plays had their fourth score. Rookie Paul Duhart started this parade with a 17 yard sweep and from the Chicago 26, Comp arched a high one which Hutson snared as he raced over the goal.

From their 28, the Bears counted on the ensuing kickoff, with the aid of a 15 yard Packer penalty. From the Chicago 40, Luckman pitched to Capt. George Wilson at midfield. Wilson then lateraled to Ray McLean who ran all the way. Pete Gudauskas, whose toe was as sure today as Hutson's, then added the first of four extra points.

Wilson Scores on Pass.

At 10:35 of the third quarter, the Bears had a touchdown wrought on an 87 yard march. From the 7, Wilson made a leaping catch of Luckman's throw as he plunged over the goal. Shortly after that, Al Hoptowit recovered Duhart's fumble and scrambled to Green Bay's 39 yard line. When the period ended the Bears were on the Packers' 25 yard line.

Luckman pitched 13 yards to Wilson and Margarita dashed to the 3 yard line. Then Wilson leaped for Luckman's pitch over the goal, grabbed the ball with his right hand and held it as he fell. On the kick the Bears were penalized 15 yards for holding, but Gudauskas, on his second attempt, made it from 22 yards out.

Midway in the four period, McLean brought back a punt 11 yards to Chicago's 17 yard line and this set the stage for the tying score. In the spectacular series, McLean caught a pass on Green Bay's 48 yard line and a penalty put the ball five yards closer. Again McLean made a fine catch of a Luckman pitch for 22 yards on the Green Bay 17. Wilson caught one on the 7 yard line and Jim Fordham smashed to the 5. Margarita then dashed the remaining distance and Gudauskas made it 28 to 28.

Brock's Score Settles Issue.

Fritsch brought back the kickoff to Green Bay's 48 yard line, and on second down Luckman intercepted Comp's pass, running to Green Bay's 32 yard line. However, on the play the Bears were penalized for holding, and this was the big break. It gave Green Bay the ball on the Chicago 42 yard line. On the first play Lou Brock went wide to his left and, behind terrific blocking, raced for a touchdown.

The sixth and unnecessary touchdown developed when Fritsch intercepted a Luckman pass and ran 55 yards down the sidelines, bumping Luckman and other Bears out of the way on his journey. Then there were only 90 seconds left, and that wasn't enough for the Bears.

Cubs Win, 4-3; Lose First to Dodgers, 10-3

Cubs Waste Ammunition.

It took three hits and two passes to get the Cubs a one run lead in the opening inning of the first game. Much of this wastage was due to Brewster, who opened with a single, being caught off base. Brewster also aided in the scoring of the Dodgers' first run in the fourth. He erred after Schultz had singled and a bunt and fly ball did the rest.

The decisive touch in the sixth began with a pass to Walker and a hit by Schultz. Owen bunted and Fleming threw the ball wild past third, two scoring and Owen taking third whence he counted on Stanky's fly. The two Dodger runs in the seventh were due to Brewster's second error, preceding singles by Aderholt and Schultz. Five hits with a bad throw by Nicholson completed the Dodgers attack in the eighth. The Cubs delayed the inevitable by scoring one in the ninth on a double by Hughes and Brewster's third hit.

Nicholson Hits 33d Homer.

The second game progressed smoothly until Herring opened the Dodger sixth with a triple. Derringer nailed the next two batters and apparently had Galan out at first on a tap to Johnson, but Umpire Magerkurth ruled him safe and Herring scored. Walker was purposely passed and Schultz beat out a hit which Hughes heaved wild, Galan scoring. The Cubs promptly tied it in the seventh on Cavarretta's single and Nicholson's 33d homer.

Singles by Williams and Brewster with Hughes' squeeze bunt gave the Cubs a run in the eighth, but the Dodgers tied it in their half when Derringer walked in a run after two hits and a pass had filled the bases. Then the Cubs got another run on a pass to Dallessandro, Pafko's sacrifice and Johnson's single in the ninth. This run was made to stick, with the assistance of Bob Chipman, who came in with two on and two out.

RAVENSWOOD AV. TRAFFIC PLAN FINDS FAVOR

Radial Artery Offers City Crow Flight Route.

A proposal to transform Ravenswood av. in Chicago and its continuation in Evanston, Green Bay rd., into a radial traffic artery was being studied yesterday by traffic experts in both cities, some of whom felt that such an improvement would expedite north side and north shore suburban vehicular traffic.

The transformation could be affected with comparative ease and with little distress to owners of real estate along the proposed route, in the opinion of Thomas Airth, Evanston city treasurer and candidate for mayor of the suburb.

Interested in Route.

"I am very much interested in a crow flight route to Chicago," Airth said. "One of the first considerations, of course, is the preservation of real estate values. In the case of the Ravenswood route this would present little difficulty, since Ravenswood runs along the North Western tracks, as does Green Bay rd. There has been much favorable comment and appeal since THE TRIBUNE published the Ravenswood proposal. It should be investigated thoroly."

The highway proposal was first advanced by Dr. J. F. Kotrich, dentist, 1430 Ridge av., Evanston, who became impressed with the need for a facile highway in his daily driving to his office at 934 Armitage av. in Chicago.

Only Two Improvements.

The radial highway, Dr. Kotrich said, would necessitate the improvement of but two small stretches, one of a block and the other of five blocks. It would extend from Wellington av. [3000 north] thru Evanston, following generally the present Ravenswood av. in Chicago, and Chicago av. and Green Bay rd., in Evanston.

Dr. Kotrich's proposal does not contemplate elevation of the highway. This, he said, would be extremely costly, destroying one of its present attractions, that of low cost. He said he does not believe elevation would be necessary regardless of the cost element, as the present paving is in good condition and is protected from cross traffic by the embankment of the North Western railroad.

ALDRICH TALKS HERE TOMORROW ON AIMS OF FUND

Winthrop W. Aldrich, president of the National War Fund and president of the Chase National bank of New York, will appear before members of the business division of the Community and War Fund at their luncheon meeting tomorrow in Hotel Sherman to outline the work being done by the fund. Also speaking on the program will be Elmer T. Stevens, president of the Community and War Fund, Clarence B. Randall, campaign chairman, and Mayor Kelly, chairman of the fund's governmental section.

Tomorrow night fund workers will meet in the Chicago arena for the kickoff meeting of the campaign, which starts Oct. 2 with a goal of $12,980,000. The Bob Hope radio show will present an hour's program as its part in launching the drive. Hope's radio broadcast the same night will launch the national drive from the Eighth street theater.

The fund raises money for the national fund thruout Cook, Du Page and Lake counties to support the U. S. O., War Prisoner aid, United Seamen's Service, and 18 allied relief and refugee rescue agencies. In Chicago, funds also are raised for the Community fund and the Jewish Welfare fund.

Admiral Urges Nation Maintain Present Navy

Hartford, Conn., Sept. 24 (AP).—Rear Adm. Thomas L. Gatch declared today that maintenance of the fleet after the war's end would insure that "no future Hitler or Tojo would ever get beyond building anything more threatening than a rowboat." The navy's judge advocate general, in an address at the Hartford veterans' service center, said he did not advocate "a militaristic nation," but asserted that "if all the world understood our fleet would be used before, and not after, a series of Munich conferences, the following of any future Hitler would be limited to a few would-be suicides."

Boy Slain by Companion with Birthday Gift Gun

Wallace Harrison Bulger, 14, of 2020 Grove st., Glenview, was shot dead last night by Richard Shea, 15, who was displaying to Bulger and another boy a .22 caliber rifle he had received as a birthday gift last week. Police said the three boys were in Shea's home at 2023 Fir st., in the suburb. Young Bulger, son of Thomas M. Bulger, publisher of a specialty salesman's magazine in Chicago, was pronounced dead at Evanston hospital.

HIGHWAY POLICE SEIZE FIVE IN 4 GAMBLING RAIDS

A series of four raids, including one in Chicago Heights and three in Calumet City, conducted by Chief John McGinnis and the sheriff's highway police, resulted in the arrest Saturday night of five men on a charge of gambling. Two slot machines and $71 in cash were confiscated.

Henry Spence, 45, of 1432 Wentworth av., and William Cane, 35, of 1235 Wentworth av., both Negroes, were arrested as keepers of a gambling establishment at 1442 Wentworth av., Chicago Heights. Chief McGinnis said draft cards of 100 Negro patrons were examined.

In Calumet City, proprietors of two taverns were arrested and booked as keepers of gambling establishments. They were David Keller, 41, of 100 State st., where $45 was confiscated, and George Barton, 34, of 18 State st., where $26 was taken. Patrons were playing bingo and shooting craps, McGinnis said. Richard Redd, 40, Negro, of 112 Plummer av., Calumet City, was booked as a keeper of gambling devices after the slot machines were found in his establishment. All five were released on $100 bond each and ordered to appear Wednesday morning in court at the Homewood police station.

GAS DISAPPEARS SO OWNER SETS TRAP IN GARAGE

The evaporation of gasoline from the gasoline pump Stanley Najdowski, 46, of 3443 Irving Park rd., a coal and fuel oil dealer, keeps in his garage at 3960 Elston av., was something terrific.

So Saturday night Najdowski hid in the garage and waited.

At 4 a. m. some one unlocked the back door and drove a car in. Najdowski seized Elmer Lepley, 23, of 745 Gordon ter., a former employe. Just then John Munson, 32, of the same address appeared and began to plead for Lepley. Najdowski chased him out.

He took Lepley to the Albany Park police station, where police discovered that Lepley was carrying a .32 caliber pistol. That aroused their interest so they went to the Gordon ter. address, where they found Munson. They also found a .32 caliber pistol under a bed. They took both to the station, where Lepley and Munson were held without charge.

FARMER SLAYS SON, BEATS 3 AND KILLS HIMSELF

Woodburn, Ore., Sept. 24 (AP).—Louis B. Bauman, 47, a farmer, shot and killed his son Carl, 16, in bed early today, fractured the skulls of three other children with an 18-inch iron bridge bolt and then shot himself to death following a series of family quarrels, Police Chief D. S. Coyner said.

The children—Betty, 15, Margaret, 14, and Donald, 8, were taken to a hospital in critical condition. Margaret made her way to a neighbor's home and reported the tragedy, then collapsed.

The mother has been working in Salem since Sept. 7, Coyner said. A third son is in the army and a fourth in the navy.

MRS. WHITNEY, FIRST LADY OF TURFDOM, DIES

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney, 68, one of the nation's wealthiest women and often called the "first lady of the turf," died today at New York hospital. She was the widow of Payne Whitney, who left an estate valued at nearly $250,000,000 when he died in 1927.

Mrs. Helen Whitney.

Mrs. Whitney was a daughter of John Hay, once a secretary to President Lincoln and secretary of state under President McKinley. She was the author of 12 books of verse but in recent years devoted most of her time to her Greentree stables. Famous horses which ran under her colors included Twenty Grand and Shutout.

With Mrs. Whitney at her death were her daughter, Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, and her daughter in law, Betsey Cushing Whitney, former wife of James Roosevelt. Her son, Col. John Hay [Jock] Whitney, recently escaped from the Germans in Italy after being captured.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

RATHJE LIKELY CHOICE AS A.B.A. VICE PRESIDENT

Bankers Will Open Meeting Today.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Frank C. Rathje of Chicago is expected to be picked as vice president of the American Bankers association at the convention which opens today in the Stevens hotel. The post for which Rathje is slated will put him in line for succession to the presidency of the organization a year hence.

Frank C. Rathje.

As pre-convention conferences continued yesterday Rathje's backers were confident that he would be the choice of the nominating committee which will make its formal report tomorrow. The report will be acted on Wednesday by the convention.

Once Headed Illinois Bankers.

Rathje is president of the Mutual National bank and the Chicago City Bank and Trust company. He has been a prominent figure in Chicago banking and civic life for many years and is a former president of the Illinois Bankers association.

Charles B. Enlow, president of the National City bank of Evansville, Ind., also is a candidate for the post of vice president. His backers indicated last night, however, that Rathje had enough support to win. Taking office as president of the association at this week's convention is W. Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City bank of New York, who now is vice president of the A. B. A.

Plans are expected to be announced at the conclusion of the convention for the formation of credit pools in different sections of the country designed to make available ample credit for small and medium sized business enterprises.

Plans to Be Laid Thursday.

A Chicago bank pool will be formed with substantial funds to meet every "legitimate demand" for credit from small business, it was reported. A similar group is being formed in New York. The credit program will be discussed at a meeting Thursday, the day after the convention ends. The meeting was called by Robert M. Hanes, former A. B. A. president and chairman of the association's commission that has been studying the credit problems of small business.

A reception for delegates was held yesterday afternoon in the Stevens hotel. Attendance at the convention is expected to exceed 3,000.

NEW CONVENTION BUREAU TO HELP BOOST CHICAGO

A change in the status of the Chicago convention bureau from a department of the Chicago Association of Commerce to an independent organization was announced yesterday by Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Association of Commerce, and Sherman J. Sexton, who will head the new bureau as president.

The change will be effective Oct. 9, when the bureau will open offices at 33 N. La Salle st. with William J. Hennessy as managing director. The move came as a result of expanded plans for promoting Chicago as the ideal site for national and international conventions after the war.

The Association of Commerce, thru its visitors' bureau, will continue to provide information for those who come to Chicago in connection with conventions or at other times.

Study Shows Special Credit Outook Good

New York, Sept. 24 [Special].—Prospects for post-war recovery in the war time restricted field of specialized consumer instalment credit are favorable, a survey indicated yesterday.

At the time of Pearl Harbor this credit field was a billion dollar industry and agencies within it were among the most profitable financial corporations in the country, said the study. War time regulation of consumer credit and durable goods shortages, have reduced the industry by two-thirds.

Loan Increase Expected.

The study, prepared by the National Bureau of Economic Research in coöperation with the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, said the reduction is only temporary, and the volume of outstanding loans is expected to exceed the pre-war figure of 6 billion dollars within a few years after the war.

The various specialized credit agencies include sales finance companies, personal finance companies, and industrial banks and credit unions, said the study's author, Dr. Ernst A. Dauer of the research staff of the FDIC.

Sales finance companies accounted for about one-third of the outstanding consumer credits prior to the war, he said. Their operations, altho subject to seasonal fluctuations and extreme cyclical movements, have been maintained profitably even in depression years.

Reports Higher Earnings.

Personal finance companies, second in the volume of loans made, had higher earnings because of higher customer charges. Industrial banks and credit unions enjoyed a high degree of stability, while the latter had the lowest operating costs because they operated only within their membership, he said.

More favorable results were reported by these specialized agencies than by commercial banks, which did not enter this type of business to a large extent until the 1930s, Dr. Dauer said.

From 1929 to 1941 income of the commercial banks averaged 4 per cent of total assets, against 10 to 30 per cent for the specialized agencies. Dividends were 80 per cent of net profits for the specialized agencies, compared with 60 per cent for the banks.

STERLING DRUG.

We wish information on Sterling Drug, Inc. What dividends have been paid in the last few years?—B. S.

Sterling Drug, one of the largest manufacturers of household remedies and other proprietary products, has a comparatively stable earnings record, altho net income in the three years ended with 1943 was below the average of earlier years. The decline was the result of an increase in income taxes.

From 1934 thru 1941 the regular dividends were at the annual rate of $3.80 a share, supplemented by extra payments in three of those years. During 1942 the rate was cut to a $3 annual basis, which has since been maintained.

Profits continued in excess of the former dividend, and the reduction in payments was attributed to the necessity of carrying much larger inventories under war time conditions.

Earnings per share in 1943 were $4.46; 1942, $4.05; 1941, $4.97. In the five preceding years the average was $5.19. The profit in the first half of 1944 was $2.57 a share, against $2.25 a year ago. Outstanding were 1,750,666 shares of $10 par. There is no funded debt. Net working capital at the end of 1943 was $19,370,842.

CONGRESS GROUP TO HEAR LAND ON SHIPPING FUTURE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Rear Adm. Land, chairman of the war shipping administration and maritime commission, will be the first witness when a house subcommittee on foreign trade and shipping opens hearings tomorrow on the foreign trade and shipping outlook for this country.

Chairman Worley [D., Tex.] said today his group, a part of the house committee on economic policy and planning, will question officials of the commerce department, the foreign economic administration and the tariff commission.

Employment Dips, Pay Rolls Rise in Illinois

Employment in Illinois decreased 0.5 per cent from July 15 to Aug. 15, but pay rolls increased 1 per cent, the Illinois department of labor announced yesterday. The statistics were based on reports from 6,816 establishments employing approximately 35 per cent of the non-agricultural employes in the state.

A similar fall and rise were recorded for the Chicago metropolitan area but the downstate area was ahead in both pay rolls and employment. Employment rose 0.2 per cent and pay rolls 2.3 per cent downstate, but in the metropolitan area employment dropped 0.9 per cent and pay rolls increased 0.5 per cent. In Chicago employment dropped 1 per cent and pay rolls 0.3 per cent.

Affected by Industrial Trend.

"The diverse trend in many city areas in which decreased employment and increased pay rolls were reported is accounted for by the general downward trend in industrial activity accompanied, however, by larger wage payments in August because July pay rolls reflected shorter work schedules accompanying holiday and vacation periods," Robert L. Gordon, acting state director of labor, said.

"The current changes in employment and pay rolls were less favorable than seasonal expectations. In the last 21 years average increases of 2 per cent in employment and 3 per cent in pay rolls have been shown for reporting manufacturing companies. A substantial part of the current July-August reduction in employment occurred in the metals and machinery group of industries, some of which reflects cutbacks in war production contracts."

Decline Continues 8th Month.

Discussing the Chicago statistics, Gordon said employment for the sample group of companies reporting each month has declined for eight consecutive months.

"To a large extent, the declines have reflected the tight labor market situation making it impossible for many industries to replace workers who were inducted into the armed forces or took jobs in other states and industries," he said. "Larger total wage disbursements were shown for all important industrial groups except paper goods, printing and publishing, wholesale and retail trade, public utilities, and construction and contracting firms."

Fewer than 20,000 New Cars Left in Ration Pool

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (AP).—Only 3,000 new passenger cars, the same quota as in September, will be available for rationing in October, the OPA reported today. It said the country's remaining supply of new automobiles is below 20,000.

Am. Car & Foundry Plant Walkout Ended by CIO

Berwick, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP)—A walkout which has kept 8,000 workers of the American Car and Foundry company plant idle since Friday was ordered ended today by the United Steel Workers [CIO]. Leaders of the walkout had charged discrimination in methods of awarding vacations. Under a settlement reached today, union officials said, vacations will be determined by seniority rules like those that govern other employment regulations. The company said it never planned to do otherwise.

SEC ASKS HELP IN WAYS TO KEEP INVESTORS SAFE

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 24 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission announced today that it has invited representatives of stock exchanges and investment and securities organizations to an Oct. 3 conference on ways and means of safeguarding post-war investments.

James A. Treanor Jr., director of the trading and exchange division, said the conference will hear the securities industry's views on the promotion of a joint educational program to "reduce the public's vulnerability to unscrupulous promoters and securities salesmen."

Among the groups invited are the National Association of Securities Commissioners, the National Securities Exchanges, the board of governors of the National Association of Securities Dealers, the Investment Bankers Association of America, and the National Association of Better Business Bureaus.

Individuals' savings today "have reached totals which heretofore had never even been approached," Treanor said in a letter to the organizations.

WE take a genuine interest in the small business man. We talk his language and know how to handle his account with understanding.

We welcome small accounts . . . big accounts . . . and accounts in between
